DROP CHARGES AGAINST EDITOR FOR GAS EXPOSE

Bared Democrat's 'C' Card Jaunt.

Princess Anne, Md., April 14 [Special].—A criminal libel indictment returned by a county grand jury against Rives Matthews, editor of the weekly Somerset News, after he had exposed a high Democratic politician's 1,500 mile motor jaunt with rationed gasoline, was ordered nolle prossed today by State's Atty. Harry C. Dashiell.

Rives Matthews.

The action was hailed as a complete vindication of the young country editor and the right of a free press. Furthermore, Matthews' expose was credited with causing an overhauling of the system of operating state cars in Maryland and the saving of thousands of gallons of gasoline for war purposes.

The case had been set for trial next week. Dashiell said he ordered the charges dropped because the chief prosecution witness, State Controler J. Millard Tawes, the Democrat accused by Matthews, had told him the case had "gone far enough and in the public interest the prosecution should end."

Arrest Follows Criticism.

Matthews criticized Tawes in articles in his paper last year after the state official had violated the pleasure driving ban by motoring to Georgia in a state owned automobile to attend his son's wedding.

Nation-wide attention was attracted to the case when the editor was arrested on June 8, 1943, on a criminal libel warrant sworn out by Prentiss W. Evans, who was state's attorney at that time. Three days later Tawes submitted a statement to the state office of price administration admitting the use of "C" card gas for the trip.

Altho Tawes' home town ration board exonerated him in a 12 minute hearing, the OPA later revoked both his official and personal gasoline rations but gave him the right to apply for official rations. The grand jury's libel indictment was returned against Matthews last Sept. 28.

Evans, who obtained the indictment against Matthews, now is in the army. Prosecutor Dashiell's action in ordering the case nolle prossed means that an entry is made on the record denoting that the prosecution or plaintiff will proceed no further with the action.

Matthews Voices Satisfaction.

Matthews, 37, a native of St. Louis, Mo. expressing satisfaction with his "vindication," said:

"I am very grateful that on the eastern shore politics don't prevail all the time. It shows there are good Americans, even in Mr. Tawes' neighborhood, because this thing is the result of public opinion—public opinion kept this thing from going to trial."

The editor has filed for the Republican nomination for the United States senate seat now held by Sen. Tydings [D., Md.]. He said his $270 filing fee was donated by 270 persons.

Tawes Escapes Questioning.

Elisha Hanson, chief counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers' association, who participated in Mathews' defense, said he thought the prosecutor showed excellent judgment in nolle prossing the case.

"Had the case gone to trial," he said, "Controler Tawes would have been the principal witness for the defense. I had directed that subpenas be issued commanding him to appear and testify as to his misuse of gasoline coupons rationed to the state of Maryland for public use.

"I had also asked that subpenas be issued to the state director of the OPA in Baltimore requesting him to appear and produce the entire file relating to Controler Tawes' misuse of gasoline coupons. I had also directed that subpenas be issued to the members and former members of the local ration board who excused Mr. Tawes in the first instance."

Aussies Seize Bogadjim and Push on North

ALLIED HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, April 15 [Saturday]—(AP).—Australian troops captured Bogadjim on Thursday and are in contact with enemy patrols on the road to the Japanese supply base at Madang, 18 miles to the north along the coast.

The Australians entered Bogadjim without resistance and captured some abandoned equipment, Gen. MacArthur's war bulletin said.

Advanced units of the American 32d division, which had come up the New Guinea coast while the Australians advanced from inland, were reported several days ago to have made a junction with the Aussies, but there was no report that the Americans had entered Bogadjim with their allies.

Two Pronged Drive by Aussies.

The American division landed at Saidor to the southeast last Jan. 2. Meanwhile the Australians were pushing up the Huon peninsula coast and farther inland were driving north in a two prong movement from Lae, which the allies captured last September.

Australian coastal units joined with the Americans south of Saidor early last February, ending the Huon peninsula campaign. The inland Aussie force continued its progress up Ramu valley to the junction below Bogadjim with the American units which had come up from Saidor.

Bomb Wewak and Rabaul.

Madang was a potent enemy supply and air base during the early stages of the Huon campaign and Bogadjim was its principal southern outpost. Allied bombers and fighters hit both places frequently, and the pilots later reported they believed the Japanese had abandoned Madang, after the enemy's defeat on Huon peninsula.

Allied aircraft, which have been hammering other Jap strongpoints along the New Guinea coast northwest of Madang, smashed at Wewak with 250 tons of bombs.

Solomons based planes again attacked Rabaul, New Britain.

Other MacArthur bombers raided the Japanese base at Wakde, an island 110 miles west of Hollandia.

Kimmel Trial to Wait Peace, Knox Denotes

Washington, D. C., April 14 [Special].—Secretary of the Navy Knox indicated today that, so far as his department is concerned, the matter of bringing to trial Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel in connection with the Pearl Harbor fiasco will be postponed until after the war, despite a congressional deadline set for June 7.

He said naval officers cannot be called back from war fronts to participate as witnesses in any court martial proceedings growing out of the Japanese attack on Hawaii on Dec. 7, 1941.

Many on Duty at Sea.

Knox had asked Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, to advise him whether the officers would be available if a court martial should be convened to hear charges against Kimmel. Kimmel and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, both now retired, were the respective navy and army commanders at Hawaii at the time of the attack.

The secretary said King replied that "about half the officers listed are on duty at sea in command of forces engaged with the enemy and in accordance with planned operations, and others at sea are performing duties on the staffs of those commanders."

Congressmen Skeptical.

Congress last December extended to next June 7 the two year statute of limitations in the cases of Kimmel and Short. Senators repeatedly have urged that the trials be held before that date and have expressed considerable doubt that the commanders can be prosecuted after that deadline despite waivers.

Secretary of War Stimson recently commented that his department stood pat on its previous attitude in the case of Short which, a spokesman said today, is in agreement with the navy on the course being followed, apparently to postpone any court martial proceedings until after the war.

DEWEY STINGS NEW DEAL IN ALBANY SPEECH

Compares F.D.R.'s, Good Government.

Albany, N. Y., April 14 (AP).—Gov. Dewey declared tonight that his 15 months administration of New York state has been dedicated to "genuinely competent and progressive" government in contrast to government "thru centralized burocracies issuing directives from a distance."

The governor, considered a heavy favorite for the Republican Presidential nomination altho he maintains he is not a candidate, also assailed sharply the federal government's handling of the soldier vote problem in a report of his own administration prepared for a statewide broadcast, and repeatedly drew a contrast between state and federal affairs.

Lauding New York's 1944 soldier vote law as "a simple, workable formula for soldier voting," Dewey asserted the state soldier ballot, listing national, state, and local offices, "will not be the blank piece of paper which was sponsored in Washington."

Voting Is Simple.

"Nor will it, as the national government tried to do, deprive the soldier of his constitutional right to vote for every office to be filled."

"Under this New York law, voting is simpler for a soldier in foreign service than it is for a citizen here at home," the governor continued, "and the honest ballots cast by real soldiers will not be canceled by the frauds which other proposals would have permitted."

Dewey, first Republican governor of New York since 1922, claimed a state administration "infused with new blood and new energy, filled with a spirit of teamwork between the legislative and executive branches, working in coöperation with each other, with the people of the state, and with the local units of government which are closest to the people."

Seeks Competent Government.

"We are striving, in other words," the governor said, "to establish and maintain a genuinely competent and progressive government — in sharp contrast with that type of personal government which talks fine phrases of liberalism while seeking to impose its will and its whims upon the people thru centralized burocracies issuing directives from a distance."

YANKS' TOMMY GUNS STIR UP A STEW OVER DEER

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

Naples, April 14. — The tendency of some American air force men to use tommy guns recreationally has caused some embarrassment to the allied control commission in region 5, which takes in Foggia and Compobasso, it was reported at the commission meeting today by Col. F. L. Whitley.

The area was well stocked with a small but savory kind of deer—and the use of tommy guns has resulted in truckloads of up to 24 deer being carted away to army messes.

The herd has diminished rapidly, and the colonel said that the air force has been asked to restrain its men on recreation from taking tommy guns with them.

STILL RUNNING, BUT NOT IN THE SAME DIRECTION

Judge Freed as Defendant with Chaplin

Los Angeles, Cal., April 14 (AP).—Police Judge Charles Griffin of Beverly Hills was eliminated today as a defendant in federal indictments accusing him and six others, including Charles Chaplin, former comedian, of conspiring to violate the civil rights of 24 year old Joan Berry.

United States District Judge J. F. T. O'Connor sustained Judge Griffin's plea in bar contending that the federal court had no jurisdiction over his official acts. Assistant United States Atty. James Carter said the decision was the first of its kind in any federal court.

Cites Some Aged Laws.

The conspiracy indictments allege that the defendants forced Miss Berry to leave Beverly Hills in January, 1943, following her arrest on a vagrancy charge subsequently dismissed. She was given probation on condition that she remain away from Beverly Hills.

Judge O'Connor declared that to uphold the government in its effort to prosecute the police judge would destroy the independence of the judiciary. He cited cases, some of them 150 years old, wherein it was held that a judge could not be the object of a civil suit because of his official actions.

Chaplin Not Affected.

Judge O'Connor said his ruling as to Judge Griffin has no effect on Chaplin and the other defendants in the conspiracy indictments, who have filed demurrers.

Counsel for three other defendants announced pleas in bar would be filed on behalf of Capt. W. W. White, Lt. Charles Marple and Matron Jessie Reno of the Beverly Hills police force.

Chaplin was acquitted April 4 of a Mann act indictment charging that he transported Miss Berry to and from New York City in October, 1942, for immoral purposes. In a civil suit filed by the young woman's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Berry, the actor-producer is accused of being the father of Miss Berry's 6 months old daughter, Carol Ann.

Canada Gives Up Special Rights in Pact with China

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 14.—Following the example of the United States and Britain, Canada has concluded a treaty with China for the relinquishment of extra-territorial rights and other special privileges. Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King said that after the war Canada and China plan to enter into a treaty of friendship, commerce, navigation, and consular rights.

GEN. VATUTIN, MAN WHO LED RED ARMY BACK INTO KIEV, DIES

LONDON, April 15 [Saturday]—(AP).—Gen. Nikolai F. [Lightning] Vatutin, Russian commander whose armies had a large share in expelling the German invaders from his Ukraine homeland, died last night in Kiev after an operation, the Moscow radio announced early today. Vatutin, who was in his early 40s, was relieved of his command early in March due to illness which preceded his death, the exact cause of which was not disclosed. He was succeeded by Marshal Gregory Zhukov.

Gen. Nikolai Vatutin.

Vatutin had done notable work in all three of Russia's big winter offensives, at Vyazma in the repulse of the 1941 German effort to take Moscow, at Stalingrad during the 1942-'43 disaster inflicted on the Germans, and in last winter's great westward drive across the Ukraine. He led soviet troops back into Kiev, capital of the Ukraine.

A monument will be erected to Vatutin in Kiev, the Russian announcement added.

'Ike' and G. I. Talk of Folks Back on Farm

LONDON, April 14 (AP).—Gen. Eisenhower laid aside the desk work of the western front for 20 minutes the other day to mull over the army, wheat, and Abilene, Kas., with a G. I. from his home town.

The soldier, Pvt. Walter J. Thorpe, 23, an air force mechanic on furlough from Northern Ireland, walked into headquarters and quietly announced to a barrel chested M. P., "I'd like to see the general if he's not too busy."

Ten minutes later, after a flurry of buzzer-pushing and inspection of Thorpe's papers, the four star general stepped out of his office and with a broad smile said, "So you're from Abilene? Come on in."

"Met Him Before."

"I'd met him before while working on his brother's farm in Kansas," Thorpe said later — after he had recovered a little from the excitement.

"The general asked me how I liked the army and how long I'd been stationed in Northern Ireland. He noticed I wasn't wearing any stripes and asked how many months I'd been in the army. I told him two years and explained I had missed out on a technician's rating back in the states.

"We talked quite a bit about Kansas wheat and farm folks we knew back in Abilene. Twenty minutes later I figured I'd taken up about enough of his time, so I got up and got ready to leave.

"Then I thought about those guys in my hut and I asked the general whether he'd write me out something to prove I actually had seen the supreme commander of the allied forces.

Now He's Got Proof.

"He actually wrote me a note and told me, 'I'm glad you came to see me and if you're here again drop in. You're always welcome.' Then he shook my hand."

Armed with a memorandum on stationery of "the commanding general, European theater operations, United States army," Thorpe went happily back to his base. The note read:

"Dear Thorpe:

"I'm delighted that, as a fellow citizen of Abilene, Kas., you called at my office to see me today.

"Sincerely,

"Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Law and Rules Forbid It, Say City Officials

Secret organization during the last month of 820 Chicago policemen, including two captains, into a labor union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor was disclosed last night by Lt. Charles A. Anderson, of the Irving Park district. He said he is president of the new local.

The union has been chartered by the AFL as the Chicago and Cook County Law Enforcement Officers' union, local 785.

"We began organizing on March 20 and kept it quiet until we had built up a membership," Anderson said. "All policemen from Commissioner Allman down are eligible. Dues are $1.50 a month, and there will be no initiation fee for another 60 days."

"Organization Gives Prestige."

He said the union will not ask for more pay "for a while." "We are interested in the social, moral, and economic welfare of the members, and they must be educated first to let the public know they are worth more," he said. "The firemen have a union, and so do lawyers, teachers, and janitors. It gives prestige."

Union policemen assigned to strikes by other unions will "consider the public first," he said, "and will go thru picket lines if it becomes their duty."

City officials immediately expressed surprise and concern when advised of the organization. They recalled the history of other attempts to unionize police departments in Chicago and other cities, notably Boston, where Calvin Coolidge, then governor of Massachusetts, earned the national attention that brought him the nomination for the Vice-Presidency by quelling a police strike in September, 1919.

Last Union Stopped in 1903.

Rumors of attempted union affiliation of Chicago police have cropped up frequently in the department but the latest serious step in this organization was stopped by Mayor Carter Harrison in 1903.

Harrison, at the time, declared that, altho the police had the backing of the Chicago Federation of Labor, the thought of a police union was "absolutely repugnant."

Commissioner Allman was just as indignant last night when he heard of the new organization.

"I will have to look into it," he said. "It must be an exaggerated report, and I doubt whether the union has as many members as Anderson claims. The patrolmen have a social club, which has opposed almost to a man a suggestion to become affiliated with a labor union."

It's Forbidden, Prendergast Says.

Chief Prendergast of the uniformed force declared: "You can't be a good policeman when you line up with outside outfits." He said he believed any policemen who joined a union violated police regulations.

Capt. Frank Gill of the Irving Park district said he had not heard of the union headed by the lieutenant under his command. "Police can't organize a union without Commissioner Allman's permission, and I'll look into it tomorrow," he said.

Walter L. Gregory, chairman of the city civil service commission, said he had "no idea" whether the union is legal. "But as long as their conduct is becoming to police officers, it probably is no concern of the commission's," he added.

Predicts Legal Opposition.

The opinion of the city legal department, when it gives close study to the matter, will be that there cannot be a labor union in the po-

ARGENTINE RELATIONS CANNOT PLEASE ALL, PRESIDENT DECLARES

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 14 (AP).—President Edelmiro Farrell today said in an America day speech that "Argentine relations with some other countries of the continent are displeasing to our Pan-American sentiments" but expressed confidence his country's position would be appreciated in the future.

He spoke from the balcony of the ancient Town Hall, where representatives of the Argentine people decided in 1810 to demand independence from Spain.

"God will be just with us and we are convinced that truth, which is indestructible, will triumph in the end," he said.

COURT ENJOINS WARD PICKETS FROM VIOLENCE

Holds Lines to 42; Mob Unruly.

Judge John J. Lupe in Superior court issued a temporary anti-violence injunction against strike pickets at the Montgomery Ward & Co. buildings at 620-21 Chicago av. yesterday on the company's appeal after a police officer trying to control the pickets had called them an "unruly mob."

The court order limited the number of pickets to 42, of whom not more than 25 May picket the catalog and mail order plant on the north side of the street, and not more than 17 may patrol the offices and retail store on the south side. Pickets also were restrained from molesting workers, customers, or other persons passing thru their lines.

M. J. Meyer, an attorney for the Chicago local of the union, had requested Judge Lupe to postpone a ruling on the injunction petition until Monday, but he refused.

"Today is the day violence is being done, violence and bloodshed," Atty. Cecil Smith of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, counsel for the company, told the court in objecting to a postponement.

Calls Two Patrol Wagons.

More than 150 pickets swarmed about the plant's entrances yesterday morning, moving Capt. Thomas Harrison of the Chicago avenue district to a denunciation of their tactics.

"I think I am fair in saying this is an unlawful, unruly mob, and not a picket line," he told leaders of the union. "Either tell these pickets to let other people thru their line without molesting them, or a lot of you will be locked up."

Capt. Harrison called the station for two patrol wagons, to be parked at the scene.

The union leaders went into a huddle, then instructed the pickets to form two circles, allowing a passage for workers and customers.

Many Employes Work.

The strike followed refusal of the company to comply with a war labor board order to extend a contract with the United Mail Order, Warehouse, and Retail Employes' union [CIO]. Montgomery Ward executives contend the WLB lacks power to order an employer to enter into a closed shop contract.

Seventy-four per cent of the full time employes of the retail store have continued at work during the strike, and 48 per cent of the employes in the mail order department on Chicago av. and the Schwinn warehouse branch at Cortland st. and Lawndale av. worked yesterday, the company announced.

CHARGES VOTE SCHEME

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—Citing the strike in Chicago against Montgomery Ward & Co., as an example, Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.], charged in the house today that President Roosevelt's labor policy rewards CIO unions with special privileges in return for fourth term political support.

Hoffman challenged any member to dispute his conclusions concerning the results of New Deal labor agency rulings plus the support of Supreme court interpretations.

"The press carries reports of massed picket lines which are permitted by the administration to interfere with citizens on their way to jobs in the plants of Montgomery Ward & Co., in Chicago," he remarked.

Denied Right to Work.

"While the casualty lists grow abroad and additional thousands are called up daily to carry on the fighting for the four freedoms, men at home are denied their constitutional right to work to earn the wages which will preserve one of those freedoms—from want.

"Montgomery Ward is not engaged either in war production or war activity. It is carrying on a civilian mercantile business. Nevertheless, the war labor board has issued an order which would ultimately compel the employes of that organization to join a CIO union and pay dues and assessments.

"Some of the CIO affiliates are levying assessments of $1 each against their members, the dollar to go into a political fund, a part of which is to be used in support of the fourth term and New Deal candidates for congress.

"Involuntary Servitude."

"Employes, in order to hold their jobs, will in some instances be forced to contribute to a campaign fund to be used to elect candidates whom they oppose. To get the dollar, the employe must work. Analyzed, the procedure forces an American citizen to spend at least a part of his time in involuntary servitude to earn the dollar which the CIO political action committee may use in opposition to the employe's political views.

"The Supreme court last Monday held invalid a Florida statute on the ground that its enforcement would amount to involuntary servitude. But is not the man who, in order to hold his job, must pay an assessment to a union to promote a political campaign also subjected to involuntary servitude?

"Boiled down, this phase of the President's labor policy means that it is trading, thru administrative order and directive, special privileges to CIO unions in return for fourth term political support."

AVIATION CADET, INSTRUCTOR DIE IN TEXAS CRASH

Corpus Christi, Tex., April 14 (AP).—Ensign Harry Munroe Widener, U. S. N. R., instructor at Waldron field naval air training center, and Aviation Cadet Richard Lee Goodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Goodman, 801 Upper 11th st., Vincennes, Ind., were killed in the crash of a plane 15 miles from the center yesterday.

Widener, 26, formerly with the United States engineers at Mobile, Ala., is survived by his widow.

Two Killed on Training Flight.

Ontario, Cal., April 14 (AP).—Two army flyers were killed today in the crash of their plane during a training flight 10 miles southeast of the Ontario army air base. Officers identified the victims as 2d Lt. Francis L. Kitchel of Sheridan, Wyo., the pilot, and 1st Lt. William P. Tribbey, New Albany, Ind.

Believe Three Dead.

Key West, Fla., April 14. (AP).—An empty life raft and floating wreckage 15 miles off the coast were found today by planes from the Boca Chita naval air field searching for a missing trainer.

The navy announced three men in the wrecked plane were presumed lost and the next of kin notified.

They were Ensign William C. Hollweg, 19, Armada, Mich.; Harold L. Waites, Winchester, O., and Warren M. Turner, Oxford, O., both enlisted men.

MALONE DENIED SEPARATE TRIAL IN GAMING PLOT

Judge Harold G. Ward in Criminal court yesterday denied a motion in behalf of Capt. Frank Malone and Detective George Gore to be tried apart from John J. Williams, south side gambler, on a charge of conspiracy to injure public morals in connection with the operation of gambling places.

Attorneys for Malone and Gore pointed out that Williams, in his recent trial in which he was acquitted of taking part in the murder of Martin Quirk, admitted operating gambling places. Such testimony, they argued, was tantamount to a judicial confession and would be prejudicial to their cases. Their motion was opposed by Asst. State's Attys. Richard Austin and Alex Napoli.

The three defendants are scheduled to go on trial Monday before a jury. Austin indicated that James Egan, the state's chief witness in the Quirk murder trial, will not testify in the gambling conspiracy trial.

PHONE WORKERS AWAIT DECISION ON PAY PETITION

A promise that there will be no strike interruption of telephone service pending a decision on a new petition for a pay increase, was made yesterday by Charles H. Formby, president of the Illinois Union of Telephone Workers, whose 4,000 members employed by the Illinois Bell Telephone company, participated yesterday in the largest strike determination vote ever held in this area.

The pledge was given after filing of a union petition with the regional and national war labor boards, asking that the case be reopened and reconsideration given the order denying the members a $2 weekly pay increase.

Await Action on Petition.

Philip Marshall, vice chairman of the regional board, said yesterday afternoon that no action would be taken on the petition pending action by the national board. Edwin R. Hackett, union attorney, said the union officials had agreed there would be no work stoppage until a decision is made.

Voting began in five polling places in Chicago at 8 a. m. and continued until 7 o'clock last night, under the supervision of the national labor relations board. Downstate workers were polled by crews who traveled by automobile from city to city.

The ballots will be counted today in the Chicago offices of the NLRB in the presence of union and company officials.

Charge Unfair Practice.

Hackett addressed a letter of protest to George Botts, regional director of the NLRB, charging the telephone company with unfair labor practice. Hackett said the union voters, employed as construction, installation, and maintenance workers, had been interfered with prior to going to the polls. Company officials denied this.

The strike poll followed the labor board's fourth refusal to grant the pay increase, contending wages had been raised in January, 1941, to the limit allowed under the little steel formula.

S. C. GOVERNOR CALLS FOR BAN ON NEGRO VOTE

Columbia, S. C., April 14 (AP). —"White supremacy will be maintained in our primaries. Let the chips fall where they may," Gov. Olin D. Johnston shouted tonight to 170 members of the general assembly called here in extraordinary session to wipe from the state code all laws affecting primaries.

A subcommittee of the Democratic executive committee urged the governor to call the legislature, which adjourned less than a month ago, back into session when it appeared that more than 200 laws still on the statute books might—thru court action—require the Democratic party to permit Negroes to vote in primaries.

Johnston reviewed activities of a legislature containing a majority of Negroes in reconstruction days after the Civil war. "The records will bear me out that fraud, corruption, immorality, and graft existed during that regime that has never been paralleled in the history of the state," he said. "History will repeat itself unless we protect ourselves against this new crop of carpetbaggers and scalawags who would use the colored race to further their own economic and political gains."

UNION TO STEEL STRIKERS: WORK OR FORFEIT JOBS

Edict Sent to 180 Who Cut Output of 3,000.

Crane operators and expediters in the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's merchant mill in Gary were served with an ultimatum by a CIO official last night to end their wildcat strike immediately or forfeit their jobs.

About 150 of the 180 strikers whose unauthorized work stoppage has interfered with the production of approximately 3,000 other steel workers in the Gary plant gave no indication, however, that they would obey the edict of Joseph Goin, subdistrict director of the CIO United Steel Workers' union in Gary.

Vote Down Peace Proposal.

Goin issued his directive after the strikers, meeting in the union's district office in Gary, by a rising vote defeated a resolution proposing a return to work and a resumption of negotiations concerning the workers' demand for an upward adjustment in their standard hour incentive [bonus] plan.

Under Goin's order the strikers were obliged to report on the next shift they were scheduled to work. A foreman in the merchant mill reported at midnight that none of the strikers scheduled to report at that hour had put in an appearance.

"All who fail to follow these instructions will be ordered suspended by the local union," Goin warned. Under terms of an agreement signed by the union and the company in 1942, suspended workers would be subject to summary dismissal from their jobs, the subdistrict boss explained.

Reject Conciliator's Plea.

Commissioner Edward A. Egan of the United States conciliation service, whose appeal to the strikers to return to work likewise was rejected at the meeting, said Goin's action, supported by officers of the Gary local, No. 1014, was "the only action any responsible union could take under the circumstances."

It was reported that an appeal to return to their jobs also was communicated to the strikers by Rear Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district. It also was rejected.

The strike began last Wednesday after negotiations over the incentive plan adjustment had reached the stage of conference between company and international union officials.

Human Nature Has Its Say in Answer from Taxpayer

Topeka, Kas., April 14 (AP).—John Towle, tax assessor, thought he knew all the answers, but one of his citizens stumped him. One of the questions on the assessment blank: "Nature of taxpayer." The answer: "Very mean."

SEDITION TRIAL TO GET UNDER WAY ON MONDAY

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—In a session marked by heated verbal exchanges between opposing counsel, Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher of the federal court for the District of Columbia today removed all barriers to the start of the government's sedition conspiracy trial here Monday.

Selection of the jury that will hear the charges that Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago and 29 others conspired to aid in establishing a Nazi form of government in the United States is scheduled to start at 10 a. m.

Selection of the jurors may be delayed, it was said, by charges by J. Austin Latimer, attorney for George E. Deatherage and James C. True, that the federal bureau of investigation, "at the expense of the taxpayers," has investigated every prospective juror for the justice department in "a most unusual procedure."

Tempers Flare Up.

Defense attorneys said that if Latimer's charges are true, the entire panel should be dismissed. Justice Eicher agreed to hear a motion on the question Monday.

O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general directing the prosecution, was at sword points with attorneys for the defendants most of the day. Rogge opposed almost everything the defense attorneys asked.

Tempers flared when Rogge accused defense attorneys of failing to coöperate with the justice department in getting the defendants to trial. John W. Jackson, attorney for Gerald B. Winrod, told the court that Rogge's statement was "untrue and uncalled for."

Outlines Trial Details.

Justice Eicher at one point declared that "whenever the court can get the floor, it has some suggestions to make." He got the floor and revealed these arrangements:

1. The court will be in session for the sedition trial from 10 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., and from 1:30 p. m. to 4 p. m., four days a week. It will not be in session Friday, Saturday or Sunday.

2. Defense attorneys will make their opening statements and cross examinations in the order that the names of the defendants appear on the indictment. For the final argument, "if we ever get that far," the procedure will be reversed, Justice Eicher said.

Continuance Denied.

In clearing the way for the start of the trial, Justice Eicher overruled Winrod's motion for continuance and his motion for a separate trial, and denied an affidavit of bias and prejudice filed by Latimer for True.

Justice Eicher refused to rule on motions of Robert Edward Edmondson and Robert Noble to summon, at government expense, Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, who were in command at Pearl Harbor at the time of the Japanese attack there; Bernard Baruch, a Presidential advisor; Supreme Court Justice Frankfurter and others to appear as witnesses in their behalf.

He told defense attorneys E. B. Frey and James J. Laughlin that they may find as the trial progresses that these men will not be needed as witnesses.

REHEARING SOUGHT ON VALIDITY OF CITY COURTS' DIVORCES

Atty. Sol R. Friedman of Chicago, a divorce expert, filed a petition with the Illinois Supreme court yesterday for a rehearing of an opinion that city courts may grant divorces only in cases in which the cause has been committed within the territorial limits of the city in which the divorce is sought.

Friedman was friend of the court in a Circuit court annulment action brought by John F. Cullen, who contended that his marriage to Helen Stevens was void because she had been divorced in Calumet City tho the cause—desertion—occurred in Indiana. Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch dismissed the suit for annulment, but he was reversed by the Supreme court.

The higher court also held that persons seeking city court divorces must reside within the county in which the court is located. Friedman petitioned either a new hearing, or the remanding of the Cullen case so it may be appealed to the United States Supreme court.

Police Hunting a Brunette —and Ex-Sailor's $1,250

Robert Matthew Freeman, 32, of 1232 N. La Salle st., a recently discharged sailor, asked police yesterday to find an attractive brunette whom he met in a tavern and took to his room. She disappeared with $1,250 taken from his trousers.

WAR PRODUCES TWIN MARVELS: PLASMA, SULFA!

They Lead in Preserving Life at Front.

[This is the third in a series of articles telling how American army and navy medical corps are conquering disease and wounds.]

BY MARCIA WINN.

Ordnance power in this war is far heavier than in World War I. Wounds are larger, more gaping, more penetrating. Yet mortality among the wounded is the lowest in the history of warfare. In some theaters of combat, it is 50 per cent lower than that in World War I.

Partial explanation lies in the mobility of medical aid which follows the sinuous battle lines thru jungle and swamp, over mountain and desert, often with the front line troops, never more than 500 yards behind, equipped to X-ray, operate, amputate, resuscitate.

The wizardry of this mobile technique, evolved both for amphibious landings and rough terrain over the last 20 years, is a story of its own —a triumph of ingenuity, science, and packing. It is responsible for reducing the time lag between injury and first aid to an average of less than one hour, between injury and emergency surgery to less than 10 hours.

Tetanus Deaths Avoided.

In the use of tetanus toxoid lies another explanation. Tetanus, or lockjaw, was a serious cause of death in World War I. There have been no deaths from tetanus in this war. There have been few cases of it, because every American boy gets four injections of tetanus toxoid before he goes overseas. This gives him passive immunity and enables him to manufacture his own antitoxin. When wounded, he is given another, or booster, dose.

Countless other medical and surgical advances are contributory factors but the greatest of all is blood plasma. Next in value come the sulfanilamides.

Value of Plasma and Sulfa Drugs.

In all other wars, as in all injuries, shock and infection have been two chief causes of death. Blood plasma successfully negates shock and hemorrhage. The sulfa drugs combat infection. Where sulfa fails, penicillin may step in.

The role of penicillin still is inconclusive. The supply has been so small that the army is just starting to ship it to combat areas. Even this is limited by the fact that it must be refrigerated in transit when the shipping period is more than four days.

Its great value is that it is nontoxic and can be injected into the veins for hours at a time, injected into the muscles, or given locally. Already it is being used for infections, infected compound fractures, wounds, and cases of blood poisoning where sulfa and other methods are unsuccessful. It offers great promise in gas gangrene treatment.

Success at Pearl Harbor.

Army and navy surgeons, however, say forcefully that plasma is the most valuable single medical advance of the war. Shock formerly was the cause of death in 60 to 75 per cent of all fatal burns. Plasma counteracts this, as the United States quickly learned at Pearl Harbor, where it was used experimentally. The results there were so astonishingly good that the call for blood donors was accelerated and the army's needs tripled.

Plasma is the civilian's contribution to a soldier's life. In the last two years more than eight million pints of blood have been drawn in the United States and processed into plasma or albumin, a whole blood concentrate packaged in a vest pocket bottle that the navy and air borne troops use. Its mass production, with nine major laboratories processing the blood—a 28 day job with a 14 day lag to test sterility —now rivals that of the model T and is the largest medically controled laboratory project in American history.

6 to 12 Pints of Plasma Needed.

Contrary to popular belief, every man, or woman, who gives a pint of blood does not save a soldier's life. He often gives him just a hold on life, for a wounded soldier, sailor, or marine often needs as many as six to 12 pints. The routine wound requires from two to four pints. This fact, which was learned on the battlefields of Africa and the South Pacific, has caused the army and navy to change the bottling of plasma from pint to quart containers.

Any man back from a front line can give testimony as to its efficacy. At Tarawa, six bottles of plasma would be fastened to a single pole and six men given it at once. At Cape Gloucester, the marines, for obvious reasons, named one hillock Plasma ridge. In north Africa, 400 men burned by flaming oil were cared for between midnight and 8 a. m. by a medical unit with little equipment. But it had plasma, the beauty of which is that it can be given by any one who can hit a vein, and only four men died.

Whole Blood Also Given.

But plasma alone does not suffice, another fact known to relatively few civilians. Whole blood is necessary in addition to plasma for men who have lost quantities of blood, for cases of chronic infection, and for severe burns after the fifth day. This blood comes from the men fighting beside them, 6 per cent of whom give direct blood transfusions to the wounded, or from lightly wounded patients and troops in convalescent camps.

The senior medical officer of a cruiser which was pressed into service off Sicily to take on army wounded direct from the field of battle wrote: "Members of the crew . . . gave freely of their blood for transfusion purposes and others volunteered their blood in excess of what was needed . . ."

Every Fighter Blood Typed.

This is one of hundreds of similar reports.

"You hear an awful lot about plasma," said Capt. Warwick T. Brown, chief naval doctor at Guadalcanal, "but you don't hear much about whole blood. Plasma is a great thing, a life saver in the front lines, and answers most of the need, but you give the men blood transfusions, too, if they need it. You can't cut those things down to zero. That is why every one of our men is blood typed."

Sulfa drugs are a controversial subject. Military surgeons disagree as to their efficacy in local therapy; that is, applied directly on the wound, but all agree that they achieve miracles in preventing systemic infection and minimizing the spread of local infections when taken by mouth or vein. They are used, with marvelous effect, on almost every variety of wound, on bacciary dysentery and gonorrhea, curing the former in from five to seven days and 70 per cent of the latter in 10 days.

Crystaline Sulfa Abandoned.

Much has been written of the envelopes of crystaline sulfa every soldier carries with him to powder his wound. This has been abandoned. The army found that few wounded men are in a condition or position to care for their own wounds. If a comrade wishes to help a wounded man, he can reduce to powder one of the eight sulfadiazine tablets each soldier carries in a metal container. The container is so designed that one tablet can be released without spilling the others.

Sulfa now is carried in the first aid kits of all life rafts, together with morphine syrettes [a collapsible tube of morphine complete with sterile needle], boric acid ointment for the eyes, liquid petroleum for burns, and sea sickness tablets, the latter one of the medical discoveries of global war.

Taught to Aid Themselves.

Soldiers and marines are taught to aid themselves as much as possible until first aid comes. Their first aid kits, continually being revised and improved, vary with the theater, but all contain sulfa, a triangular sterile bandage that can be made into a tourniquet, and 12 chlorine tablets for purifying water. Also all contain foot powder and a vial for insect repellent.

Other medical advances include the bucket helmet replacing the saucer helmet of the last war, which, together with the fact that we no longer are fighting trench warfare, accounts for the decrease in head wounds; the use of tantalum, a biologically inert metal over which bone as well as soft tissue will grow, to repair bone fractures and skull injuries, and the use of spinal anesthetics, pentothal sodium [injected intravenously], and even continuous caudal anesthesia, the child birth anesthetic.

Leg and arm wounds account for 65 to 70 per cent of the wounds in all theaters, in this war as well as in the last. In this war, however, few are fatal. This may be attributed largely to almost immediate surgical care.

Pupil Slapping Case in Court

Charges Dismissed

Mrs. Frances Urbancek, music and mathematics teacher in Goudy elementary school, was freed yesterday by Judge Victor A. Kula in Domestic Relations court of the charge that she slapped the face of a pupil, James McDonald, 13, of 1215 Winona st. More than 100 pupils crowded into court to hear Mrs. Urbancek testify that she had clapped her hands in front of McDonald's face when he made faces during a music class on April 4. Three pupils testified for Mrs. Urbancek and three for the boy.

Washington, D. C., April 14 (AP).—Press Wireless, Inc., filed with the federal communications commission today an application for authority to establish a point to point telegraph station at Eau, Honolulu, Hawaii, to communicate with its Los Angeles, Cal., station. The application said the station would operate in public press service.

GUZIK KIDNAPING SEARCH CENTERS ON BANK ROBBER

Harvey Rogers.

While friends of Jack Guzik, gambling syndicate boss, who has been reported kidnaped, were said yesterday to be raising $50,000 ransom for his release, police were searching for several known toughs, including Harvey Rogers, ex-convict and ex-bank robber, for questioning in the case.

There was a report yesterday that Guzik had been released by his abductors. None of the reports was confirmed.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation was said to be watching developments. However, Spencer J. Drayton, FBI chief in Chicago, refused to comment.

Gangland lore credits Rogers, who is now about 43, with holding up—not once, but twice—the late William Skidmore, reputed gambling fixer, several years ago.

Pal of Slain Convicts.

Rogers also was suspected of robbing Joe Collucci, a west side gambler, and James [Big Jim] Martin, Negro policy king. Martin actually was kidnaped, held briefly for $50,000 ransom, and released on payment of a few hundred dollars. Rogers was acquitted by a jury of the Martin charge Nov. 10, 1941.

He was a known companion of Joseph Todd, who was murdered in Chicago in April, 1941, and of Thomas O'Brien, who was killed by police in Springfield, Ill., in July, 1941. Both were ex-convicts.

Rogers' crime career dates to 1921 when he was sentenced to 10 years to life for a $2,000 pay roll robbery. He escaped from Joliet penitentiary in 1926, and before his recapture held up banks in Crown Point, Ind., and Calumet City.

Guzik was reported taken from the car of his son-in-law, Frank Garnett, in Harlem av., four blocks north of Ogden av., Berwyn.

Guzik's Pals Unperturbed.

A man supposed to be Garnett immediately notified Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin, reputed ex-loop collector for Al Capone when Guzik was Capone's No. 2 man. Police have been unable to find Garnett.

Rumors indicated that Levin was the man the kidnapers probably would get in touch with eventually. Levin, reached in his apartment at 215 E. Chestnut st., said, "I haven't heard a word from any one."

One thing police observed with special interest was that friends of Guzik did not appear to be worrying over his fate.

"This can mean only one thing," a police detective said. "Somewhere down the line Guzik's pals have received word that he is in good health—for the time being."

Mrs. Guzik on Way Home.

Police predicted that a ransom demand, if made, will come today or at the latest tomorrow.

Guzik's wife and their daughter, Mrs. Garnett, who hurriedly left Miami by train Thursday night, were expected here today. The Guziks maintain a sumptuous home on San Marino Island, off Miami.

During the day city police picked up Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, Eddie Sturch, and James [King of the Bombers] Belcastro for questioning, but all denied knowing anything about Guzik's whereabouts. O'Donnell and Sturch were released without charges, but Belcastro was booked for disorderly conduct and released on bail.

Brother and Sister Hunted

Richard and Sally Donohue, missing from home, who were reported seen yesterday at playground. They vanished Wednesday.

2 LOST CHILDREN REPORTED SEEN FAR FROM HOME

Visit Playground and Bank During Day.

Anxiety over the safety of two children who disappeared after school Wednesday was relieved last night when two persons reported seeing them in the Hudson av. police district earlier in the day. A new search for them centered in that area.

The children are Sally Donohue, 7, and her brother, Richard, 8, who were living in the home of their grandfather, John Metz, 5725 Kerbs av. Their mother, Mrs. Fern Donohue, who had been visiting their stepfather, Sgt. John L. Donohue, at Camp Gordon, Augusta, Ga., was reported on her way home last night.

Seen by Playground Head.

Before definite word that the children had been seen, fear was expressed that they might have perished in the river which runs thru the Edgebrook forest preserve near their home.

Miss Mary Ramsay, 1804 Farwell av., notified police that she saw the children at 4 p. m. in the Adams playground, 1919 Seminary av., where she is the director. That point is some eight miles from their home. She did not know then that the children were missing. The boy identified himself as Richard Donohue and told her that he and his sister were visiting the park while their aunt was with friends nearby.

August Hennig, 2516 N. Kildare av., an employe of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, said he talked with the children four hours earlier in front of the Aetna State bank, 2375 Lincoln av. They were warmly dressed but their hands and faces were dirty and they inquired whether they could find a washroom in the bank. Hennig recognized them later in newspaper photographs.

Father Aids in Search.

The children's father, James Selwart, who was divorced from their mother three years ago, is with the army at Camp Grant. He was given a pass to come to Chicago to aid in the search.

Richard, 4 feet tall with brown eyes and hair, was wearing a brown sweater, blue shirt, blue denim overalls, and brown oxfords. His eyes are slightly crossed and he wears glasses. His sister, who is 3 feet 9 inches tall, has blue eyes and light brown hair. She was clad in a blue overcoat, red dress, brown oxfords, and red hat.

EXPECT TO FIX TAX RATE ABOUT MAY 1; BILLS OUT BY JUNE

Employes of County Clerk Michael J. Flynn reported yesterday they would be able to fix the 1943 tax rates for the city of Chicago about May 1. It is expected that tax bills will all be in the hands of taxpayers by June 1 and that the first penalty date will be July 1, the same as last year.

Flynn's men refused to hazard a guess as to the size of the rate, which is to be figured on the new full value system adopted by County Assessor Clark. In recent years Cook county real estate was assessed at 37 per cent of full value.

Douglas Sutherland, executive director of the Civic federation, who estimated several weeks ago that the tax rate would be $3.93 on the $100, said yesterday that there was a possibility it would be as low as $3.90. The latter figure is roughly the equivalent of last year's $10.42 rate as applied to the 37 per cent assessment, figuring out 4½ cents more on each $100 of actual value.

De Angelo Slaying Joins List of Unsolved Crimes

The murder of Vincenzo [James] De Angelo, 42, whose body was found in the trunk of his car in front of 1526 N. La Salle st. on March 13, was listed with other unsolved mysteries yesterday by police. Hudson avenue police testified at the inquest conducted by Eugene Engels, deputy coroner, that they have found no clews.

RUSSIA CORNERS AXIS TROOPS AT TIP OF CRIMEA

Red Army 18 Miles from Port of Sevastopol.

LONDON, April 15 [Saturday]—(AP).—With all except one-tenth of the Crimea liberated, two Red armies cornered thousands of German and Rumanian troops in a death pocket around the former Russian naval base of Sevastopol yesterday, Moscow announced early today. The Russians destroyed a German division of perhaps 15,000 men and ran their six day string of prisoners to 31,000. In the Black sea the Red fleet and its naval planes sank four boats jammed with axis infantrymen trying to escape.

The two armies under Generals Feodor Tolbukhin and Andrei Yeremenko joined forces for an annihilation of the trapped axis troops. They captured a town 18 miles northeast of Sevastopol. They also seized 500 other localities as they bore down on the big fortress where the Germans suffered 300,000 casualties in the 1941-'42 siege.

Advances 17 Miles.

Gen. Tolbukhin's army, capturing 300 localities, advanced 17 miles southwest along the railway from Simferopol, the Crimean capital. It also cut 25 miles southeast across the coastal mountains and captured Alushta, 16 miles northeast of the port of Yalta on the Black sea coast.

Aside from Sevastopol in the southwestern corner, Yalta is the last major enemy position.

Tolbukhin's troops also seized Saki, 35 miles north of Sevastopol in a 12 mile push down the coast from Yevpatoriya, which was captured on Thursday.

Tolbukhin's army captured 6,000 more prisoners Thursday for a total of 17,000. Yeremenko's independent coastal army driving in from the Kerch peninsula seized 5,000 the same day to make its total 14,000.

Capture Black Sea Town.

Yeremenko's troops occupied a town 25 miles east of Simferopol in an 11 mile inland gain, and also captured Sudak on the Black sea coast in a 16 mile advance.

The capture of Sudak by Yeremenko's troops and the simultaneous seizure by Tolbukhin's men of Alushta, 30 miles to the west, created another pocket for the axis troops caught between those two points.

The Red army also cleared the Germans from the eastern shore of the Dniester gulf southwest of the Black sea port of Odessa. The 1st Ukrainian army clearing the area north of the Dniester river below Tarnopol [old Poland] captured more than 40 populated places during the day.

The German high command said in its daily war bulletin, as broadcast from Berlin, that German and Rumanian troops were "putting up stiff resistance in the Feodosyia and Simferopol areas against the soviets who followed up their moves with mobile units and tanks."

Germans Report Gains.

Northwest of Jassy, in Rumania, the Germans said that axis troops gained "more ground, smashed up enemy forces, and brought back prisoners."

The Nazi bulletin said German and Hungarian troops also had advanced near Tatar pass on the Czech border and had hurled back the Russians on both sides of Brody, 50 miles northeast of the Polish communication hub of Lwow.

GERMANS CLAIM DRIVE ON REDS TO PROTECT OIL

Say They Are Using Reserve Materials.

BY P. E. BRIQUET.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHIASSO, On the Swiss-Italian Frontier, April 14.—The German army is launching a general offensive on the Russian front south of the Pripet marshes to the Black Sea, according to information reaching here today from Germany.

The Nazis are said to be using vast reserves of materials accumulated thru the total mobilization of industry and the importation of a large amount of foreign labor to the reich. It is reported that Hitler is playing his last card of the war against Russia without waiting for the allied invasion order in an effort to save the oil of Rumania and Galicia.

Press Makes Threat.

The Nazi press today said: "The Russians are about to feel the full power of the German army which will follow the many months of defensive tactics planned to spare men and material against the decisive day when being the strongest force will be of paramount importance.

"The soviets have made the same dangerous mistake that the Germans made at the beginning of the Russian campaign—that of minimizing the strength of their opponents. With the exception of Stalingrad the Russians never have succeeded in encircling an important German army. While the wehrmacht has suffered losses, soviet losses have been greater. Thus, some equalization must be expected some day. The German people's impatience is to be quieted soon."

Actual operations along the southern front—according to the German picture of the situation—show that the Nazi position is "rapidly improving."

Claim Break-Thru Fails.

"The Russian attempt to break thru the Germans' Rumanian defenses protecting Chisinau [Kishinev] in central Bessarabia, apparently has failed," said a German statement. "The active defense of Jassy has stabilized the front and the army even recaptured a number of places in the Jassy area [of Rumania]."

Outlined as the strongest point yet established is the position farther north where a German-Hungarian maneuver toward the south is indicated. Between Stanislau and Tarnopol in old Poland "a great offensive" has been launched toward the east.

"The forces [axis] besieged at Tarnopol have not been freed as yet and still are in great danger altho the wehrmacht has progessed south of that position," the Nazis said.

Nazis Report Time Bomb Found in Sistine Chapel

LONDON, April 14 (AP).—The Rome radio asserted today that a "very large" time bomb was found hidden in the Sistine chapel in Vatican City behind Michelangelo's famous painting, the "Last Judgment." The German-controled report said the bomb "looks of British origin and is very similar to other time bombs dropped to Balkan rebels by British planes."

ALLIES PROPOSE MILITARY RULE IN OCCUPIED LANDS

LONDON, April 14 (AP).—Russia has agreed with the United States and Great Britain on the principle of military government, after the war, for Germany and such satellites as choose to fight to the end. This was reported on high authority tonight.

An American-British-Russian plan for the handling of occupied Germany is now nearing completion, providing for an "allied military government with teeth in it." It makes Gen. Eisenhower the supreme authority in areas occupied by American and British forces, and calls for Russian military control over areas occupied by the Red army.

Other Details of Program.

Other details of the program as described by a highly placed informant, include:

The allied military government is to be used nowhere in Europe except in Germany and in the satellite nations loyal to Berlin to the end.

The Russians recently complained that they had not been taken sufficiently into consideration in early Italian affairs. They retaliated by giving the Badoglio government semi-diplomatic recognition without fully advising the allies.

All three powers have agreed, however, on a mutual settling of the problem of what to do with the enemy. This has been turned over to the European advisory commission to work out a joint plan.

Obtains Vast Control.

The United States and Britain have agreed to give Eisenhower authority to deal with all the countries entering his sphere of military command, which includes most of western Europe. The allied supreme staff hopes to work with the French, Dutch, and Norwegians on a straight liaison plan, letting each country handle its own affairs subject to the military necessities as seen by the supreme commander.

Eisenhower will have a vast direct and indirect control over the civilian life of all of Europe liberated by the allies until normal diplomatic channels are resumed.

Combat teams of military government officers are now being trained in Britain to handle every phase of German public life and to execute a complete purge of the Nazis when the allied armies enter Germany. It is understood that the Russians have agreed to the military government principle and are now training their own forces to work with the Red army in the zones assigned to it.

Directives Planned.

The plan as worked out by the European advisory commission is to be presented to Eisenhower and Red army commanders in the form of directives.

It is understood that the Russians have taken the attitude that under the terms of the Moscow agreement the European advisory commission is empowered to draw up such agreements. The Russians, it is said, maintain that they must be advised of any agreements the United States and Britain might make with powers other than Germany, such as Holland, Norway, and France.

As for Germany, there is no question of self-government for her. The allies are prepared to deal with a completely disorganized and decentralized country.

WAR TRIPLES HAITIAN PRICES, SAYS EDITOR ON VISIT TO MAYOR

Prices in Haiti have tripled since the start of the war, and there is an acute shortage of food and other essentials, Max L. Hudicourt, publisher of Du Nation, a daily newspaper in Port au Prince, said here yesterday.

He visited Mayor Kelly with his brother, Dr. Georges Hudicourt, a resident physician at Provident hospital, who acted as interpreter because Hudicourt speaks only French. Hudicourt will represent the Haitian government at the International labor council April 20 in Philadelphia.

Gasoline, the only item rationed in Haiti, flourishes in the black market at $1.40 a gallon, while the government has set a ceiling price of 40 cents a gallon, he said. Hudicourt has been a champion of Haitian labor, which he said is beginning to organize despite opposition from powerful financial interests. Unskilled Haitian laborers are paid approximately 30 cents a day, he said, while the cost of living is close to $15 a month. He asserted that large American companies had established monopolies in several fields with the assent of the government.

JAP-AMERICAN SOLDIER GETS 15 YEARS IN PRISON

Fort McClellan, Ala., April 14 (AP).—Pvt. Ben Ogawa, one of 28 Japanese-American soldiers charged with refusing to take infantry training, was convicted today by a court martial board and sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Six others have been convicted and given prison terms ranging from five to 30 years. An eighth defendant, Pvt. Harold C. Tsumehara, was placed on trial immediately after completion of the Ogawa case.

The 28 soldiers, members of a special battalion of second generation Japanese-Americans, are accused of violating the articles of war by refusing to obey their superior officers.

PEEPER LIMPS AFTER FOREMAN SHOOTS AT HIM

An unidentified peeping Tom apparently was shot last night in a trap set for him by Herbert Samuelson, 7149 S. Talman av., a district foreman for the Commonwealth Edison company. Samuelson had noticed the man peeping into a rear bedroom window three times during the last week and several times previously. Last night Samuelson turned on the bedroom lights, then hid in the basement, armed with a small caliber rifle. The man, about 19, appeared as expected. Samuelson fired at his legs. The man cried out, half staggered, then ran limpingly away.

YANKS DIVE OUT OF CLOUD; BLAST 50 NAZI PLANES

LONDON, April 14 (AP).—American Thunderbolt fighter-bombers made a spectacular attack on a German air field in northeastern France today to climax an historic week long, two way allied aerial assault on axis targets. R. A. F. Mosquito planes bombed Berlin last night.

The Budapest radio reported tonight that allied planes were over Budapest and Gyor, Hungary, indicating Mediterranean based forces were continuing the offensive.

The Mosquito and Thunderbolt raids from Britain last night and today were on a relatively minor scale, representing a tapering off of the massive blows begun last Saturday. During the week at least 13 German aircraft factories, 17 air fields, and 14 railroad centers were pounded.

The American Thunderbolts swooped out of a cloud bank over the air field in France so suddenly they caught about 50 aircraft on the ground and destroyed many of them. Fires were set as bombs burst among the Nazi planes. The raid was made without loss to the allies.

In the week's offensive, equalled only by the assault on the German aircraft industry from Feb. 19 thru 26, more than 15,000 tons of bombs were dropped and the Germans lost more than 700 aircraft destroyed or damaged.

234 Rumanian Jewish Refugees Reach Palestine

JERUSALEM, Palestine, April 14 (AP).—A group of 234 Rumanian Jewish refugees reached Haifa today, less than 10 days after a similar group of 240. They escaped from a labor camp north of the Dniester river, in the area ceded by Hitler to Rumania, and were taken by a Bulgarian steamer to Istanbul. The refugees include 160 boys and girls trained before the war for agricultural work in Palestine.

Estonians Told They Must Join Nazi Labor Service

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 14 (AP).—All 17 year old Estonians have been threatened with severe punishment if they fail to heed an order effective April 16 directing them to enlist in the German labor service, dispatches to the Helsingfors press said today. The dispatches said the youths were being signed up for one year's service in Germany.

BELIEVE SWEDEN WILL TURN DOWN ALLIES' REQUEST

British Await Reply from Neutral Nations.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 15 [Saturday].—The British government last night was awaiting replies from Turkey, Sweden and Spain to the requests made by the United States and Britain that they suspend the exports of raw materials or finished products to Germany.

Turkey was requested to stop or reduce exports of chrome; Sweden to suspend the supply of ball bearings, and Spain to put an end to the export of wolfram. These items are making it possible for Germany to prolong the war, according to the ministry of economic warfare.

Refusal is Forecast.

Sweden's refusal to heed the request was forecast following a statement by Foreign Minister C. E. Gunther. He expressed astonishment at the pressure used by the United States and Britain.

Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu of Turkey said yesterday: "We will, in the general direction of our foreign policy, aid the allies to the limit of our material possibilities."

This statement was interpreted to mean that Turkey might let the chrome agreement with Germany drop May 31. The United States and Britain previously had asked Turkey to remain neutral. It seems that the United States and Britain take the stand that Turkey does not need the war material which Germany is sending her in return for chrome because she is not entering the war and the allies now are able to protect her against Germany.

Compromise Hinted.

ANKARA, Turkey, April 14 (AP).—There were indications here tonight that Turkey will seek to compromise with the allies on the question of Turkish-German trade.

Allied officials in Ankara seemed to be ready to accept a compromise rather than to insist upon complete stoppage of Turkish trade with Germany.

The British and American notes were understood to be a joint undertaking, either identical or virtually so, asking the Turks in friendly manner to help the allied war effort by at least a material reduction in trade with Germany and German satellites.

Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt of the United States, Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, the British ambassador, and Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu are expected to leave within a few days for Istabul, center of Turkish trade and base for the bulk of shipments of chrome ore and other products to Europe. It is believed probable that there they will inaugurate concrete discussions for reducing Turkey's trade with Germany.

Confer with Spain.

Washington, D. C., April 14 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull today said this government has made its views known to Spain on the possibility that the Spanish government will seize oil stocks owned by American companies at Tetuan, Spanish Morocco. Hull said that so far the stocks have not been seized, contrary to London reports, but a general discussion on the subject with Spain is under way.

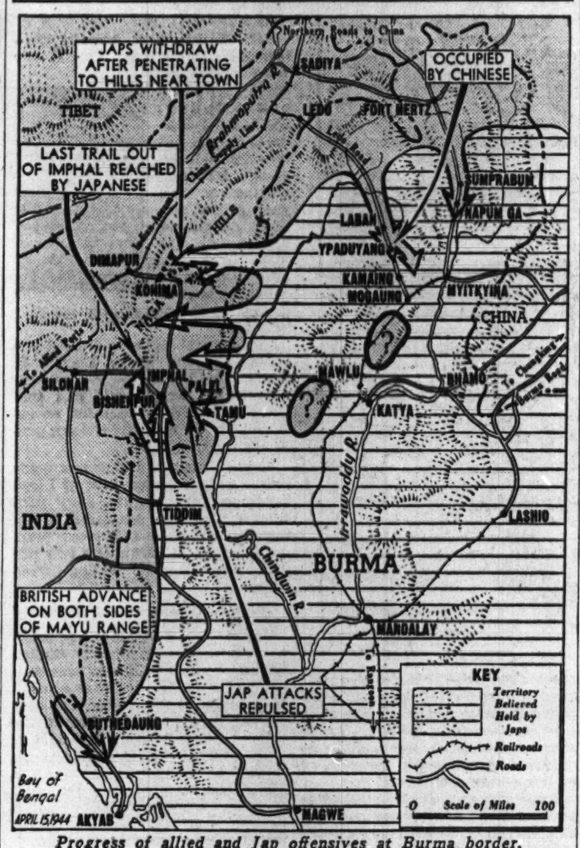
Japs Isolate Allied Base in India



Progress of allied and Jap offensives at Burma border.

IMPHAL CUT OFF AS JAPS PUSH TO ITS LAST 'TRACK'

Allies Cling to Indian Base's Outer Forts.

NEW DELHI, India, April 14 (AP).—Adm. Louis Mountbatten's British and Indian troops are holding firmly at the outer defenses of Imphal, India, and have repulsed Japanese invasion forces menacing Kohima the other key allied base 60 miles to the north, it was reported today.

The last "track" out of Imphal has been reached by Jap units infiltrating thru the jungles and mountains west of the besieged base, thus snapping the defenders' last tenuous link with other allied forces in India except by air.

Front dispatches said a dozen casualties were inflicted on Japanese troops which reached the Bishenpur-Silchar trail southwest of Imphal and that the Japs withdrew after penetrating into hills west and northwest of Kohima.

[A Berlin broadcast of Tokio dispatches said "annihilation of the enemy forces will be effected even before the rainy season commences," that Jap troops were within five miles of Imphal, and that the "outcome of the Imphal campaign will be the determining factor in the allied strategy in southeast Asia." Another German broadcast said Jap forces were only 10 miles from Dimapur on the Bengal-Assam railway, American operated supply line to the Burma front.]

Promises to Probe News Delay.

It was disclosed that Mountbatten paid a surprise visit to Imphal last Saturday, presumably by plane, and conferred with the commander of the city's large garrison. Informed by newspaper correspondents that there had been considerable delay in transmission of dispatches from India, the commander in chief promised to investigate.

Today's report from Mountbatten's headquarters disclosed Jap troops had been encountered on the "track" running from Imphal to Silchar, a railhead of the vital Bengal-Assam line, 70 miles to the west, thus completing the enemy's ground isolation of the big base.

Altho the Japanese had been reported within eight to 10 miles of Imphal on the north and northeast, they apparently were making slow progress in their drive from the Tamu area, 40 miles southeast of the base. Today's allied bulletin said an enemy attack had been repulsed in that area and 100 Japanese killed.

Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's 22d and 39th Chinese divisions were reported advancing against bitter Jap opposition in the Mogaung valley of northern Burma toward the enemy's major supply base at Myitkyina. Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's American Marauders pushed south of captured Napum Ga to the east.

'Chindits' Destroy Key Bridge.

Dispatches from Stilwell's headquarters reported engagements east of the Mogaung river, with his Chinese occupying Ypaduyang and Mungu-Gahtawng, southeast of recently captured Laban. Northwest of Wayazup the Chinese 22d division killed 80 Japs in an ambush and American infantrymen counted 210 enemy dead after recent actions.

Allied air-borne "Chindits" operating in central Burma behind the enemy's lines destroyed an important bridge, Mountbatten's bulletin said. British troops were reported to have advanced on both sides of the Mayu range on the lower Burma front and killed 700 Japs.

YANK JUNGLE FORCE SAVES TRAPPED U. S. MARAUDERS IN BURMA

WITH U. S.-CHINESE FORCES IN MOGAUNG VALLEY, Burma, April 13 [Delayed]—(AP).—Encircled units of Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill's Marauders have been relieved by other hard hitting all-American jungle fighters and tonight Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell declared it was a "damned good job—damned good all the way 'round."

The unit, surrounded by the Japs for eight days, was commanded by Lt. Col. George McGee of Denver. The relieving force was under Lt. Col. Charles Beach of Cincinnati. Beach's men had to fight up a series of slopes not wider than 200 yards. The Japs had dug in at each place where the trail came to a moderately level hogback. There Beach's men had to fight uphill. In clearing out half the Jap ring and holding the gap against several attacks, McGee's men killed 200 Japs. The enemy remnants then withdrew toward Mogaung.

REPORT FINLAND UNDECIDED ON ANSWER TO REDS

Washington, D. C., April 14 (AP).—A Finnish legation spokesman said today the legation has not yet been informed of what answer Finland has decided to give in response to Moscow's latest peace terms.

Other diplomatic sources expressed the view that Finland's chances for getting out of the war now appeared to rest on whether Russia is willing to make another revision of terms.

Report Finns Fear Coup.

STOCKHOLM, April 14 (AP).—The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter declared today that the Finnish government had been handicapped in its negotiations for an armistice with Russia because it "feared a coup" by the Germans and certain Finnish extremists. It declared the Germans dominate most of the vital airports in Finland, that they have supply depots at key points and are generally in position to take over the country in an emergency.

MY AIR FIGHTING DAYS ARE OVER, GENTILE SAYS

A U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, April 14 (AP).—Capt. Don S. Gentile, 23, America's top European fighter ace, may have trained his deadly Mustang guns on German fighters over Europe for the last time.

The Piqua, O., plane killer has been released from the hospital where he was treated for crash landing shock, it was disclosed today, but Gentile said just before he took off on the flight in which he was injured that it would be his last fighter mission. He long since has passed his second quota of missions. [The quota varies in different theaters and censorship does not permit it to be revealed.]

He had hoped to add three more Germans to his list of 30—23 shot down in combat and seven destroyed on the ground—to top the European record of 32 held by R. A. F. Group Capt. G. A. Malan.

Drops 3 Nazis to Save Pal.

A friend said today he probably would have topped Malan's record—he had three German fighters lined up "just like sitting ducks"—but he broke off and helped a companion who was in trouble. Then he was forced into evasive action himself by two German fighters.

The word that "Gentile is a charmed man" spread around the field when he walked away from the recent crash landing. A crash crew found him sitting on the wing of his torn plane Shangri-La in a plowed field.

Unerring coördination saved his life and probably the lives of 20 others gathered in front of the operations hut when Gentile's plane, coming in low from a seven hour flight, suddenly lost power.

How He Avoided Serious Crash.

His ship had touched the turf when he gunned it, pulled up over the flag pole atop the operations hut, cleared some tree tops, and put the plane down.

"In the some 50 seconds Gentile performed a score of operations with instinctive reaction. Among other things he leveled the ship, tried his 'chute—he found one buckle loose and in any case was too low to use it—nursed the engine, gauged the propeller revolutions, picked his landing spot, cut the engine to avert fire, and then brought Shangri-La down.

He had hoped to bring his fighter home with him for at least a month's visit.

Wants Career in Air.

Discussing the end of his operational fighter career, Gentile had told friends the night before the mission:

"I don't want to be a transport pilot but I sure want to keep on flying. I hope I can get into the business end of aviation after this war and then be able to take planes up everytime I want."

AMERICANS BOMB 3 KURILE ISLANDS; HIT 450 MI. FROM JAPAN

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, April 14 (AP).—The aerial offensive on the Kurile approaches to Tokio was carried thru its fourth straight day Thursday with strikes at Paramushiro, Shasukotan, and Matsuwa, Adm. Nimitz reported today. There were four attacks, making a total of 14 raids on the Kurile Islands in four days. Matsuwa is within 450 miles of Japan.

Adm. Nimitz also reported that on Thursday navy planes bombed Ulul, northwest of Truk in the Carolines; Pakin, west of Ponape, and Kusaie, also in the Carolines. Army and marine planes battered Ponape in the 13th daily strike of the month. One fighter made a forced landing but the pilot was rescued. Army, marine, and navy planes bombed and strafed four enemy held bases in the Marshalls. The only major Marshall atoll still in Jap hands are Wotje, Maloelap, Jaluit, and Mili.

Earlier in the day, it was announced that 7th army air force Liberators gave Truk atoll its 20th heavy raid Wednesday night. The bombers plastered five islands, encountering no air interception and only meager ground fire.

2 ARMY FLYERS ARE INJURED IN FORCED LANDING

Second Lt. Richard D. Riley and Corp. John Auker, addresses not given, were slightly cut and bruised yesterday when their army advanced training plane was forced down in a field at 133d st. and Carondolet av. They had left Scott field, near Belleville, but ran into bad weather and headed for Chicago. Lt. Riley was forced to make an emergency landing when the plane ran out of fuel. The landing was described as perfect, but brakage poor, and the plane nosed over. Damage was estimated at $300.

27 PLANES WIN MAJ. BONG TWO CASES OF LIQUOR

New York, April 14 (AP).—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker said today that during a visit to New Guinea he promised a case of Scotch to the first pilot in the area who broke his World War I. record and that Gen. MacArthur added a case of champagne. Maj. Richard I. Bong, credited with 27 enemy planes—Rickenbacker's record was 26 aircraft—has qualified for the reward, Southwest Pacific dispatches said today.

"Where I will obtain the Scotch or how I can get it to Maj. Bong is yet unknown," Rickenbacker said, "but I will not leave a stone unturned to fulfill the bargain."

[Two cases of Scotch were offered to Rickenbacker last night for presentation to Maj. Bong. They were tendered by Doug Thompson, St. Augustine, Fla., hotel man, and Demetrio Kyriakis, Nogales, Mexico, night club proprietor.]

He said the offer was made after he addressed combat pilots at Port Moresby, which he visited with MacArthur and Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, 5th air force commander.

"Gen. Kenney told the boys he would give the first pilot in that area who broke my World War I. combat record a bottle of Scotch," he said. "I immediately offered to make it a case of Scotch, and Gen. MacArthur added a case of champagne." Rickenbacker said that not only was he going to live up to the promise, but that he was sure the two generals would do the same.

Censorship Set Up in India Over Nonofficial Messages

NEW DELHI, India, April 14 (AP).—The government of India announced today establishment of censorship over nonofficial internal postal and telegraphic communications because India "has now become a major base for offensive operations against the Japanese." An official bulletin emphasized the need of airtight military security "in view of the increasing operational importance" of India.

INDICATES HEAVY ITALIAN SWITCH AGAINST F. D. R.

Labor Council Chief Hits at Communist Ties.

New York, April 14 [Special].—A veiled threat of political action by Americans of Italian descent against the Roosevelt administration was made today by Luigi Antonini, president of the Italian-American labor council, and vice president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union, in a statement denouncing "any American support to Communist inspired government coalitions in Italy or deals with the monarchists."

Warning that the "worst calamity" that could befall this country and Italy "would be to have an Italian coalition government including Palmiro Togliatti's Communists and their neo-Fascist travelers, Antonini said he had called a meeting of the labor council, which professed to represent 300,000 union members of Italian descent, for tomorrow.

Attacks Communist Schemes.

He declared that a resolution advanced by the council's executive committee would be the "starting point for a mobilization of American public opinion, including the 6 million Americans of Italian descent, to fight any policies favoring Communist or Fascist schemes in Italy."

Vanni B. Montana, secretary of the Italian Socialist federation on the war political emergency in Italy, supported Antonini's views in a statement and said the federation would hold an "emergency meeting" Monday night to review the situation.

Would "Quarantine" Reds.

The joint statements were issued in connection with the meeting of what Antonini called the "so-called Italian liberation junta," scheduled to be held at Naples tomorrow on the question of scrapping the present government and forming another on a broader base with communist participation.

Montana, who urged a "quarantine" of Italian Communists, said the south Italian leadership of the Italian Socialist party, reputedly abetting the Communist party in an effort to establish a coalition government, "does not reflect the overwhelming sentiment of all Italian democratic Socialists, nor are these people to be considered as the legitimate leadership of the Italian Socialist party. The southern Italian Socialist leadership is in the hands of fellow travelers and disguised agents of the Communist party."

YANK IMPERSONATES GERMAN OFFICER AND BAGS 3 ELITE GUARDS

WITH THE 5TH ARMY ON THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD, April 13 [Delayed].—(AP).—When Corp. H. Monash of the Bronx, New York, who fights with the combined American-Canadian combat group, impersonated an officer he ended by capturing three German SS men [elite guards]. The story of his recent exploit was told by Corp. G. O. Comstock of Oakland, Cal.

"Monash is a German-Jewish refugee, 20, who volunteers for every patrol," said Comstock. "On this particular night he was out by himself when he saw three dim shapes ahead.

"He told them [in German] to come toward him. They didn't move, so he snarled, 'Obey when an officer orders.' Sure enough, they obeyed. Monash pointed a tommy-gun at them and they were his."

ALLIES DOWN 36 NAZIS IN RAIDS; LAND WAR QUIET

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, April 14 (AP).—Allied Mediterranean airmen shot down 36 German planes yesterday in extensive operations, which included attacks on air fields and plants in Hungary, at a cost of 16 heavy bombers and three other aircraft, headquarters announced today.

On the land fronts there were only patrol and artillery engagements in one of the quietest days in months. On Wednesday anti-aircraft gunners at Anzio destroyed five of 40 or 50 enemy raiders.

Targets in yesterday's Flying Fortress and Liberator attacks were aircraft plants at Gyor and Duna and air fields at Vecses and Tokol, all within a 70 mile radius of Budapest. Lt. Melvin E. Wiedbusch of Melrose Park, Ill., flying his 13th mission of the month, scored his second victory in two days in the raids on Hungary. He was flying a Lightning.

Other air fleets hit the railroad yards at Brod in Jugo-Slavia, dock installations at Corfu and objectives along the Dalmatian coast. Italian railroad bridges and lines feeding the German front also were attacked.

LOSES $250 IN JEWELS.

Mrs. Helen Kim, owner of a florist shop at 6153 Broadway, reported to police yesterday that she had lost her purse containing jewelry worth $250.

HARDY U. S. HOSPITAL OPERATES IN A GARLIC FIELD ON ITALY FRONT

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ON THE MAIN 5TH ARMY FRONT, Italy, April 14.—They have pitched their tents in Tunisia, Sicily, and southern Italy in sheep patches and thistle and wheat fields and now the members of this field hospital unit are located in a garlic patch near the front. The odors do not bother them as they perform emergency surgery on wounded soldiers.

"We were the first American hospital unit to reach Sicily," said Capt. Edith W. Swaney, of Youngstown, O., chief nurse.

"And the same men follow us about," added vivacious Lt. June M. Wandrey of Wautoma, Wis. "I don't mean the same patients. I mean the same American officers. Only they seem to get promoted and we don't."

The nurses include Lieutenants Wilma J. Krueger, 1609 N. La Salle st., Irene B. Norkus, and Virginia J. Simon, 4830 N. Tripp av., Chicago; Mary E. Conway, 1635 Ridge av., Evanston; Rosemary C. Fink, Herrick, Ill., Esther P. Edwards, Kokomo, Ind., Bertha A. Miller of Watkins, Ia., Mildred E. Pedrick of Ripon, Wis., and Lucinda E. Graves of Indianola, Ia.

DE GAULLE GROUP PLACES GIRAUD ON RESERVE LIST

ALGIERS, April 14 (AP). — The shelving of Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, 65, as French commander-in-chief was completed tonight by the French committee of national liberation. It placed him on the "reserve command list," thereby removing him as an active commander.

Giraud's friends said it was virtually certain that he would recognize the committee's action, which puts undivided authority over French military forces in the hands of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, committee president.

The committee said it acted after Giraud refused to accept what he termed the "honorary" post of inspector-general. This position was offered him several days ago after the committee abolished the position of commander-in-chief. Giraud charged this action was a violation of French republican law as well as committee ordinances.

Associates said Giraud planned to leave North Africa, probably for England, to write his memoirs. His headquarters promised to issue a statement of the "commander's final order of the day" tomorrow.

300 Pairs Women's Rayon Hose Taken by Burglars

Three hundred pairs of women's rayon hose, valued at $150, were stolen by burglars who smashed the front door window of his store at 917 Roosevelt rd., Joseph M. Silverstein reported to police yesterday.

HAWAII MARTIAL LAW CHALLENGED ANEW IN SUIT

HONOLULU, T. H., April 14 (AP).—Legality of war time martial law was challenged again in Federal court today. Counsel for Harry E. White, former Honolulu stock broker serving a five year prison sentence on conviction of embezzlement in a Provost court, sought a writ of habeas corpus to free him.

Lloyd C. Duncan.

In a martial law case decided yesterday, Federal Judge Delbert E. Metzger held that Hawaii's military government was invalid and that the Provost court possessed no authority in law over the civilian petitioner in question.

Judge Metzger's ruling was made in the habeas corpus case of Lloyd C. Duncan, 25, civilian navy yard worker who was sentenced to six months in jail by a Provost court on a charge of assaulting two marine sentries. The ruling freed Duncan.

Believe Compromise Possible.

Washington, D. C., April 14 (AP).—A compromise involving limited military control in Hawaii was seen by federal officials today as a possible solution to the controversy over martial law, declared invalid by Federal Judge Delbert E. Metzger. This might be done by declaring Hawaii a "military area." Such a designation would allow the military to exercise strong police powers.

RETIRE 'FOSSILS' FROM CABINET, GOV. MARTIN ASKS

Names G. O. P. 'Lads' Fit for Their Jobs.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., April 14.—Gov. Edward Martin, who reluctantly retired as a major general at the age of 62, today urged the retirement of President Roosevelt's overage cabinet members.

Gov. Edward Martin.

"Look at the fossils, doddering old men trying to lead this country in war time," exploded the bluff ex-soldier. "There's Stimson, 77; Hull, 72, and Knox, Jones, and Ickes, all past their three score and 10. And the President, himself, is aging at 62.

"The Republican party, on the other hand, has a fine bunch of smart youngsters, physically fit to take command of the federal government. There's Dewey, 42; Stassen, 38; Bricker, 51; Pete Green, 47; California's Warren, 53.

Other "Likely Lads."

"There are at least a dozen other likely lads in the Republican party, any one of whom could make good in Washington. They should and will displace the antequated incumbents. No political party ever before had such a wealth of Presidential timber."

"With this emphasis on youth, aren't you disqualifying yourself from a possible nomination for President?" the governor was asked.

"I'm too old to go to Washington," he replied. "My belly isn't as hard as it used to be. At 64, you can't be sure how the old body is going to continue to function. If I were young enough for active duty, I'd be in command of my old division."

Still Looks Like Soldier.

Martin's appearance belies his 64 years. His trim, erect figure has the quick step of infantry drill. He has a deep outdoor baritone that he seems to be modulating consciously for indoor performance. He wears his white hair in a military crop. His blue eyes squint, as if drawing a bead, when he aims at a conversational target.

The general, as friends call him, enlisted in the army as a private in 1898, in the Spanish-American war. He was a major in the last World war, participated in five major engagements and was decorated twice for bravery. In recent years he commanded a division of Pennsylvania National Guard.

MacArthur "Proving His Youth."

"With this emphasis on youth, you wouldn't want to detract from Gen. MacArthur, would you?" the governor was asked.

"Who the hell ever said MacArthur is old?" Martin thundered. "He's out there punching and slugging, proving his youth in battle. No one is old who can fight like Gen. MacArthur, even if he is my age of 64. He certainly doesn't act and he doesn't look old. He's as tough as any of his kid lieutenants."

Other Republican governors under 60 are: Vivian [Colo.], 55; Baldwin [Conn.], 51; Bottolfsen [Idaho], 52; Hickenlooper [Ia.], 47; Schoeppel [Kas.], 49; Sewall [Me.], 46; Saltonstall [Mass.], 51; Kelly [Mich.], 49; Thye [Minn.], 48; Griswold [Neb.], 50; Blood [N. H.], 56; Snell [Ore.], 48; Sharpe [S. D.], 56; and Langlie [Wash.], 44.

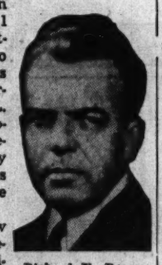
Whenever she complained to her husband, Thomas, 32, about staying out all night, he would strike her with his fists, Mrs. Pauline McGrath, 22, of 1406 E. 69th st., told Judge Robert J. Dunne yesterday in Circuit court. Mrs. McGrath, questioned by her attorney, Samuel M. Starr, testified that once her husband broke her nose, and another time he blackened her eyes. She was granted a divorce, and $7.50 a week for the support of her daughter, Patricia, 15 months old.

ROWE EXPECTED TO BE NEW G. O. P. STATE CHAIRMAN

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Richard Yates Rowe of Jacksonville will be elected chairman of the Republican state central committee shortly, according to all indications yesterday. Chairman Ben L. Berve of Rochelle was defeated Tuesday for reëlection as a member of the group of 25.



Richard Y. Rowe.

Rowe is now executive secretary of the Illinois budgetary commission, which plans state expenditures. He has shown outstanding capacity to handle detail in a variety of recent political chores. His itinerary for the G. O. P. downstate caravan was said to be a masterpiece of its kind. He was organization chairman of the 1940 downstate campaign.

May Be Tyrrell or Thompson.

Also considered for the chairmanship are John F. Tyrrell of Chicago, vice chairman, who is handicapped by the tradition awarding the spot to a downstater, and Frank G. Thompson of Mount Vernon, director of the state department of registration and education.

The state central committee will set the date for the Republican state convention near May 15. Nine delegates at large to the national convention will be named by the state conclave.

Meanwhile there was much ado about the Cook county Republican chairmanship, held by John T. Dempsey, nominee for state's attorney. The meeting of the committee to settle this point will be recessed from the mandatory date of April 24 to May 10.

Mentioned for possible succession to the chairmanship, if Dempsey gives it up, are Edward F. Moore, former chairman, and Charles J. Fleck, 45th ward committeeman.

Leaders Leave for Rest.

Many of the Republican leaders, including Gov. Green, Atty. Gen. Barrett, Richard J. Lyons, nominee for United States senator, and Fleck, left yesterday for a post-campaign rest at Phoenix, Ariz.

Lt. Gov. Cross, also renominated Tuesday, became acting governor at 4 p. m. yesterday.

Illinois Democrats will hold their state central committee meeting shortly to elect a new chairman, probably State's Atty. Ward Holt of Salem. It is expected to set July 3 as the date for the state convention, which is to be held in the Chicago Coliseum.

A knotty problem confronts the Democrats in the legal requirement that a new Cook county chairman be chosen. Vacant since the death of P. A. Nash last fall, the chairmanship may be thrust upon Mayor Kelly. He said yesterday that he does not want the job.

If party harmony demands the naming of Kelly, it will be necessary for State Sen. William J. Connors to resign as 42d ward committeeman so that the mayor can be appointed in his place.

V. F. W. TO MAKE SEN. BROOKS AN HONOR MEMBER

Sen. Brooks, who was wounded seven times while serving with the marines in France in World War I., has been elected to membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Pvt. George Harles post, 1716 Lunt av., it was announced yesterday. The election was made in his absence, and he will be initiated at a later date. He is a past commander of marine post, American Legion, and a member of the army and navy Legion of Valor and the Purple Heart association.

THREE COATS STOLEN.

Three women's coats worth $150 were stolen from his home by burglars, Leo J. Slavick, 4249 Archer av., complained yesterday to police.

STADIUM SETUP AT CONVENTIONS TO BE PLANNED

National convention officials of both the Republican and Democratic parties will meet this morning in the Chicago Stadium to plan the mechanical features of their Presidential nomination gatherings. The G. O. P. convention will open June 26 and the Democratic July 19.

Among the items of business to be considered will be construction of the speakers' platform, allocation of press and radio facilities, decorations, and committee rooms. This week the city council voted $25,000 to help pay for the cost of special facilities at the Stadium.

Those present will include Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizens committee that secured both conventions for Chicago; Walter S. Hallanan, chairman of the G. O. P. committee on arrangements; Ambrose O'Connell, executive vice chairman of the Democratic national committee; William J. Hennessy, executive secretary of the citizens committee, and Thomas D. Garry, representing Mayor Kelly.

G. W. ZILLER LOSES DEMOCRATIC POST AS PRECINCT OFFICIAL

Bloomington, Ill., April 14 (AP).—George W. Ziller, awaiting trial on charges of operating a confidence game by allegedly "selling" ordnance plant jobs, was defeated for reëlection as a Democratic precinct committeeman in Weston, a canvass of Tuesday's primary vote showed today.

Ziller, who weighs around 500 pounds, lost by an 11 to 8 vote to Earl Range, a "write-in" candidate. Ziller was named committeeman in a surprise "write-in" campaign in 1942.

Ziller is awaiting trial in the Peoria county Circuit court where the case was taken on a change of venue from McLean county. He was granted a venue change on his contention that McLean county residents were prejudiced against him.

FBI SEIZES FOUR GERMAN ALIENS; ONE EX-SOLDIER

The arrest of four more German aliens, including a discharged soldier who said he considered it an insult to wear the army uniform, was announced yesterday by Spencer J. Drayton, head of the federal bureau of investigation here. Their arrests brought to 319 the total number of aliens seized in the Chicago area since the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Drayton said the soldier was seized by agents just after he was discharged from Camp Grant for his Nazi views. Another of the aliens seized was working as a machinist in a war plant, Drayton said, and had served as a sergeant in the German army.

The third alien arrested was described as a former janitor of the Germania clubhouse, and the fourth, a member of the German-American bund who had contributed generously to the German relief society.

PREDICTS F. D. R. 4TH TERM TOUR TO WAR FRONTS

Sen. Robertson Sees Play for 'Sympathy' Votes.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—The possibility that President Roosevelt may campaign for a fourth term thru visits to various American military concentrations around the world was raised today by Sen. Robertson [R., Wyo.].

Sen. Edward V. Robertson.

"After the Democratic convention I fully expect to see President Roosevelt in Britain, where the bulk of American troops are," he said in an interview. "And it is possible that he may visit Australia and other areas where there are large American forces.

"Of course these tours may be publicized as another series of inspection trips, but they would actually be campaign trips. The campaign for votes among soldiers could very well be expected to get sympathy votes at home.

May Go As Commander.

"Mr. Roosevelt will go wherever the most soldiers are. And he'll go ostensibly as commander in chief or perhaps President, altho in reality he will be touring as Candidate Roosevelt.

"Incidentally, it is odd that Mr. Roosevelt is not commander in chief when our forces are suffering reverses. He then reverts to President as witness his reversion to that role when American forces were encountering difficulty in Cassino and the Anzio beachhead.

"In this connection it might also be noted that it's the President and not the commander in chief who is now taking a vacation."

Second Front Trip Hinted.

Sen. Robertson was the first member of congress to speak out on a matter which has been whispered in the cloakrooms of the house and senate for months. It has been felt by Democrats and Republicans that Mr. Roosevelt might go to England for the opening of the second front in order to reap political capital from such a visit.

If the front were opened about the time of the Republican convention or should be well under way at that time, the President could be expected to vie with the convention for space on the front pages of American newspapers.

In past campaigns Mr. Roosevelt has competed with the convention of the opposition party.

1936 Trips Recalled.

In 1936 Mr. Roosevelt visited the southwest, making a number of speeches at the time the Republicans met in Cleveland.

In 1940 Mr. Roosevelt toured the country on what he termed nonpolitical defense inspection trips. At some places he spent no more than two minutes in an automobile ride thru steel plants and hours in showing himself to voters along the streets.

Motorist Loses 'A' Book on Charge of Speeding

Theodore Anema, 119th st. and Crawford av., Alsip, has been deprived of his A-gasoline ration book because of speeding charges, Paul A. H. Shults, acting director of the metropolitan area of the office of price administration, announced yesterday. He said that local rationing boards had penalized 11 other motorists by revoking some of their coupons.

MRS. OLA WALTERS.

Edward H. Walters, 850 Lake Shore dr., an insurance executive, was granted a modification yesterday of a court restraint placed on his assets by his wife, Ola, 38, to permit him to make pay roll withdrawals from his cash business account.

Mrs. Walters, who lives at 217 Lake Shore dr., obtained the restraint after filing a bill for separate maintenance several weeks ago. The bill charges that Walters committed indescretions with a Mary Roe, hugged and kissed Mary Roe in public places, and spent many hours in Mary Roe's unlighted apartment. Thru her attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., Mrs. Walters said her expenses are $1,500 a month.

Walters, represented by Bernard Vinisky, testified yesterday that he has $70,000 in his cash business account, and has a gross annual income of $32,000.

$1,050 COAT STOLEN.

Mrs. Leona Rose of Los Angeles, Cal., reported to police yesterday the theft of her fur coat, valued at $1,050, from the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gottlieb, 707 Junior terrace, while she and the Gottliebs were visiting the loop.

3 OF MAINE'S 13 DELEGATES LEAN TOWARD DEWEY

Hint Whole Group to Swing to Him.

Bangor, Me., April 14 (AP).—A 13 vote delegation to Chicago, uninstructed as is customary, but at least three of whose members were—unofficially and on the basis of current conditions—leaning to Gov. Dewey of New York, was named by Maine Republicans today.

While the rest of the national convention delegates were undecided, one in this group conceded that a "slant to Dewey" existed within the Maine party.

Most of the convention talk centered around the former "racketbuster" altho there were some sympathetic references to the Presidential possibility of Minnesota's former governor, Harold E. Stassen, now a naval officer.

An avowed backer of Gov. Bricker of Ohio lost an attempt to go to Chicago.

Adopt 11 Point Platform.

Also adopted unanimously and without debate was an 11 plank platform which in only about 350 words urged "vigorous prosecution of the war" unimpeded by partisan politics, repeated the Mackinac conference statement on preserving the peace, demanded that the federal government, except for war needs, stop "its ever increasing regulation of the individual and its interference with rights of the sovereign states," and recommended a return to "the long accustomed plan established by our forefathers in limiting the Presidency to two terms."

18 Connecticut Delegates.

Hartford, Conn., April 14 (AP).—Connecticut Republicans, acting unanimously in every instance, today proposed that the national convention consider Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin as a Presidential nominee, and elected 16 unpledged delegates to that convention.

When the some 600 delegates talked informally among themselves, however, the name of Gov. Dewey of New York was the one most frequently heard.

Stassen Gets Six Delegates.

Omaha, Neb., April 14 (AP).—Nebraska's delegation of 15 to the Republican national convention is expected to include six supporters of Lt. Comdr. Harold Stassen, six pledged to the favorite son candidacy of Gov. Dwight Griswold, and three unpledged delegates, it was indicated tonight on the basis of nearly complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's primary election.

Democrats Minus Candidate.

Detroit, Mich., April 14 (AP).—Michigan's Democratic party tonight still lacked a candidate for the governorship after adjourning its state convention without getting an assent from any one of several men offered the leadership.

The convention, which ignored proposals that a candidate be "drafted," had produced sponsorship for United States District Judge Frank A. Picard, Associate Justice Raymond W. Starr of the state Supreme court, Theodore I. Fry, former state treasurer, and others, but each move failed.

Labor's influence on the session was pronounced. Without opposition, the convention accepted CIO proposed resolutions, including an indorsement of President Roosevelt for a fourth term and censuring congress for the form of its soldier-vote legislation.

F-L May Accept Fusion.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 14 (AP)—Machinery to bring about fusion of the Farmer-Labor and Democratic parties in Minnesota was set in motion today when the state Farmer-Labor convention voted to accept an invitation from the Democratic convention to name a fusion committee.

The committee, with nine members from each party, is to work out final details and report to the separate conventions. The committee is expected to be ready to make its report to the separate conventions tomorrow. If it is approved, the two parties will be united as the Democratic-Farmer-Labor party and will meet jointly to name delegates having 24 votes at the Democratic national convention. Under a pre-convention agreement the delegates would be half Democrats and half of persons previously affiliated with the Farmer-Labor party.

MOVE TO SPEED FLOW OF WAR NEWS TO PUBLIC

Washington, D. C., April 14 [Special].—In a step designed to speed the flow of war news to the public, an agreement was reached today by the army, the navy, and the office of war information on a policy whereby decisions of theater commanders to hold up news will be subject to review here.

Up to now the commanders have had virtually complete authority over the release of news about operations under their command.

Taking the stand that the theater commanders "may not always be in a position to balance the relative importance" of their problems against the need of releasing news, the joint policy says that commanders have been instructed "to give prompt release to such news of action in their theaters as will not be harmful to security."

Should a commander decide to withhold certain news, the policy provides that "the facts will be submitted promptly to Washington for review and decision as to release."

GOES TO CHURCH THAT HELD HIS FUNERAL RITES

Duluth, Ga., April 14 (AP).—Navy Warrant Officer Amos Drexel Bagley Sr., back home for the first time since 1940, will attend the Baptist church Sunday—the same church where funeral services were held for him shortly after Pearl Harbor.

Bagley was on a ship bombed at Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941. He described "going around in a daze afterward, and not really remembering much of what happened. One of my buddies said he saw me wander out and lie down on deck while the Japs were strafing the ship."

His mother was informed he was lost and memorial services were held, attended by a large crowd, with many floral offerings, among them red roses from his fiancée, Thelma Lindsey.

His family was notified on Christmas day, 1941, that he had been found, and the following February Miss Lindsey flew to California and married the warrant officer.

LT. COL. BOWEN KILLED TESTING PLANE IN HAWAII

Lt. Col. William J. A. Bowen, 29, of the army air corps, was killed April 3 in a plane crash in Hawaii, where he was assigned as a staff officer, fighter pilot, and an island control officer, his widow, Dorothy, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving E. Bowen, 224 Wesley av., Oak Park, were notified yesterday by the war department. Col. Bowen's home was at 7207 Bennett av. Besides his widow, he leaves two daughters. According to a communication from his commander, Col. Bowen was killed while testing a new plane. A graduate of the University of Illinois, where he was a member of the tennis team, Col. Bowen enlisted in the air corps in 1938.

They Have Millions to Spend for U. S. Exports

IN the islands of the Caribbean and near-by South America are thousands of women like these. They are the important purchasing agents for their families, just as American women are for households here in the United States.

During the war, too few ships have been available to carry needed supplies to these buyers. Long shopping lists have accumulated—and purchasing power has steadily increased. When the war is won, American businessmen will have the largest U. S. Merchant Marine in history to help carry U. S. merchandise to families in this near-by area ... as well as to markets around the world.

One part of the great American-flag fleet is the Alcoa Line. For years Alcoa ships have served this close-at-hand, friendly market. We have learned the types of merchandise needed there, the preferences, and potential volume for textiles, steel, foods—and for all of the things the people in this area want.

We invite sales executives to send for data on export opportunities in the convenient area we serve. Write Dept. K, Alcoa Steamship Company, 17 Battery Place, New York 4, N. Y.

Can You Picture ILLINOIS without its Fire Fighters?

Maybe you've never had to call the fire department — maybe you never will. But it's a mighty comforting thought to know that it's there, ready night and day to save you and yours from one of man's most treacherous and terrifying enemies.

The heroic work done by fire fighters in so many of the towns and cities of our Allies, which have been showered with incendiaries and explosives, is drama itself. The job of our own firemen right here at home in Illinois may be less spectacular but it's no less important — particularly to us. Yet most of us give little thought to this vital safeguard of our everyday life — until an emergency comes along.

There are 4,318 men in Illinois whose full-time job is the protection of lives and property of the citizens of this State. These are the regular firemen—but there are thousands more who are ready to do their share at a moment's notice, the volunteer firemen.

To all of these valiant men, we of the Greyhound Lines pay sincere tribute. We're proud of these fellow-citizens—thankful for them, too. And we feel we have at least one thing in common with them. They're fighting hard to improve the safety record of our State and so are we. In these tense and busy days, we feel that Greyhound, in providing safe, convenient transportation between this community and its good neighbors, is also playing its part in making Illinois a safer, happier place to live.

New Tornadoes Strike 3 Areas in Arkansas

Little Rock, Ark., April 14 (AP).—A new series of tornadoes sweeping in a semi-circular arc across north Arkansas struck in three widely scattered communities tonight, killing at least one person and injuring several others. The twisters came only four days after tornadoes crisscrossing across the state killed 37 persons and injured approximately 350. Struck tonight were communities at Oil Trough, Heber Springs, and near Blytheville.

17 MONTHS IN IRAN WHETS VETS' TASTE FOR HAM AND EGGS

Ham and eggs was his first order when he landed in New York after 17 months in the desert of south Iran where the temperature reaches 155 degrees in the sun and 135 degrees in the shade, Sgt. Robert Reid, 20, of 1327 E. 64th st., of the signal corps, told friends yesterday. He is a son of Harry J. Reid, a Tribune pressman, and a brother of Harry W., and Joseph Reid, also a Tribune pressman. His furlough expires April 30.

Sgt. Robert Reid.

"There's no place like the United States—it's the best country in the world," Sgt. Reid declared.

"Bucksheese, Johnny," or that is what it sounds like, is a typical Persian native's greeting to an American, and freely translated, Sgt. Reid said, it means "Gimme, I'll take anything." It is heard in Iraq and India, too, he added. The natives usually either beg or work for the army.

Sgt. Reid attended Hyde Park High school before entering the service Feb. 25, 1942.

THEATER OF AIR SALUTES R.O.T.C. CADETS TONIGHT

4,000 to See Operetta and Army Show.

The Chicago Theater of the Air tonight will salute the R. O. T. C. when more than 4,000 cadets from eight midwest states will be guests of The Chicago Tribune and W-G-N for the broadcast of Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow," and a non-broadcast show by the 6th service command of the army afterwards. The show will be presented in Medinah temple, Wabash av. and Ohio st. The broadcast will run from 8 to 9 p. m. over W-G-N, WGNB and the Mutual system and the army show, featuring the Fort Custer War dogs in action, will follow.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Chicago Tribune, will speak.

Gen. Aurand to Speak.

Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command, and Col. W. F. Morrison, professor of military training and tactics in the Chicago public schools, will speak later.

Besides the R. O. T. C. officers, army and navy units and various military, patriotic, educational and civic leaders will be special guests. In the cadet group will be 3,000 men representing 29 Chicago public high schools, Morgan Park Military academy and St. Mel's High school. More than 1,000 guests will come from other schools thruout nearby states in which The Tribune presents R. O. T. C. medals each year to cadets for outstanding proficiency in military training and studies. Other guests will be cadets who have received other R. O. T. C. awards, such as those given by the board of education and civic organizations.

Miss Claire in Title Role.

Marion Claire will sing the title role in the operetta. Gilbert Russell will sing Prince Danilo, and Earl Wilkie, Baron Popoff. Music will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

A color guard from the regimental staff of the Chicago Public High school R. O. T. C. unit will present the colors.

After the broadcast the 740th Military Police Battalion band from Camp Skokie will play. Novelty acts from various camps will provide entertainment and the Fort Custer unit will put the war dogs thru an exhibition.

School Men to Attend.

Brig. Gen. John T. Davis, chief of staff; Col. C. J. Otjen, in charge of R. O. T. C. training in the 6th service command, and other officers on Gen. Aurand's staff, will attend. Other guests will include Dr. William H. Johnson, just renamed superintendent of schools; Maj. Frank L. Beals, Philip McNamee and James T. Gaffney, assistant superintendents.

Guests from schools outside the metropolitan area will include representatives of the Northwestern Military academy, Lake Geneva, Wis.; St John's Military academy, Delafield, Wis.; Beloit High school, Beloit, Wis.; Marmion Military academy, Aurora; the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana; Knox college, Galesburg; Glenwood Manual Training school, Glenwood; Mattoon High school, Matoon; Waukegan High school, Waukegan; Loras academy, Dubuque, Ia., and Davenport High school, Davenport, Ia.

R. O. T. C. SENDS MANY MEMBERS TO FIGHT IN WAR

11,024 from Schools Here in Service.

Nearly one-fourth of the 49,000 boys who have entered military or naval service from the 30 Chicago high schools which have reserve officers training corps units were trained in the R. O. T. C., a survey showed yesterday.

Both school and R. O. T. C. spokesmen emphasized their figures were not complete because of difficulty in gathering information. Best figures available showed 48,904 students in service from the schools, of whom 11,024 are known to have been formerly in the R. O. T. C. A total of 651 former students are listed as having been killed while in service.

Lane Technical High school, largest city high school, with the largest R. O. T. C. corps, customarily numbering more than 1,000 members, was far in front in number of former cadets in service, with 3,720. This is more than three-fourths of the total of 4,073 reported for the school. A school spokesman said many questionnaires asking former students' service records are still outstanding.

Austin High school on the far west side reported 4,000 total in service with 1,000 from the R. O. T. C., and St. Mel Parochial school was third with 714 R. O. T. C. boys in service out of a total of 1,090.

Figures for all the schools follow:

Some R. O. T. C. records cover longer periods than others, either because the units are older or the records are more or less complete.

MUSICIANS QUIT AS WJJD BALKS AT DOUBLE STAFF

Union musicians employed by station WJJD went on strike yesterday on order of the Chicago Federation of Musicians. The station employed 10 musicians, whose contract had expired, and the union demanded that 20 men be engaged, according to Ralph Atlass, president of the company operating the station. The union is said to have demanded that the station employ twice as many musicians as at present.

Atlass said he protested to James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, and to the Chicago local. Atlass termed the demand of the union "unjustified and unpatriotic" in view of the critical man power shortage in the Chicago area. He asserted that the musicians are on duty less than 25 hours a week and exclusive of turning records, actually work less than 7½ hours per week. Atlass said each receives a minimum of $75 per week.

WJJD was sold on March 1 to Marshall Field, subject to approval by the federal communications commission, which passes on transfer of stock ownership.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Patrick J. Browne, 7119 East End av.]

THE QUESTION.

What good habit has your husband now that he didn't have when you first married?

WHERE ASKED.

Sherman st. and Jackson blvd.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Byron Herington, secretary, Decatur, Ill.—The first few weeks we were married the dresser was a catch-all for everything my husband had in his pockets. Instead of clearing it off I let things pile up until he had a hard time finding what he wanted. He caught on in a hurry and the dresser has been presentable since.

Mrs. Peter Pell, waitress, 4732 Washington blvd.—The bad habit my husband had before I married him was partly my fault, too. I used to keep him up late and then he'd never take time to eat breakfast and was careless about getting to work on time. Now he gets his sleep, eats a hearty breakfast and has time to help me with the dishes.

Mrs. Mathew Kulczak, teletype operator, 1310 W. 51st st.—My husband always came home from work before I did and acquired the habit of cooking dinner. He really turned out some good meals and then would help me with the dishes. He's been in the army for some time now and I don't mind saying I'm getting kind of hungry.

Mrs. Wm. D. Price Jr., dictaphone operator, 7514 Chappel av.—Like most men, mine thought he had enough resistance to overcome colds and flu without doing anything about it. After I doctored him up a few times he discovered that it does help to do something. When he feels a cold coming on now he takes care of himself.

Mrs. T. E. Gardner, typist, 1013 E. Willow av., Wheaton—When I took Mr. Gardner away from his family I felt it only right that I should do something to make up for it. He was thoughtless about answering letters so I kept after him until he took it upon himself to do it without being reminded. I think he rather enjoys writing now.

Mrs. Lawrence Duepner, secretary, 222 S. Laramie av.—I can't think of any improvement I have made in my husband. In fact, I think he has more bad habits now than when I married him. MORTON QUITS COUNTY DRAFT APPEAL BOARD

East St. Louis Chairman Assails Confusion.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

The resignation of Sterling Morton, member of the Cook county draft appeal board, was in the hands of state selective service officials last night. While Morton, former president of the Illinois Manufacturers association, said that his reasons for resigning were "largely personal," it was reported by his friends that he was disgusted with confused and conflicting draft rulings.

Paul G. Armstrong, head of the state selective service, said that he would not act upon Morton's resignation until he discussed the matter with others.

"The letter accompanying the resignation will not be made public," said Armstrong. "We have 9,200 volunteer employes and are constantly getting resignations. It is our policy not to make such material public."

"None Knows His Status."

At the same time K. E. Ferguson, chairman of East St. Louis selective service board 3, loosed a blast at the present draft set-up and said that "a man seldom knows where he is in the draft, and neither do we." He held that a clear cut, established and unchanged draft program would be "wonderful for draft board members and a great improvement for the American public."

Ferguson said that Washington orders at times had been seven to 10 days late in reaching local draft boards. Of late, he said, new directives have arrived from Springfield within two or three days after they have been announced in the press.

"One of the main troubles," he continued, "is that there are changes made in orders after we get them and before they can be acted upon. We get a directive, for example, and after studying it we see that it fails to apply to many men. Then we call Springfield and point out that the new order won't work. Then comes a supplementary order.

Cites Confusion Over 1-A.

"Three weeks ago we got an order to induct volunteers first, 2-A and 2-B men under 26 second, nonfathers third, and fathers fourth. There was nothing in the order covering the 1-A file that we had ready to go up for pre-induction examinations. So we had to call Springfield. The supplemental order followed taking care of the 1-A class.

"The way things are now, a man seldom knows where he stands in the draft, and neither do we. Different boards, for instance, have different ideas concerning interpretation of directives. Here we think that food is vital to winning the war, but St. Louis boards do not regard food production or food handling as of prime importance.

"In general, draft board officials may study orders carefully and obtain a working idea of procedure—but the public remains in the dark befuddled and bewildered."

Calls Deferment Order Vague.

Ferguson held there is a confusion regarding deferments and that the order on the subject is vague.

"Boards are told not to defer men between the ages of 18 and 26 unless they rate a 4-A classification, which is for men with highly skilled or scientific knowledge that is being applied to winning the war," Ferguson continued. "Next we are told to go thru the files of men between the ages of 26 and 30 regarding deferments.

"We are instructed that more consideration should be given men over 30 for dependents than is given men under 30. The inference is that men between 26 and 30 are to be taken after those between 18 and 26 are gone and that men over 30 will be taken after no more are available in the 26 to 30 age group. But nothing is clear or certain in the whole business."

HOUSE SENDS 32 BILLION NAVAL BILL TO SENATE

Washington, D. C., April 14 (AP).—The house unanimously passed today a $32,647,134,336 naval appropriation bill and got ready for a 50 billion dollar supply measure for the army.

The 257 to 0 roll call that sent the second largest appropriation bill in history to the senate followed a single day of debate highlighted by praise of the navy and expressions of determination to keep it the world's largest.

While the largest fund ever voted for the navy—a fund expected to build it to 6,623 ships in addition to almost 75,000 supporting and landing craft—the appropriation fell some 27 billions short of the all-time record of 59 billions voted last year for the army.

It boosts to approximately 362 billions the obligations for war financing voted since July 1, 1940, of which the navy's share is estimated at 116 billions. Actual war spending reached a new peak of 7 billion 948 million in March, bringing total war spending 176 billion 500 million.

GROUP STUDIES SINGLE BUREAU FOR DEFENSE

Might Control Both Army and Navy.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 14.—A special house committee studying post-war military policy voted today to explore the possibility of creating a single department of national defense to supersede the present war and navy departments.

This was announced by Rep. Woodrum (D., Va.), chairman of the recently created 23 man group, following the committee's first meeting.

Hearings on the question of establishing the combined department will be started April 24, with War and Navy Secretaries Stimson and Knox and Rear Adm. Emory S. Land, war shipping administrator, scheduled as the first witness, Woodrum said.

Plan in Practice Now.

Woodrum said there was no thought among committee members of disturbing the war program by such a reorganization now, but added that it is one of the first questions of military policy that should be settled after the war.

"A unified command over our army and navy has been in actual operation in this war thru the joint chiefs of staff," Woodrum said. "Certainly the success of this unity of operation suggests the advisability of having a single department of defense."

The proposed department might have undersecretaries for the army, navy, and air corps, in addition to the cabinet secretary, Woodrum said. In this connection, he said the committee will explore the advisability of an independent air force.

Merchant Marine Studied.

The proposed department also might embrace the government's merchant shipping operations, at least in time of war, Woodrum said. He added that there has been some criticism of the present system, whereby civilian merchant seamen with high wages are being convoyed by navy ships with $50 a month seamen.

Woodrum will head a group of the committee which will call on Knox, Stimson, and Land next Friday and invite their coöperation in its studies.

Woodrum said the committee also will consider maintenance of an adequate peace time army and navy, universal military training for young men, reserve officer training, and the need for island air and navy bases for defense.

WITNESS DENIES VITAL FLAWS IN WRIGHT ENGINES

Cincinnati, O., April 14 (AP).—A defense witness testified today at the court-martial of three army air force officers charged with neglect of duty and conspiracy that "we accepted a great deal of material deviating from blueprints" at the Wright Aeronautical corporation's Lockland plant, "but nothing that would affect the life of an airplane engine."

The witness, Duncan McLauren, assistant chief army inspector at the plant, also testified that some defects in parts described last week by the prosecution would have no effect on the running of an engine.

McLauren insisted that on several occasions army inspectors emphasized the necessity for conforming to blueprint specifications when company officials suggested slight deviations.

On cross-examination, Maj. Henry C. Clausen, trial judge advocate, sought to bring out whether McLauren had attempted to stop the transfer of four army inspectors for allegedly complaining about conditions in the plant, but he insisted he did not know about it in time to act.

CHICAGO POLICE UNION FORMED; MOVE ASSAILED

City Officials Say Law and Rules Forbid It.

lice department, Joseph F. Grossman, first assistant corporation counsel, predicted.

"Policemen are a semi-military organization, subject to discipline," he said. "They can't strike, and they are sworn to uphold the law. As for their organizing a labor union, it can't be done."

Grossman asserted that police cannot insist on the same rights as AFL members not employed by a government unit have under federal law, and that they cannot insist on recognition of their union demands.

Ald. Murphy (17th), chairman of the council committee on labor and industrial relations, said he did not know "what effect such organization would have upon public service."

"They may be entitled to form a union," said Ald. Quirk (48th), vice chairman of the police and municipal institutions, "but it might lead to a biased force."

Sgt. Michael Loftus of the Sheffield district, president of the Police Sergeants' association of 480 members, scoffed at the AFL union. "We cannot give divided allegiance; we cannot belong to any union," he stated.

Spokesmen for the Police Lieutenants' association said union organizers "are wasting their time."

CIO political workers have been trying to bore into the police department personnel recently, some police reported last night, but their efforts have been resisted. A slate of candidates opposing the present officers of the patrolmen's club in an approaching club election is understood to be under the scrutiny of department officials for possible union affiliations.

Lt. Anderson, the AFL union president, who lives at 1627 Humboldt blvd., said other officers are: Patrolmen William J. Dagnent of Racine avenue district, vice president; Louis J. Starr of Grand Crossing, secretary, and Sgt. Earl J. McLean of Irving Park, treasurer.

Anderson asserted that "90 per cent" of the Chicago firemen are members of an AFL union. City officials said they did not think the firemen are members of a labor union, altho they have social and benevolent associations.

Officials here did not know of any police departments in other cities with AFL members. New York police have no labor union, but have a police benevolent association.

SHOOTING CASE CHARGES DROPPED.

Charges of disorderly conduct against Miss Lene Lomoro, 35, and a suitor, Paul Olaf, 33, a discharged soldier, both of 1446 Noble st., brought Jan. 15 following a quarrel in which Olaf was shot in the leg, were dismissed yesterday by Judge Frank E. Donoghue in Women's court.

MILITARY TYRANNY OVERCOME.

Once again United States District Judge Metzger in Honolulu has declared that the Constitution means just what it says. Lloyd C. Duncan, a civilian employed in the Pearl Harbor navy yard, got in some kind of a fuss with the marines on guard at the main gate. He was arrested, tried by military court, and sentenced to six months in jail. In a habeas corpus proceeding Judge Metzger found that the military court had no right to try Duncan or sentence him. Duncan has been set free.

This is not the first time Judge Metzger has intervened to protect civil rights in Hawaii. Previously he had ordered the military to produce prisoners who had been held for many months without trial or even indictment. The military refused to obey his order and he was obliged to hold the commanding general in contempt and fine him. The general retaliated by refusing to pay the fine and by issuing an order that any civilian judge who undertook to release a military prisoner would subject himself to military punishment. Judge Metzger stood his ground and the outrageous order was eventually withdrawn, thanks in no small part to the indignation which the incident aroused thruout the country.

There are those who still believe that the administration in Washington is entitled to call itself liberal. These cases prove the contrary and prove it to the hilt. The attorney general sent his habeas corpus expert, Edward J. Ennis, to Honolulu in the effort to establish a military tyranny in defiance of the Bill of Rights. He sought to halt the habeas corpus proceeding on the theory that Hawaii was in imminent danger of invasion tho it quite obviously is not. [If this effort had been successful it is hard to see where any limit could be placed on a military tyranny, for the danger of invasion at San Francisco is only a little less than at Honolulu and at Chicago only a little less than at San Francisco.]

When the government's argument was rejected by the court Mr. Roosevelt's liberal administration sought to keep Duncan in jail anyway, pending the trial on the merits of the case. Judge Metzger wouldn't stand for it. The spokesman for the so-called liberals of the New Deal then sought to prevent the release of the prisoner on bail, tho it was obvious he couldn't get off the island because the government has complete control of shipping. When the judge proposed that the bail be fixed at $500 the spokesman for the New Deal made an earnest plea to raise it to $1,000 for no better reason than that $1,000 is harder to raise than $500.

Finally, when Judge Metzger on Thursday freed Duncan, the military, undoubtedly acting on direct orders from Washington, declared that they would continue to arrest, try, and punish civilians in such cases, under military law, at least until the higher courts had passed on the matter.

Only those who believe in constitutional limitations on the acts of government officials can properly call themselves liberals. The New Dealers have shown themselves to be exponents of military tyranny. If they had got away with it in Honolulu they would have used the precedent to impose their will on the American people generally, with the army as the enforcing agent. Mr. Roosevelt didn't get his universal labor draft and he seems to have been stymied again in the Duncan case, but he'll keep on trying to enslave the American people as long as he remains in office.

HAZARDS AT AIRPORTS.

Tall trees, windmills, power lines, gas tanks, and other structures in the immediate vicinity of an airport cut the effective length of an airport's runways and provide a constant danger to planes arriving and taking off at the field. Sometimes persons owning land adjacent to airports erect tall structures purposely so that their land will have to be purchased by the airport authorities at a high figure. Zoning laws designed to stop this form of legal larceny have been ineffective.

Chicago had a long time example of such a hazard at the Municipal airport in the huge gas holder that stood nearby. A military plane finally crashed into it and removed it at the cost of several lives. Any airport bordered by privately owned land is likely to be confronted with similar hazards and there appears to be no legal way of preventing their construction. With the huge planes to be used in post-war commercial flying, these hazards are even more dangerous. The big planes require longer runways and even a slight obstruction, such as a line of trees several hundred yards back from the end of the runways, might cause an accident.

This is another reason in favor of the projected lake front airport for Chicago's post-war air traffic. The man-made island upon which the planes would land would be protected by water on all sides and there would be nothing in the way of low flying planes. The project is likely to cost more than a new airport elsewhere, but who can say what the cost of securing easements against hazards on adjoining farms and industrial property would be?

Because of its numerous advantages, the lake front airport idea certainly deserves the most serious consideration from those who are planning Chicago's air future.

NEW SCENES AND FACES.

We have lately exchanged a few letters with a Chicago woman who has gone to a Texas town to be with her soldier husband. She started the correspondence by sending us a whimsical map of the United States, published in one of the Texas newspapers. It showed Texas as practically the entire country, with little appendages marked New York, California, and so on. Chicago wasn't even included as an appendage. Neither was Illinois, and that was more than Mrs. X could stand.

We wrote to her, saying that we thought the man who drew the map was joshing his fellow-Texans and that he had succeeded pretty well. Mrs. X replied that of course the man was trying to be funny but he didn't succeed because his drawing. To make it funny, she indicated, he should have presented Texas as the solar system. If he had done that the folks down there would have got the point. As it was, they were likely to use the map in the schools for teaching the geography of the United States.

Mrs. X went on to say that she didn't relish being called a damyankee. She felt that if her great-grandfather had sinned by being on the winning side in the Civil war she, at least, might be forgiven. When northerners down here disclose good manners, she says, they are thought to be putting on airs; when their behavior is ill-bred they are thought to be their natural, uncouth, and reprehensible selves. There's no way, says Mrs. X, to lick that game. They get you coming and going.

It would be too bad if, as a result of all the moving around that this war has entailed, we should succeed only in increasing sectional animosities. Are the southern boys and girls who come to midwestern camps as discontented as Mrs. X appears to be? And the westerners in New England? And the easterners in the west? It would be interesting to know the answers.

ELECTION ARITHMETIC.

Some of the New Deal newspapers and commentators have been endeavoring to extract such comfort as they can from the Illinois primary by comparing the vote given the Republican and the Democratic winners. This is plainly disingenuous and, in some instances, has been accompanied by actual distortion of the facts.

No Democrat wants to compare Mr. Courtney's total vote in his primary with that of Gov. Green's in his. But great significance is attached to assertions that Sen. Lucas, who had no contest, got more Democratic votes than Mr. Lyons got in the Republican primary, in which he easily won the nomination from two opponents.

Whether this is true will have to be determined by the official canvass of the vote, but apparently it is not true. The Associated Press dismantled its machinery for collecting returns as soon as it was determined who the winners were. Most of the missing returns are from downstate precincts where Lyons got three times as many votes as Lucas. The AP estimated the total vote by projecting the known returns from Chicago, suburban Cook county, and downstate, however, and this estimate showed Lyons ahead of Lucas by some 3,000 votes.

Just how far comparison of primary votes will get one in forecasting an election winner was demonstrated four years ago in this state. In the 1940 primaries Mr. Hershey, who was the Democratic nominee, got 205,000 more votes than Gov. Green did. Mr. Hershey and his primary opponent, Gov. Stelle, got nearly 300,000 more Democratic votes between them than Gov. Green and Mr. Lyons, who opposed him in the primary, got together. But in the election Gov. Green beat Mr. Hershey by 250,000. The primary and election votes for Sen. Brooks and Sen. Slattery, whom he defeated, followed the same trend.

Democratic strength in downstate Illinois declines further with every election. The Democratic strength is concentrated more and more in Chicago. It is machine strength, which can be delivered to anybody on any platform. Only a few years ago the reliefers and WPAers had to ask for Democratic ballots for fear of losing their families' bread. Even now the machine has a horde of federal and local pay rollers to marshal their relatives to the polls.

The Democrats thus can make a grand showing in a primary. For four years now they have flopped in Illinois elections. The machine strength isn't enough to cope with the Republican voters who stayed at home on primary day, because weather was nasty and the winners were conceded victory in advance, but who will be on hand on Nov. 7, when their votes will really count.

HEADED FOR THE VALLEY.

[Memphis Commercial Appeal.]

No just complaint can be registered against the crooners, groaners, gurglers, moaners, and screamers, who dispense popular songs over the radio, on the ground that they stick to the same thing too stubbornly. It has not been very long since they were all frenziedly and with one voice imploring a maternal figure to place a shooting pistol in repose. Then, almost as at a signal, they lost interest in the lethal weapon proposition and turned unanimously to an exposition of the alleged fact that mairzy doats, dozy doats, etc. Perhaps wearied in body and spirit by their strenuous endeavors, but for some reason or none, the whole gang is now headed for the San Fernando Valley to make their homes. Each of them relies repetitiously on the promise of kindly old Rev. Thomas to make him or her one with somebody or other, and in general they seem to have gone ruggedly romantic, agrarian, and domestic. It is probably delusive to hope that the valley they are headed for has only one entrance, which will be closed by a landslide or something. They would undoubtedly soar out on the wings of what they call song. Anyhow, none of these spasms last long.

Don't look right now, Adolf, but your show's slipping.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

MR. PEPYS DOES HIS DUTY.

15th April—Put a poem in praise of April into this column last week, with a footnote saying that blizzards might now be expected, and have been reproached ever since for bringing on a spell of bad weather. There was fog and rain for Easter, and raw gloom thereafter, and then came a great wind that blew down trees and chimneys. Wore my rain pants with great success, and a few drenched wretches wanted to know where such garments could be bought. Discovered they had been used for many years in England, but not in as fancy a cut as mine.

Did not let the storm keep me from marching to the primary polls, and marked my ballot with water trickling off my hat brim and bedewing the paper as if with tears. Hope the spots did not get counted as votes for the wrong candidates. Thought of wearing my MacArthur weskit on this occasion as a symbol, but decided to save it for some greater demonstration, such as a parade, where it could be seen and enjoyed by all.

Met a military expert with a pair of army rifles, including the Garand, which he pronounces Jarand to my surprise, and practiced handling, aiming, and snapping them. Got a thrill out of this, altho I have never been mad about muskets.

Talked with Stanley Johnston, just returned from the southern hemisphere, and Ed Burns, the baseball authority, and Ashton Stevens, the first-nighter, and other cronies and colleagues. Also interviewed my dentist, whose ideas sound like a post-war plan. And now to start the fresh air season by inspecting the 1944 species of Cubs.

WEDDINGS IN WAR TIME.

Now all the troubled earth is battlefield
And all men hear fate's harsh, insistent drum;
We face the morrow, dark and unrevealed,
In chill foreboding of the storm to come.
Gone now the anchors of a younger day
When certainty held coming years secure;
No beacon flames on our uncharted way,
Yet Providence has proved the pathway sure.
For love still conquers in its age-old sign
As two, unquestioning, still plight their word;
Faith has its knowledge, as hope has its shrine,
And our hearts rejoice, to new courage spurred,
As lovers in trust pledge their troth of gold—
"For better; for worse; to have and to hold."

The Memory Champion.

"I contend that the number of years a person has lived is not an accurate measurement of his age. Age is a biological question."

"Sounds reasonable."

"I think memory is a good test. Now I have a marvelous memory. I can distinctly remember things that happened to me when I was 4 years old."

"That is remarkable."

"I can remember the first day I went to school—the teacher—the color of her dress."

"You amaze me."

"I can remember my first game of marbles. I can describe the boys I played with, how they had their hair combed, their shoes, the shape of their teeth."

"Say, that seems almost psychic."

"Yes, sir, I can remember—let's see, what were we talking about?"

"When?"

"Just now."

"Surely you can remember what we were talking about just now."

"Well, to be frank, I've forgotten."

PRIVATE, FIRST CLASS.

Observe, my friends, a change in me,
A dignity that's new.
To roistering and raillery
Adieu!

The Auto with the Fringe on Top.

This is a 50 years ago story and a bright memory of a boyhood in Germany:

The family physician disposed of his pair of aged grays, Hansel and Gretel, and replaced them with one of the first horseless carriages manufactured by the Daimler Motor company. This chariot was the forerunner of the Mercedes-Benz car. It was an open four-seater and its two-cylinder motor, located in the rear, developed the terrific speed of 20 miles an hour, to the horror of the regional horses, cows, chickens, ducks, and geese. Its roof was upheld by four steel rods to which storm curtains were attached.

But best of all, there was an ornate fringe on top.

It wasn't so very long ago
That out in a big back yard
We threw a baseball back and forth;
I didn't dare throw it hard—
His hands were little: now I get His A. P. O. on a card.

It seems that it was yesterday—
Or was it long ages ago
That he would argue, youngster like,
Of our need for a picture show,
And sodas afterward. Now I get
This card with his A. P. O.

Anyway that time went fast—
Too fast, as indeed I know;
A boy for a beat and then grown up,
And now time is so slow—
Till I hear from him in addition to
That terse, unadorned A. P. O.

MAINTAINING STRENGTH DURING ILLNESS.

OUR older physicians apparently experienced more cases of prolonged illness than we encounter today. The answer lies in the fact that there are so many modern antidotes available that recovery comes promptly. More often than not, these remedies cut short the time one must spend in bed in order to regain health.

But there remain numerous maladies which merit the terms "lingering" and "tedious." In such circumstances the resources of the doctor will be put to the test to keep his patient in the best physical trim. For example, if the blood is allowed to drop below normal standards, it may mean that additional days or weeks of invalidism will ensue.

The members of the family can do about as much as the medical attendant. The first consideration is to make the sickroom cheerful. It is not desirable to allow the patient to dwell on his condition and, within the limits of relaxation, thought-provoking activity may be planned. With some, reading will require effort but almost any one can listen. If the tale is not punctuated by breathtaking episodes the interlude will prove soothing.

The chief objective is to build resistance to the point at which the forces of repair will win over the toxins of disease. The more consistently we can reduce temperature, which is a tearing down process, the better and more efficiently will we be able to raise reserve. We can restore vigor with generous amounts of protein and other palatable foods. Appetite may need to be stimulated with small, attractive dishes and feedings every hour or two are usually well borne. It is better to err on the side of too much nourishment rather than too little.

Next comes the question of elimination, which includes the daily bath. Alcohol rubs must not be forgotten. All of our wastes are not discharged via the bowel and the bladder. The skin plays an equally important rôle. The covering of the body will pay substantial health dividends if it receives skilled care. With a reasonable degree of attention to the proper balance of foodstuffs, there will be little occasion to irritate the lining of the digestive tract with laxatives.

Muscle weakness must be combated almost from the outset. Oblige the strongest person in the world to remain inactive for a few weeks and his "pulleys" will become flabby. He will be unable to stand erect. Furthermore, joints will stiffen and may even become painful.

All this may be forestalled with moderate exercises of which deep breathing is number one. This may be practiced several times each day. Then comes massage, frequent changes of posture, and such general manipulation as will not increase fever or be otherwise harmful. Not only will this program conserve strength and assist digestion but it will aid in the prevention of clot formation within a vein—an occasional complication of convalescence.

Some of us may be concerned with one who is the victim of a heart disorder and who must remain confined for six weeks or longer. Under good management he can emerge well nigh prepared to strike out under his own power. On the contrary, if his rest periods are poorly supervised he may be forced to spend an equal amount of time in acquiring his "sea legs." The object, of course, is not to allow weakness to become a handicap in and of itself.

SHOCK THERAPY.

L. M. writes: If a patient did not take convulsions while under the shock treatment, would that mean that the plan had failed?

REPLY.

There must have been some reason why the treatment was not pushed to a successful conclusion. Follow the counsel of your medical advisor.

WHINING BABIES.

S. A. writes: What makes some infants cry babies?

REPLY.

Some like to hear the sound of their own voices. Others are uncomfortable, hungry, or unhappy. Lack of adequate nourishment is a common cause. Infants demand and should receive boatloads of love.

BILIOUS.

H. S. writes: I am troubled with a bilious stomach. Can you suggest anything to help?

REPLY.

Indigestion has scores and scores of causes. The wisest thing to do is to find the factor responsible in your case and correct it. A skilled physician can aid you.

HISTAMINE.

M. P. writes: What is the purpose of giving histamine?

REPLY.

This drug has been suggested for numerous disorders—asthma, arthritis, peptic ulcer, etc. Make certain that the remedy is helpful in the condition which you are endeavoring to conquer.

SHIFT TO ACID.

J. W. writes: What causes repeated attacks of pyelitis?

REPLY.

There must be some residue of infection within the kidneys. Your physician will probably advise maintaining a highly acid urine so that organisms cannot grow.

Knowledge.

From Eugene F. McDonald Jr. comes a report of last Sunday's bull fight in Mexico City and the five noisy Americans seated behind him. One of the five was telling his companions all about the bull fight with a reckless misplacement of facts that made it seem improbable he had ever before seen one. The climax came when the picadors entered in the first fight. The omniscient one announced that they were stevedores.

On the Station Bench.

The woman in the railroad waiting room at Baltimore was gargantuan. From the waist up, when seated, she seemed four feet high. The man who kept fluttering futilely around her was wizened, leathery, and tiny. Again and again he came up to her to report, humbly, "None at that stand." "Well," she would snap, "try another." And off he would trot again. It happened five or six times. At last he sat down with an air of finality. "I tell you," he protested, "there isn't an orange in this town!" At that the tremendous woman turned to the mystified woman on her left and said, "Isn't that just the way it would be? We're going west, and unless I have an orange. I'm always sick as far as Pittsburgh."

So Little Time.

The principal business in the bank in the small southern city that morning was, as usual, cashing government allotment checks, all of which had to be approved by a bank official. The official was sitting at his desk when he saw them come in the front door, a young Negro woman holding a tiny baby, a large woman who obviously was her mother, and a stairstep line of smaller children. He eyed them casually and knew they soon would be at his desk. They were, and the younger woman handed him a check for $560 made out to Rose Marie Washington.

"Who are you?" he asked her. "I'm Rose Marie," she assured him. "The guvment's sending me that from my man. He's in the war." Rose Marie's mother nodded in determined agreement. "Soldier," she amplified.

The official examined the check. In one corner was the name of the man making the allocation. It was not Washington. It was Jasper Connolly, or any name you please.

"But," the official protested, "the soldier's name is Connolly, and yours is Washington . . ." and quickly he estimated that the check was for seven months' allocation to a wife and child.

"Don't make a bit of difference," the girl's mother interposed. "They was engaged when Mistah Guvment come in and swooped him off to war. And just as soon as this old war's over," she concluded brightly, "they is going to be married in a ceremony."

CHALLENGE TO DEWEY.

Chicago, April 12.—I think before we go any farther toward drafting Thomas E. Dewey for the Presidency we should be apprised as to Mr. Dewey's ideas for running the country. I do not think we should draft any man for this office until he tells us what he proposes to do. We don't want anybody to have the idea that we elect him as is, nor do we want anybody to think he has a "mandate," sight unseen, whereby he may run the nation as he sees fit, such as the way the present communistic mob has done for the last, almost 12 years.

If Mr. Dewey really wants to be President, let him say so and tell us what he proposes to do, so we may know whether we want him. If he will not, let us put our efforts toward electing some one who will tell the voters why he thinks he should hold this high office.

According to the act, all employes covered by the act, regardless of age, must have 1 per cent of their wages deducted for social security.

INVASION SUPPLY TROOPS TRAINED TO KNOW 'DUCKS'

Vehicles Save 33 Minutes in Landing, Says Army.

BY FRANK STURDY.

Camp Gordon Johnston, Tallahassee, Fla. [Special].—Army service troops that will supply combat units in the establishment of beach heads as the war progresses are trained here in operating that strange amphibious vehicle, the "duck." A unit of the army's private transport navy, the duck was until recently considered a secret weapon and its value is given high praise. It is nothing more than a hull built around a commercial 2½ ton truck, but the problems of sealing the gears against damage from salt water, and engineering a land vehicle for driving in the water were many. Repairs are required frequently and maintenance in general is high, but the army finds the performance of the craft justifies this handicap.

Saves 33 Minutes.

The duck will carry 5,000 pounds thru 10 foot surf and is estimated to save 33 minutes in transporting a load from ship to shore. The old method was to unload cargo to a landing craft which dumped it on the beach. Further handling was required in loading on trucks for distribution to dumps in the beach area. Confusion and waste of time was then the rule, supply officers say.

Negro troops manned the ducks demonstrated today in the Gulf waters to news writers and radio commentators touring military camps at the invitation of the war department to inspect training operations for the projected invasion of Europe.

Quick Power Changeover.

The ducks plowed thru the water, emerged dripping on the beach, and stopped less than a minute while the driver moved the lever switching the power from the propeller to the duck's six big tired wheels designed for traction in sand. The hull's overall length is about 30 feet and its beam 8 feet. It is equipped with an integral power operated hoisting device.

This camp is the only one in the country training amphibious service forces. Three infantry divisions and four engineer brigades have already been trained and are in war theaters. Some 165,000 acres are included in the reservation's triangular area, stretching for 21 miles along the Gulf in northwest Florida.

'DAY by DAY on the FARM.

The FARM by Ben Markland

April 14, 1944.

CHICAGOLAND residents have a habit of complaining that spring is notoriously late most years. This year provides northern Illinois residents with additional ammunition. Night temperatures were below the freezing mark during most of early April, delaying field and garden work and discouraging trees and wildflowers. During the latter part of this week, however, there was evidence in the farm yards and woodlots that spring eventually will catch up with the calendar. The spring symptoms were noticed during a 30 minute hike thru the lower woods of the Wheaton farm.

Anemones Budding.

We stepped thru a broken place in the fence, and headed for an area under the oaks where we know there always is a patch of anemones. The oak leaves were two inches deep on the damp woodlot floor, but after two minutes probing with a stick we found the clover-like leaves and fresh white stems of the anemones. Ten feet away were the narrow green leaves of the spring beauties, which in a week or so will cover the woodlot with their pink brilliance.

From a little pothole near the creaking windmill came the spring concert of the spring peepers, the tiny little one-inch frogs which chorus from the shore of every rural pond and marsh.

Wild Carrots Out.

We headed toward the gully to see if any of the dogtooth violet leaves are out of the ground, and on the way saw a hermit thrush darting into a wild crab tree. In the west ledge of the gully, open to the full force of the morning sun, were the distinctively green and purple leaves of the misnamed dogtooth violet, which is a lily rather than a violet.

On the return trip were more signs that the wildflowers are on their way out of winter hibernation. Alongside the east edge of the creek we found the leaves of wild strawberries, the lacy shoots of the wild carrot, and the five-fingered leaves of the cinquefoil. The bright sun pouring thru the naked limbs of the giant oaks produced all these signs that spring may be late, but is sure to arrive.

★ The GARDEN ★

PEA wilt was common in many Illinois gardens last season, in some cases being so severe that there was almost no yield. This disease is called "root rot" by many gardeners. The affected plants germinate well and seem to thrive until blossoming time, then the stems and leaves start to wilt and the main stem turns black near ground level.

If severely affected the plants may die before producing pods. If the disease is less severe the plants may produce pods, but the yield will be reduced.

If this disease was noted in a garden last season the gardener should change the location of his pea planting, selecting one as far away as possible. Some varieties are more resistant to wilt, chief among these being Giant Stride. A side dressing of commercial fertilizer alongside the pea rows after-germination also helps to combat pea wilt.

INDIANA SOLDIER VOTE MEASURE PASSED, SIGNED

Indianapolis, Ind., April 14 (AP).—The Indiana general assembly adjourned tonight after a four day special session which approved a soldier vote bill which does not accord recognition to the federal ballot.

The measure provides for members of the military forces to vote for national, state, and local offices, but the Republican controled legislature ignored the recommendation of the Democratic governor, Henry F. Schricker, that it validate the federal ballot. The house passed the measure today by a 95 to 0 vote.

JURY QUESTIONS NAZI'S KIN ON LOYALTY TO U.S.

End Evidence Against Native German.

The advisory jury of four men and eight women took an active part in federal court yesterday in the denaturalization proceedings against Gerhard Max Kauffmann, 39, brother-in-law of Capt. Walter Kappe, head of a German saboteur school near Berlin.

The government is seeking to revoke Kauffmann's citizenship on the grounds he made disloyal statements against the United States and was associated with the German-American bund. At the conclusion of evidence during which Kauffmann denied the government charges, Judge Barnes asked the jurors if they had any questions to ask.

Questioned by Woman.

One woman juror wanted to know why, if Kauffmann had cherished his citizenship papers so dearly, he had sent them to the government prosecutors [the witness previously had told of sending his papers to the government].

Kauffmann, nervous and fidgety on the stand, answered: "The government said they wanted to revoke my citizenship. I was afraid, so I sent the papers in."

She then commented that if she had citizenship papers she cherished, they would have to be taken from her by force. Another woman juror wanted to know if Kauffmann was buying any war bonds.

"Yes, all the time," he replied. Kauffmann was employed as an architectural draftsman.

Has No Stomach Trouble.

One man juror, apparently referring to Kauffmann's testimony that he couldn't get along with people and frequently quarreled with them, asked the witness if he had stomach trouble.

"No," Kauffmann answered, "except that I haven't been able to eat for the last three days."

In answer to a question by Judge Barnes, Kauffmann said that as an American citizen he believed in obeying the laws, living decently, and living up to the Constitution. He denied he had been a member of the bund but said he had attended several meetings.

Would Have to Fight.

Asked what he would do if he were called upon to fight against the Germans or the Japs, he answered, "I would have to go, yes."

In impaneling the advisory jury, allowed under denaturalization proceedings, Judge Barnes said he felt that 12 persons could better determine the facts than one. Under the law, he is not bound to abide by the ruling of the jury.

Final arguments were concluded yesterday and the case will go to the jury today.

TRIBUNE FINDS MANY 'OLDSTERS' IN WAR PLANTS

Grandmother, 68, Has Worked Since 1918.

In recent weeks Chicago Tribune reporters who visited war production plants were instructed to be on the lookout for oldsters: men and women normally considered over the working age. Many were found doing jobs ordinarily filled by men and women half their ages.

From time to time a story telling about these patriotic oldsters will appear in THE TRIBUNE. Here is the first:

On the day shift at the Stewart-Warner corporation, 1828 Diversey pkwy., Mrs. May Studenrauch, 1915 Wolfram st., may be found operating a machine alongside other women much younger. She's 68, a widow, and a grandmother.

Has Worked Since 1918.

"This war plant work isn't exactly new to me," Mrs. Studenrauch said. "I began in the first World war—in 1918. And I've been on the job ever since, and in the same plant."

Mrs. Studenrauch explained. Her husband earned only small wages during 1917-'18, and she worked to help out. Then her husband became ill. "He was a sick man for five years before he died in 1929," she said. Thru those years, she worked, helped support her three children—now all grown, and made their clothes. Today, still on the job she began in 1918, she is punctual, goes often to the movies, drives her own car, and she says smilingly, "I'm independent."

Late Only Twice.

Over at the Minneapolis-Honeywell corporation, 1135 N. Cicero av., Ernest V. Lombard, 79 next June, is on the job every day. He's a relief man in the boiler room, and he drives his own car from his home in Park Ridge, where he lives with his wife and daughter. He's never been absent, he said, and he's been late only twice.

"It was foggy one day, and a car broke down another, "he said.

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

THE VALLEYS OF MEMORY.

The year 1932 brought Jack $375,000 for five pictures made at a fast tempo. His health was not of the best, yet he still held onto his unconquerable spirit, and never lost for a moment his great sense of humor.

A producer, offended by Jack's didos, announced one day that he would "give this great Barrymore a piece of my mind." He marched onto the set to shake a finger in Jack's face.

The actor looked at him, then at the finger. "Don't point at me, if you please. I remember that finger when it had a thimble on it."

After a summer of hard work and marital unhappiness, the actor began "Counsellor at Law." He successfully finished this picture at Universal, then completed another, "Long Lost Father," for R. K. O. He then was recalled by Director William Wyler for the remaking of a single scene opposite Actor John Qualen for "Counsellor at Law."

Jack went with his manager to Universal studios on the evening of Oct. 30, 1933. He was understandably tired. He had had but two glasses of beer during the day, and about as much the day before. He definitely was not drunk.

Jack seemed wearily confident as he picked up a property silver pencil from the property desk and then began what ordinarily would have been for him the simple redoing of a sequence.

Actor Qualen was letter perfect, having played his own part on the stage with Paul Muni. After Barrymore had finished one of the longer speeches, and Qualen had made the proper rejoinder, Barrymore suddenly stumbled over his next brief speech. The actor made a comic face. Every one laughed.

The scene was undertaken again from the beginning. Then Barrymore "blew up" in his lines at almost the same place in the scene as before. A third "take" was ordered, and Jack failed at it. He did not make jokes now. He became quite angry, and threw the silver pencil to the floor.

The actor stubbornly persisted and repeatedly flunked out time and again, hour after hour. At the 50th empty attempt, Producer Henry Henigson arrived on the set to inquire into the astounding event. He squinted at the 51st take, at the 52d, then said to Hotchener, "Is he that drunk?"

"He's a little tired," was the reply. "Not drunk."

Barrymore still was fighting gamely to conquer his scene. He was perspiring. His face was drawn, his jaw set. Finally, after the 56th successive relapse, Jack's manager intervened to ask: "Why not put it over until tomorrow morning?"

Barrymore smiled mirthlessly. He turned from the camera to walk off the stage. He looked straight ahead.

On Dec. 11, 1933, the actor began tests for a screen portrayal of "Hamlet" in technicolor. Barrymore's brilliant friend and teacher of the Shakespearean word, Margaret Carrington, and her husband, Robert Edmond Jones, arrived in Hollywood. Jones was to direct the enterprise. The young multi-millionaire, John Hay [Jock] Whitney, had arranged to finance the project if Barrymore's tests warranted the production.

The afternoon of the "Hamlet" test found Jack ably reciting the "rogue and peasant slave" soliloquy. That evening, after dinner, he invited Helios Hotchener and other friends to see him do the ghost scene. He began the speech.

Then Barrymore suddenly broke off, as in the October episode at Universal. He put his hand to his head. He could not proceed beyond the "table of my memory" phrase. He was completely unable to remember the next lines, beginning with "I'll wipe away all trivial fond records."

After a pause he added: "I can remember those lines clearly up to a certain place. God knows I've said them on the stage hundreds of times with no trouble." Then he asked: "Can it be possible that there is some hidden reason for my falling down completely when the word 'memory' is spoken? What centers of the brain are disturbed when a particular word or phrase is being repeated? Am I to be struck down as was my father?"

"Could it not be from fatigue," asked Helios, "or perhaps drinking too much?"

"No," he replied with a dungeon tone. "I've had practically no liquor all day."

Jones and his wife sadly canceled their great plans for the "Hamlet" production, then left Hollywood for home.

In February of 1934 Barrymore's talent flared brilliantly. He made "Twentieth Century," the screen version of a zany masterpiece given to Broadway by playwrights Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur. These bouncing aces themselves wrote the scenario from their own play, tailoring it to suit the comedian abilities of Barrymore.

Then, on March 27, Jack quarreled with Dolores.

Their home life now was straining at the seams. Jack was spending his nights in a big chair in the rathskeller, seldom going to his bedroom. He was beset by domestic annoyances, whether real or imaginary. He felt that his daughter's companionship was being denied him, and that he was unwelcome in the nursery where his young son slept and played.

On May 6 the actor prepared for rehearsals of "A Hat, a Coat, a Glove," for Producer Kenneth Macgowan at R. K. O.

He went slowly from his dressing room to the set on May 15 to begin the making of the photoplay. He had not been drinking for the last several days. He swayed into the scene, knew not a word of the speech he was to give, and, to the consternation of the director, kept on walking in the wrong direction, to make an exit not indicated in the script.

Jack offered no comment when work was halted for the remainder of the day. He seemed unaware of what had happened. He went home for a night of sleep in his chair in the rathskeller. He sat there, fully dressed, alone.

In the morning he failed again. He failed again on the next.

Macgowan, a man of friendly discernment, called Hotchener aside to say: "I know he isn't drunk. His trouble is more serious than that. Please make him take a long rest. We must regretfully cancel the contract."

"I just bumped into your mother in the kitchen eating my Wheaties! Why didn't you tell me she was staying with us again?"

Mama's back. That means more Wheaties. And luckily there's plenty of those crisp toasted flakes. You'll want your share . . . once you discover Wheaties good whole grain nourishment and "second helping" flavor. Ask for Wheaties, "Breakfast of Champions."

"WE must some day be able to see enemy targets through the thickest fog and the blackest night . . . a single American soldier must be made a match for an enemy tank . . . we must be able to land armies upon every kind of fortified coast . . . we must send fighter planes seven miles into the sky, if need be, to smash enemy bombers from above . . ."

Thus read the notebooks of military strategy, not so long ago, listing things of war that were out of this world . . . the "impossibles" of the peacetime Sunday supplements.

But war is a relentless taskmaster. And so today we have a parade of "impossibles" of amazing variety—radar, the bazooka, unique troop landing craft . . . and an airplane that fights seven miles up, dives at speeds approaching the speed of sound, spits out more than ten pounds of steel projectile per second!

That airplane is the Thunderbolt—the joint product of an A. A. F. Matériel Command that knew what it wanted . . . and a corps of Republic engineers who knew it could be done. It is out of many such combinations that this nation is becoming invincibly armed . . . and its aerial supremacy made secure for the future.

Not the least "impossible" aspect of the Thunderbolt was its production. How could so intricate and elaborate a machine ever reach "quantity production"?

Yet, in a recent month, more planes came off the Republic Thunderbolt assembly lines than came from the assembly lines of any other company in America producing fighter-type aircraft.

Republic, along with every other war material manufacturer, working hand in hand with the Army Air Forces, is ready for still more "impossibles." Republic Aviation Corporation, Farmingdale, L. I., New York, and Evansville, Indiana.

NATION AT MERCY OF 4 AUTOCRATS, CLOSE TELLS 600

Writer Calls for Concrete U. S. Foreign Policy.

American foreign policy at present is "a slender hope placed in the hands of four autocrats," Upton Close, author and lecturer, told the Executives club yesterday.

Nearly 600 persons attended the luncheon in Hotel Sherman, and they cheered Close's assertions that the Roosevelt administration had been tricked by our allies, particularly Russia; that "the discrepancy between theory and fact is beginning to appear," and that "the first step out of confusion is rediscovery of what it means to be honest."

Absolves Hull of Blame.

Secretary Hull's speech last Sunday amounted to an admission that the United States has not yet formulated a foreign policy, said Close.

"Mr. Hull is not responsible for the mess, and I hate to think he is being used as the screen to hide the mess from the public," he said. "He tried again Sunday, and came a little nearer realism. But in the end he laid the whole future of America in the hands of four autocrats of widely diverse character, all of them supreme egoists."

Close did not name the four men, but from repeated allusions it was assumed he meant Roosevelt, Churchill, Stalin, and Chiang Kai-shek.

"On this slender peg," Close continued, "Mr. Hull hangs America's hope of ever having anything but war to scatter its blood and treasure thruout the world. The 'big four' is to work it out. Mr. Hull has no plan or suggestion. He asks us to have faith in miracles.

Calls Russia "Half-Ally."

"Disillusionment is setting in earlier this time than in the last war. Then we had no half-ally importantly dictating policy, actually in Europe and potentially in Asia. With the help given Russia, we are her full ally. Our President permitted himself to be drawn into two wars at once—one by surprise. Josef Stalin was too smart for that. Russia is not our ally in the war in the Pacific. She has even made moves that indicate she may stand in our way in the Pacific."

Churchill has "cut the legs from under the Atlantic Charter," said Close by interpreting it as not applying where British imperial interests are affected, and Stalin, he added, has upset the plans of both Churchill and Roosevelt.

ZOO'S LION DIES AT 28, CHEATING MERCY KILLING

A 28 year old Barbary lion named Hack after Hack Wilson, former slugger with the Chicago Cubs baseball team, died of old age yesterday morning in Lincoln Park zoo.

It was just as well that he died, Floyd Young, zoo director, said, because he was too old to enjoy life. He was blind in one eye and had a special cage because he was too feeble to compete with other lions for his food. Young said he would have had to shoot him in another five years. Lions reach their prime at about five years of age. Hack was brought in 1926.

Hack will continue to be on exhibit, however. A taxidermist will stuff the carcass for mounting in a glass cage in the Museum of Natural History, near the zoo.

Michael Fahey, Tribune Police Hero, to Retire

Policeman Michael J. Fahey, winner of a monthly Tribune hero award in 1926, will retire tomorrow after 30 years of service on the force. He will be 63 in August, but is retiring early to take a job as a bank policeman. Fahey won The Tribune hero award for his single handed capture of two bandits who were robbing a neighborhood grocer. Off duty at the time, he ran from his house, disarmed both bandits, and held them until other policemen arrived. Policeman Fahey lives with his wife, Catherine, and family at 744 S. Winchester av. He has five daughters and four sons.

ODD INTESTINAL ILLNESS INVADES 2 MORE SUBURBS

4 Cook County Towns Have Mild Epidemic.

War time health of Cook county residents is threatened by an outbreak of intestinal infection, which has reached the stage of a mild epidemic, and an increase in the number of spinal meningitis, scarlet fever, and chicken pox cases, Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, county public health director, said yesterday.

The source of the intestinal infection has not been found and medical authorities believe it to be an air borne virus, he said. The disease, which hits entire families, was first noted last month in Evergreen Park and Blue Island, but is now spreading into Harvey and Chicago Heights. One new case was reported in Hammond yesterday and none in Gary. The infection does not respond to sulfa drugs nor the drugs normally used in such cases, Dr. Piszczek said.

273 Cases of Meningitis.

Four new cases of meningitis were reported yesterday, bringing the total for this year to 273 as compared to a total of 497 for all of 1943. Deaths reported this year total 57 compared to 16 in 1943.

Scarlet fever is running high this year, but is comparatively mild. There have been 2,224 cases this year. Had the disease not been so mild, Dr. Piszczek said there would have been fewer cases, for school children would have been sick enough to remain at home.

Heavy Year for Chicken Pox.

Chicken pox runs in cycles of three to four years and 1944 is the third and heaviest year, the doctor said. Thus far the total cases number 2,292 in Chicago, with no resultant deaths, as compared to 2,104 cases and one death last year. In the county outside the city there have been 2,136 cases as compared to 1,555 in same period last year.

There have been two cases of poliomyelitis and no deaths in Chicago this year and only one case outside the city.

WOMAN CHARGES FIRM STOLE HER STORY FOR FILM

New Haven, Conn., April 14 (AP).—Mrs. Helen Grace Carlisle, a writer, filed suit in federal court today against Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., and others, charging that the picture, "Princess O'Rourke," which won the 1943 academy award for the best original screen play, was pirated from a novelet she wrote.

Mrs. Carlisle asks $300,000 damages. In papers prepared by her attorneys, Mrs. Carlisle, described as a "well known and successful author," declared that prior to Dec. 7, 1941, she circulated her novelet unsuccessfully among various motion picture producers. She charges Warner Brothers "copied much of the same technique, dramatic situations, episodes, plot, treatment, sequences, embellishments, and details" of her writings.

FRANK STANTON, SUPERVISOR FOR 16 YEARS, DEAD

Frank T. Stanton, 61, real estate dealer and a member of the Lake county board of supervisors for 16 years until his retirement in 1941, died yesterday in St. Therese hospital in Waukegan. He lived in Long Lake in Lake county.

Mr. Stanton served on the board as Grant township supervisor. In 1932 he was chairman, and also was a member of the Lake county board of review. After his tenure as township supervisor he was investigated by the county grand jury on charges of a taxpayers' group of irregularities in his accounts. The grand jury found that, instead of being short in his accounts, he had made overpayments.

Mr. Stanton leaves his widow, Mary, and a son, Mitchell. Services will be held at 11 a. m. Monday in St. Bede's church in Fox Lake.

W. G. KRIEG, 70, LONG ARCHITECT IN CHICAGO, DIES

Services for William G. Krieg, 70, pioneer Chicago architect, will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at 177 Woodside rd., Riverside. Mr. Krieg died Thursday in his home, 180 Maplewood rd., Riverside.

Mr. Krieg was one of Chicago's early architects and in recent years was associated with his son, Arthur W. Krieg of Riverside, in the architectural and structural engineering business. He was founder and president of the former Midland Terra Cotta company and a member of the Illinois Society of Architects. In the early 1900s he served as city architect of Chicago.

Survivors include the widow, Clara J. Krieg; two daughters, Amelia, of Seattle, Wash., and Clarice, of Eugene, Ore.; the son, and a brother, Henry F., of Riverside.

DOW—Frank E. Dow, April 15, 1942. In cherished memory of our loved one.
LOVING WIFE AND CHILDREN.

GRANZIN—Adeline Granzin.
Happy birthday, dear mother,
It is sweet to breathe thy name,
In your life we loved you dearly,
In your death we do the same.
DAUGHTERS EVELYN GARAZIN AND HELEN JOHNSON.

GRANZIN—Adeline Granzin. In memory of my "Gram." GRANDSON DUANE.

GRENA—Jacob Grena. In loving memory of our beloved husband and dad, who passed away three years ago.
What a beautiful memory he left behind,
He had a nature you could not help loving,
A heart that was purer than gold;
And to those who knew him and loved him,
His memory will never grow old.
High mass Saturday, at St. Alphonsus' church, by the Rev. J. A. Miller.
LOVING WIFE AND CHILDREN.

HAIGHT—Roy Haight. In memory of our dear father, who passed away one year ago today.
Loving and kind in all of his ways,
Upright and just, to the end of his days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.
LOVING FAMILY.

KARAFIAT—Betty Karafiat, nee Cervenka. In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away one year ago today, April 15, 1943.
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile;
Little do they know the heartaches
That our smile hides all the while;
How often do we tread the path,
That leads us to the grave,
Where rests the one we loved so well,
But whom we could not save.
LOVING DAUGHTERS, SON-IN-LAW, AND GRANDCHILDREN.

LAMSON—Moses W. Lamson Jr., April 15, 1942. In loving memory.
WIFE MARY.

LEWIS—Ida Lewis, April 15, 1938. In loving memory of our husband and father.

Many Change Homes Along North Shore

BY JUDITH CASS.

GETTING in ahead of the traditional May 1 moving day, a number of north shore residents already are at home in new residences which they have bought or rented. The John Derns are getting settled in the home at 94 Mary st., Hubbard Woods, to which they moved early last week. The Derns purchased about a quarter of the Lansing Warner estate, including the main house and a section of the lake front. Their former home in Glencoe is for sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Welch have rented their Lake Forest home to Lt. and Mrs. Marshall Jones of the navy. They will be at the Onwentsia until June, when they will take their family to Santa Barbara, Cal., where they have rented a house. The H. Templeton Browns have purchased the home at 1010 Hubbard lane, Winnetka, which formerly was owned by the Alvin E. Bastiens. The Bastiens at present are living in town.

Having sold her home at 772 Lincoln av., Winnetka, to William Mass of Highland Park, Mrs. Edward F. Hamm moved three weeks ago to a house which she purchased at 564 Arbor Vitae rd., Winnetka. Late in June her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hamm Jr., will be moving to the Hermon Butler home in Winnetka, which they have bought.

The Renslow D. Sherers moved last month into the Winnetka home formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Harding Jr. The Hardings and their two little girls are living in Milwaukee. Ensign and Mrs. Alex G. Webbe of Beverly Hills and their little son have taken the Frederic A. de Peyster home in Winnetka while he is stationed at Glenview. Ensign Webbe is a nephew of the Albion S. Webbes of Winnetka.

Engagement News.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rufus Howell of Woodlawn av. announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Mary, to Lt. Robert William Ramage of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Robert Ramage of Indianapolis, Ind. The wedding will take place early next month.

Miss Howell attended St. Xavier academy and Mount Holyoke college and was graduated last May from Manhattanville college of the Sacred Heart in New York City. She is a member of the Service club and has worked as a nurses' aid since her graduation from college. Lt. Ramage attended Culver Military academy and St. John's college and was graduated in 1941 from the United States Naval academy. He saw two years of active duty with the Atlantic fleet and now is stationed in Florida as an instructor in naval aviation.

Mr. and Mrs. Dowell Durbin of Barrington announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Ann, to Midshipman Richard Marshall Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard M. Watson, also of Barrington. Miss Durbin was graduated from Stephens college and Northwestern university. Her fiancé, a graduate of the University of Illinois, is attending the naval reserve training school at the University of Notre Dame, where he will receive his commission as ensign May 31. The wedding will take place the following day.

Week-End Calendar.

The Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel will be en fête tomorrow for a breakfast which the Madonna center is giving as its 21st annual benefit. Approximately 1,000 invitations have been sent out for the 1 p. m. party.

The Arts club has a waiting list for tomorrow's dinner at 7 p. m., to be followed by Thomas Beecham's lecture on "The Place of Opera in Music—Past, Present, and Future."

Belgian and American friends of Mr. and Mrs. Désiré Defauw will entertain at tea for them from 4 to 6 p. m. today at the Casino. Receiving with the two special guests will be Belgian Consul Gen. John Van Rickstal and Mrs. Van Rickstal.

A dinner-dance that was given last year at the Chicago Yacht club to break the traditional barrier between power boat and sail boat owners will be repeated tonight, the last big event to be held at the club's Monroe street station until next fall.

The Tavern club will close its series of indoor Sunday luncheons with a party from 12:30 to 3 p. m. today for Rockwell Kent, noted American artist. Following the buffet luncheon Mr. Kent will speak informally, marking the opening of a loan exhibition of his paintings.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Barefoot Girl.

Any one who has any doubts about spring being here should consult Hazel Shannon who spotted a girl at noon, one day this week, walking, serene, and unmolested, down La Salle street—barefooted and holding her shoes, tied together by the strings—in front of her.

The Perfect Boss.

After reading what other white collar girls have to say about their jobs, I'd like to introduce my boss whose remarks go something like this:

"That's a new dress, isn't it? It's very pretty."

"I think you have enough to do; we'll leave this for another time."

"I hear you girls are having a birthday luncheon for So and So. Well, you don't have to be back on the dot."

"We don't seem to have much work to do today. How would you like to go home an hour earlier?"

"If I'm dictating too fast, just shout."

Monday morning: "You look a little sleepy, Miss M. Well, we won't do much today so you can take it easy."

He never fails to bring a box of candy when he arrives from a business trip. So, have I a Utopia or the perfect boss? Or both?

—DIANE.

Know Your Typewriter.

Consider the typewriter in its proper light. Study your typewriter's "feel" and try as best you can to adapt your touch to the touch of the machine. "Know your typewriter"—learn to regard it as part of you. This is as essential to the expert typist as the right "feel" is in a tennis racquet or a golf club to the topnotcher in either sport."

—ALBERT TANGORA.

Nine to Five.

When a novel states on the jacket that it is "about your office" the reader is inclined to be a shade skeptical. Could it be possibly about your office manager, your switchboard operator, and your out of town salesmen?

Harvey Smith, author of "Nine to Five" keeps his promise well. Written without the brittleness that characterizes so many novels of business, here is a bright and engrossing tale of the romance, humor, and frustrations that circle around the clock from nine to five in an office. It begins with the Christmas office party and ends with the new president of the company—a woman—who takes over for the duration.

White collar girls are going to enjoy this book and may even doff their spring bonnets in the direction of the author for picturing his heroine as an attractive, sincere young person who doesn't know all the answers nor think she does.

P. S. She gets her man.

Published by Scribners, the novel is $2.50.

Salvation Army Association of City Organized

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Salvation Army association of Chicago was organized last night when more than 500 Salvation Army staff officers and men and women representing business, professional, and social leadership in the city met at a dinner in the Medinah club.

Roy C. Ingersoll, manufacturer, acting chairman of the proposed organization during the last year, was elected president of the new association, which has as its purpose the development of "a more thoro understanding of the Army by the public." The charter membership roll lists nearly 150 prominent citizens.

Lt. Commissioner John J. Allan, head of the army in 11 central western states, was introduced at the dinner as "the father of the United Service organizations" because he, while serving in the chief of chaplains' office in Washington, D. C., brought together the heads of the six agencies which formed the U. S. O.

After impressive data on the Salvation Army's activities in Chicago and a survey of its work "on every battle front except in Russia," Lt. Commissioner Allan gave a seven word definition of the Salvation Army—"a religious organization with a welfare program."

"The need establishes what we do," Lt. Commissioner Allan added as he emphasized the primacy of the religious motive.

The guest speaker was Gerald Campbell, British minister in Washington. He said the Salvation Army's understanding of human relations is the real key to a happy world of the future, the belief that "men can rise to deeds of nobleness, if given another chance."

Mr. Campbell was introduced by Stirling Morton. Other addresses were delivered by Harry R. Kendall, Herbert Kennedy, and Nathaniel Leverone.

Thru the Looking Glass

If you're getting a little fed up with your every day appearance try placing yourself in the hands of an expert hairdresser and having the tresses restyled in an entirely new and different manner. It can be an exciting experience and is a wonderful antidote for that feeling of drabness and dissatisfaction with self that is apt to clutch the woman who has not ventured away from her accustomed hair-do for a long time. And if you place yourself in the hands of a good stylist you need have no qualms about the outcome. Hair stylists are trained to make the utmost of the hair for itself and in relation to the features.

A radically different hair style may be something of a shock at first sight, but don't let the newness scare you away from it immediately. Give it a fair trial for at least two days before you decide you absolutely must crawl back to the anonymity of the old hair arrangement. Nine times out of ten you'll find that you like it, once the strangeness has worn off, and it will give a lift to the appearance and to your spirits as well. Try it out on family and friends, get their candid opinions and weigh them along with your own judgment before making a final decision. View yourself from all angles and try it with your various hats and costumes.

The casual, girlish hair-do is all right for young women, but after 25 it's time to consider abandoning the artless arrangement for something that gives a little more thought to the line of the hair, lift to the facial contour, and is a bit more sleek and well groomed looking.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

The textile skills she learned as the daughter of a dress factory owner and as the wife of a retailer of women's apparel led Mrs. Adeline Sutton into her war time job.

Mrs. Adeline Sutton.

A civil service appointee for the duration of the war, Mrs. Sutton is a textile inspector in Chicago for the army medical purchasing office and does her work for Bauer & Black, a division of the Kendall company, manufacturers of medical supplies, at 25th and Federal sts., Chicago.

Mrs. Sutton's duties include inspecting surgical cotton and bandages, adhesive tape, plaster of paris, and catgut sutures. It is her job to see that the products, which go to the army both in the United States and overseas, are made, packed, and shipped according to army medical specifications. She inspects the cotton for the presence of plant fiber or nibs, and counts the threads in surgical gauze.

"I am the grandmother of three," Mrs. Sutton said, "and I am proud to be working. There is no reason we grandmothers cannot be useful in the prosecution of the war."

Mrs. Sutton's one son, Pvt. Albert Z. Sutton, is on the public relations staff of the 124th cavalry, Fort Ringgold, Texas. Mrs. Sutton lives at 909 Agatite av.

The central information bureau, OCD, with headquarters at 209 W. Jackson blvd., is in need of additional volunteers to handle the clerical work of the office, which answers hundreds of inquiries daily from Chicagoans who want to know the answers to questions regarding all phases of war activities.

Mrs. G. Corson Ellis, director, reports that increasing demands on the staff make it necessary to add as many volunteer typists and mimeograph operators as possible. The bureau hopes to recruit women who can devote a minimum of two days a week, but those with only a few hours to give to this volunteer war work are likewise urged to offer their services.

Mrs. Lewis Willner, who heads the volunteer aids, will interview applicants who write or telephone. The number is Wabash 5500.

The enrollment period for the training course which the Red Cross home service corps will give for volunteers has been extended to Tuesday. Teachers, especially, are asked to take the instruction, which equips them to do social service work on a volunteer basis for families of service men and the service men themselves during the summer and on week-ends.

Registrations for the course are being accepted at home service headquarters, 616 S. Michigan av. Harrison 5910, extension 221.

Three Seeking Presidency in D.A.R. Contest

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 14.—With the first contested election in the history of the society pending, the 53d continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, opening here Monday, already shows signs of a major political campaign.

The three candidates for the office of president general, to succeed Mrs. William H. Pouch of New York, arrived today and are dispensing charm, handclasps and kisses at a round of luncheons, teas, and receptions given by supporting groups.

Each train into the city brings scores of delegates, and the Commodore hotel, headquarters of the congress, and neighboring hotels are booked to capacity. The delegate body alone, it is estimated, will reach 5,000.

In the presidential race are Mrs. Samuel J. Campbell of Mount Carroll, Ill., present treasurer general of the society; Mrs. George J. Schermerhorn of Reading, Mich., and Mrs. Julius Young Talmadge of Athens, Ga., national vice chairman of the resolutions committee. Mrs. Campbell will be the guest of the Illinois delegates at a dinner Sunday night in the Commodore.

Among delegates and alternates from Illinois who arrived today in special cars on the New York Central's Commodore Vanderbilt were Mrs. Gertrude Galloway, Winnetka; Mrs. Ivor Jeffreys and her daughter, Arminda, and Mrs. Clayton Dunham of Glencoe; Mrs. A. H. Tippens, Mrs. Charles Pflager, and Mrs. Earnway Edwards of Evanston.

Also Mrs. T. R. Hemmens, Mrs. Vinton Earl Sisson, Mrs. E. M. Briggs, Mrs. Wendell W. Hall, Mrs. R. A. Kneiff, and Mrs. Arthur J. O'Neill, all of Chicago; Mrs. George Strickler, Polo; Mrs. Helen Murdock, Peoria; Mrs. Otto Crist, Danville; Mrs. George Gumbart, Macomb; Mrs. Charles H. Woods, Lincoln; Mrs. J. E. Kamp, Kewanee; Mrs. Anna Bassler, Harvey, and Mrs. Arthur Tripp, Belvidere.

Mrs. J. Deforest Richards, Illinois state regent, arrived yesterday to attend conferences of the national finance committee, of which she is a member.

Among several other patriotic organizations holding conventions concurrently is the National Society of the Daughters of Colonial Wars. Mrs. Frederick A. Sapp of Ottawa, Ill., is slated for election tomorrow to the national presidency of that society and another Illinoisan, Mrs. William Fox of Wilmette, is unopposed for recording secretary.

Formal opening of the four day D. A. R. congress Monday night will be in the Waldorf-Astoria, where delegates will hear an address on American internal defense by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation.

"May I add another suggestion to your uses for fresh coconut [April 5 Tribune]?" writes a reader. "I grind all I don't use at once, place it in a shallow pan and dry it out in a low oven. If it browns slightly, it tastes all the better. I keep this toasted coconut in a glass jar on the pantry shelf and use it as I need it in puddings, cake, and frostings. Grinding may not make coconut look as pretty as shredding, but it's a lot easier on the fingers!"

Another reader suggests coating the excess shredded coconut with confectioners' sugar and storing it in transparent bags for later use.

When you break off the ends of asparagus, the tougher parts of the stalk, don't throw them away. Use them in soup. They'll give up a good deal of flavor before they need to be discarded. Strain them out of the soup after half an hour or so of simmering.

The upper part of a double boiler is a convenient utensil for cooking asparagus stalks, because it usually is deep enough so that the stalks can stand on end, their tips above water, to be cooked by steam. Tie asparagus loosely in bunches of portion size, so that it may be easily removed to dinner plates to lie in attractive bundles.

Mary Barber, food consultant to the army, says that soldiers like and eat well of these foods: Canned tomatoes, corn, peas, eggs, apple sauce, pies and cakes, in addition to always popular meat, milk, ice cream, and fresh fruit. They don't care for liver, creamed beef, kidney beans, hot cereals, grits, parsnips, spinach, and other greens. Childhood patterns of food preferences carry over to adult life, and the time to change poor food habits and establish good ones is in early life, Miss Barber says.

The spice supply is better by about 22 per cent than it was a year ago. Some shortages still exist, however. But imports are better and many more spices are being raised domestically.

Fresh bunched beets are a good buy. Be sure to serve the tops along with the beets themselves [but don't cook them as long!], for the tops are exceptionally rich in minerals and vitamins, especially vitamin A.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Red Cabbage with Wine.
[Serves six.]

2 pounds red cabbage [7 cups shredded]
4 slices bacon, diced
1 onion, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
½ cup water
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 tart apple, peeled and chopped
3 tablespoons sherry wine

Shred cabbage coarsely. Place diced bacon and chopped onion in kettle and cook until onions are glazed. Add salt, sugar, water, and vinegar and bring to boil. Add cabbage and apple and mix thoroly. Cover and simmer until cabbage is tender, about 25 minutes. Add wine. Increase sugar or vinegar in recipe if desired.

On the Record

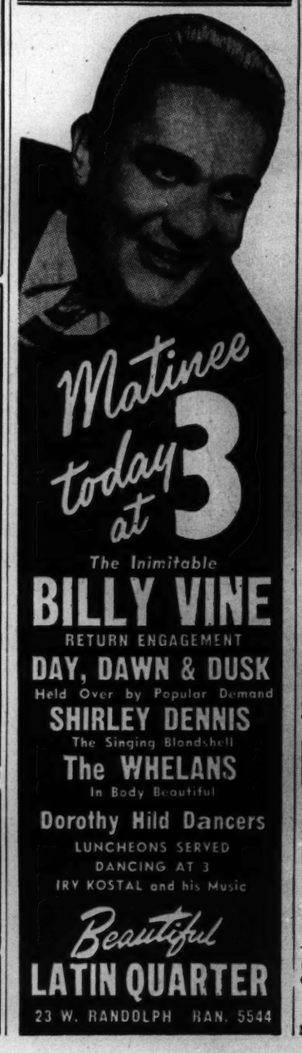
By Claudia Cassidy

Ode to Joy.

At their best, records can do music the fabulous favor of perpetuating great performance. Columbia does its part with the re-release of a landmark of the Beethoven shelf, the Symphony No. 9, in D minor, played by the Vienna Philharmonic orchestra under the direction of Felix Weingartner, with the Vienna State Opera chorus and soloists including Luise Helletsgruber, soprano; Rosette Anday, contralto; George Maikl, tenor, and Richard Mayr, bass [M-227; eight 12 inch records].

This is a big, direct, beautiful performance of a masterwork by a master. It has the power, the serenity, and the lambent brilliance to project the great choral symphony which remains an enigma to so many conductors and, because of disappointing performance, to so many audiences. Weingartner spoke with authority, and here he had an orchestra and singers worthy of the music. An extra dividend is knowing that the beautiful bass belonged to Richard Mayr, long the great Baron Ochs of Salzburg's "Rosenkavalier."

Weingartner's is certainly the most desirable recording of the Ninth, doubly so at about half its original price. Listening, you can almost see Beethoven in his green coat at that long ago first performance, so deaf one of the singers turned him toward the audience that he might see the excitement he could not hear.



The Box Coat Clicks; So It's Here to Stay

BY REA SEEGER.

The short box coat is here to stay. When this swanky short model was launched weeks ago, in spring woolens and in both street and spring shades, it clicked instantly; for there's something particularly dashing, young, and fresh to such a coat. It slides over sheath-straight costumes with perfection, flaring jauntily at the back and thereby accentuating the slim silhouette of the dress. It's a coat to wear for town or country, a brief contrast for all the clothes in the wardrobe, snappy relief from the coats that are hung over the shoulders or longer coats that skim the edge of the skirtlines.

You've seen them and worn them in spring shades, neutrals, vivid green, red, gold, and tangerine as well as in classic black, gray, navy, brown, stunning all-whites, and caramel beige. From now on you'll see these smart brevities in many summer materials. Gleaming satin beauties are ideal for day time and evening dress parade clothes, subtle black affairs are ready to double for afternoon or evening with dull black dresses, with gay prints, and with the newest exciting column-straight dinner dresses.

The short box coats are promised in brilliant colors for summer—pale gold, pink, azure-blue, lime-green, pale orange and the lovely faded violet tints; also in white, ivory, butter yellow, and raspberry ice tint. Still later, coats made of spanking white pique, ribbed bengalines, and very swank moire patterned rayon silks will arrive. Even checked plaid, and striped taffeta get a gay whirl in these coats. The taffeta beauties are just about the last word in feminine elegance and eye appeal.

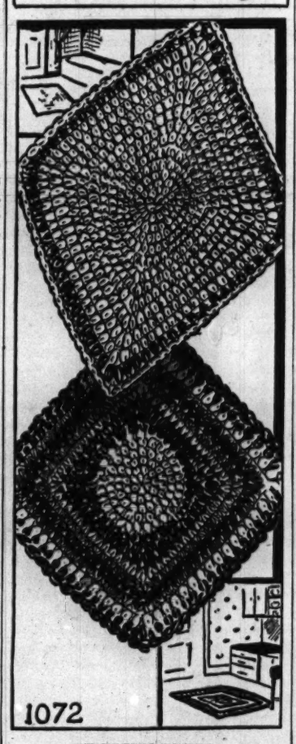
Rules Service Wives May Have Maternity Care in Any Hospital

Atty. Gen. Barrett, in an opinion released yesterday, ruled that expectant mothers, who are wives of service men in the lower grades, and their infants may be cared for without cost in any hospital in Cook county and need not be sent to County hospital as public charges. In his decision he denied the application of County hospital to participate in a plan known as the federal emergency maternity and infant care program.

As established, the program operates to allot federal funds thru state health departments for the care of service men's wives who are pregnant and for their sick infants up to one year of age.

Crocheted Rugs



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

There are many nooks and corners in the home where odd shaped crocheted scatter rugs add a note of cheer. These two patterns serve as excellent ways in which to use up scraps of material or cotton rug yarn. It is simple needlework, and the rugs may be made any desired size.

For instructions in crocheting the two rugs, No. 1072, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York City.

Mrs. Thomas T., Chicago—I apply a good grade liquid wax to smooth grained soft leather binding of my books. If you apply it with a soft cloth you can remove finger and smudge marks, and the leather will stay pliant.

Mrs. Fred S., Detroit — If you are basting any woolen materials this spring try using silk thread instead of cotton. The silk thread is less likely to leave marks.

'Gettysburg' Symphony Played

Boston, Mass., April 14 [Special].—Roy Harris' "Gettysburg" symphony, its four movements based on parts of the famous address of Abraham Lincoln with whom the composer's life was uniquely associated, had its first performance in Symphony hall this afternoon.

The son of western pioneers, Harris was born in a log cabin in Lincoln county, Okla., on Lincoln's birthday in 1898 and his life was influenced by the ideals of freedom that Lincoln lived for.

As Serge Koussevitzky led the Boston Symphony orchestra thru a final rehearsal of the score for its world premiere by radio tomorrow night, Harris told of the origin of the work.

"I had been thinking of Lincoln's Gettysburg address and realizing that Lincoln was the personification of a human ideal, an ideal for freedom, which had to be fought, bled, and lived for," he said. "I awoke suddenly one morning and seemed to see the address divided into the four logical parts on which it is based—the awakening, conflict, dedication, and affirmation."

In idiom the symphony is recognizably pure Roy Harris. Its turns of harmony and counterpoint, in the main, are unmistakably identified with Harris' orchestral works from the Third symphony on.

But the scoring indicates a clarifying process, in spite of all its dissonance, and the sonorities are more transparent than in anything Harris has done before.

Whether the work achieves an unmistakable expression of Lincoln's classic speech only time can reveal. Music without words is abstract, and when a composer tries to put a literary, pictorial, or dramatic attribute in his music, his avowal that he has done so is the only evidence in support of his idea.

There are many fine pages in the symphony, many expertly wrought measures, and some fascinating sounds.

Officers' Club to Hold Spring Formal Tonight

The Officers' club in the Hotel Knickerbocker will have its largest party of the year tonight, a formal dance which 1,000 commissioned men and women are expected to attend. The spring dance is an annual event at the club. Miss Jane A. Magan is chairman of the board of governors. She is being assisted by Mrs. Beulah T. Hurst, Miss Celia M. Howard, Miss Edna C. Smith, Miss Pearl I. Field, Miss Alma Koch, Miss Alma Rasmussen, Miss Grace Tuwell, and Miss Marie Erikson.

Present Music of Americans in Mandel Hall

American composers have a hard time in this life, partly because they are constantly being assembled in not too compatible clusters on programs that don't quite come off. Last night's concert, sponsored by the University of Chicago at Mandel hall, was no exception. It had some interesting interludes, but they added up to a disappointing evening.

Aaron Copland started things by playing his Sonata for Piano, a bold work with a fine bony structure and a minimum of tonal flesh for seduction's sake. Then Edmund Kurtz and Remi Gassmann played a Sonata for Violoncello and Piano written by Mr. Gassmann in Berlin eight years ago, and it turned out to have an appealing lyricism exploited by adroit performance.

After that it was Virgil Thomson's turn. Mr. Thomson was twice represented, first by a Stabat Mater to a poem by Max Jacob. Considering the style of the text and the general aura of the score, I thought perhaps Mr. Thomson intended to convey some of the Gallic candor of "Le Jongleur." If so, he was thwarted by an amateur chamber orchestra heroically conducted by Hans Lange, and by the singing of Janet Fairbank, which lacked the sensitive security and the delicacy of imagination imperative in such music. His Sonata da Chiesa, a shrill and clever chorale and fugue for wind instruments and Sheppard Lehnhoff's viola, interpolated a tongue in cheek tango with the viola playing dulcet undulations while the winds grunted what I took to be approval. Luckily for that fugue, a tricky piece of writing, the players were Chicago Symphony men.

Afterward Miss Fairbank sang three of Mr. Gassmann's songs to love lyrics of Walt Whitman, and the chamber orchestra added Mr. Copland's familiar music for movies from the scores for "The City," "Of Mice and Men," and "Our Town."

Edmund Kurtz.

Edmund Kurtz, for the last eight years first cellist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, resigned yesterday. He will devote all his time to concert work. Mr. Kurtz is a brother of Efrem Kurtz, conductor of the Kansas City orchestra, who appeared as guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra last season, both at Orchestra hall and at Ravinia.

Music Notes

The University of Chicago choir, under the direction of Désiré Defauw, with Claire Dux [Mrs. Charles H. Swift], soprano, and James McEnery, baritone, as soloists, will present Fauré's Requiem in a free public concert at Rockefeller memorial chapel at 4 p. m. Sunday, April 23. . . . The Chicago Symphony orchestra reports contributions of $30,000 from 537 individuals in its campaign for sustaining members. . . . Lauritz Melchior, tenor, and Patrice Munsel, coloratura soprano, have been added to the list of singers who will give their services at the concert to aid the Chicago Opera, at the Civic Opera house Sunday afternoon, April 23.

Smart Parents Give Firstborn Proof of Love

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It is certainly distressing for a mother and surely bad for a baby or little boy himself when he cries often, and apparently for no reason. The following letter describes such a case.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have two children, both boys. One is 2½ years old and the other is just a year.

"The older of the two boys has a nervous temperament and cries over the least thing. Of course, I know he still is just a baby, but I would like to get him over the habit. In between crying he has a sunny disposition.

"He cries and goes on terribly if his father or I go out of his sight to go to the store. He's worse if his father goes out after coming home from work. How can I conquer this?"

One of the first things a mother should always check on is her child's physical condition, his sleep, his rest, and his food, not to mention his need for outdoors, and interesting play or play materials indoors.

In spite of the fact that a firstborn little boy or girl may love the baby, ready tears like this or some other unusual behavior may be an indication that there is a deep and unsatisfied need for more of a mother's or father's attention and companionship.

So it is important for a mother with a younger baby on her hands to manage, by hook or crook, to have extra time for the older child—to play with him and read to him alone, so showing him that he still occupies a special place in her love which no baby's existence can jeopardize. I feel sure that the result of this will be less crying and even less fearfulness.

In addition, it is a good plan to try to deal more directly with the fears. Sometimes it is wise to try gently and sympathetically to bring fears out into the light and talk them over.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 14.—Before Lillian Hellman goes to England to write "War and Peace" for Alexander Korda, she'll send Sam Goldwyn a check for $30,000. That will cancel her agreement with him. Incidentally, Korda is one of the finest investments Louis B. Mayer ever made. He's signed up quietly the writing, acting, and picture brains of Britain, also of France, thru the underground. Already Joe Stalin has offered him any director or composer he wants for Russian shots in "War and Peace." . . . Don't be surprised if Jean Gabin turns up in Washington on a special mission for the French. . . . Understand reason Louise Allbritton was suspended by Universal is that she went overseas without the studio's consent. . . . Since Humphrey Bogart croons in "To Have and Have Not," will Frank Sinatra [for revenge] tote a gun in his next?

Yes, She's Got It.

Gypsy Rose Lee came out under a year's contract to Bill Goetz. She's just signed on for four more years. . . . Looks as tho Warners is definitely off war pictures. Six of its writers who were working on 'em were ordered to stop. . . . When Fannie Brice entered the hospital here she signed on under the name of "Rebecca Colon." As she was taking her intravenous shots she looked at the tube and said to the doctor, "Go on, give me the rest. There're two more drops in there." . . . Archie Mayo had a narrow squeak. Four weeks ago after a boil had been lanced, he developed blood poisoning, and his temperature shot to 104. Penicillin saved his life.

It's O. K., Pal.

Joe Pasternak called up to tell me Alec Templeton will be in "Cabbages and Kings." He plays the piano and also will conduct the orchestra for several numbers — which is good news to all of us who admire, respect, and love Alec. . . . Makes me a little ill to read that Barbara Stanwyck takes a role intended for Bette Davis. Barbara doesn't have to take anything from anybody. There's a swell actress. . . . No wonder Edward Arnold is making money on his oranges. He stamps each one with his name. If that isn't sending liquid sunshine to your fans, I don't know what is. . . . Ann Sheridan assures me her overseas wardrobe will weigh only 10 pounds. That includes three evening gowns, too. . . . It takes old timers to give old timers a job.

Big Town Chatter.

When and if Mary Martin is freed from Paramount she'll sign with M-G-M. I don't believe that studio will buy "One Touch of Venus." If it does Greer Garson insists upon starring in it. . . . S. Z. Sakall has added another to his four chins — and is proud of it. . . . Since becoming a horror team, Sydney Greenstreet and Peter Lorre receive letters addressed to "Fat and Shorty." . . . Delmer Daves sold a short story called "Get Hep to Boredom" for the Hollywood hangers-on. . . . Phyllis Brooks is playing in "Out of This World," which is what the fellows in the South Pacific said about her.

She Hasn't Failed Yet.

Colleen Moore and husband are being wined and dined all over town. Colleen tells me she's given her doll house to the Henry Ford museum. She went on a committee in Chicago for the safety of children and had no idea it would lead to a radio show. She's doing a whale of a job with it. Those of us who know Colleen aren't surprised. If she fell on her head she'd come up with the Russian crown jewels around her neck. . . . Looks as tho Warners is planning a remake of "Sweet Adeline" with Irene Manning.

Movie Mystery Comedy Truly a Fun Festival

"THE MIRACLE OF MORGAN'S CREEK."

A Paramount picture, directed by Preston Sturges, featuring Betty Hutton and Eddie Bracken, and presented at the Chicago.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Quite as baffling as any mystery story is this riotous comedy of errors. It differs from any mystery in that one salient secret never IS cleared up.

Opening scenes show the governor of the state—IN a state. . . . He has been contacted over the phone by the editor of the Morgan's Creek newspaper who is spilling something in his ear that is making him fit to be tied. . . . WHAT is the editor saying to the governor? Well—thereby hangs a tale—the tale which is forthwith unreeled before your goggling eyes.

The leads are Betty Trudy Kockenlocker, a small town belle, and Norval Jones, a bank clerk, who yearns to be in uniform but who can't pass a "physical."

One night there's a dance to speed some soldiers on their way. Trudy is all dolled up to attend the event when her policeman father puts down his foot and says, "No!" Trudy wangles Norval into taking her out. Once out she persuades him to release her from her date with him, go to a movie alone, and agree to meet her in front of the movie house after he has seen the three features that are running there.

He waits for her until 8 o'clock the next morning.

Later as Trudy talks to her intrigued younger sister she remembers THAT—she got married. To whom? A soldier—but all she can recall regarding him is that his name sounded like Ratskiwatski.... She remembers that neither she nor her bridegroom gave their right names.

LATER—she discovers that there's to be a baby.

Noble Norval who loves her true, conceives the idea—after in her panic she has told him all—of dressing up like a soldier and wedding Trudy under the name of Ignatz Ratzkiwatski. . . . And from here you go on with the picture.

"The Miracle of Morgan's Creek" is one of the best cooked batches of fun that's come from the Hollywood ovens.

See you tomorrow.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is unfortunate when the declarer strips the hand, throws you in, and forces you to make a ruinous return, but for you to assist him in this process is not exactly shrewd. Consider this deal:

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ 10954
♥ K83
♦ Q84
♣ QJ8
WEST	EAST
♠ AJ6	♠ 3
♥ QJ9	♥ 7652
♦ KJ92	♦ 10753
♣ 1073	♣ K642
SOUTH
♠ KQ872
♥ A104
♦ A6
♣ A95

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West led the heart queen. The king was put up and a trump was led to the king. West won—and then looked around earnestly but fruitlessly for a safe exit. Actually, there wasn't any. He tried a low club. East shrewdly refused to cover the queen—he didn't even hesitate—but declarer then cashed the trump queen and threw West in with the trump jack. On the club return, the eight was played from dummy and now it didn't matter whether or not East covered. Declarer cashed the third club trick, then led the ace and six of diamonds. West was in again, and was again faced with the unsolvable problem of exiting without giving up a trick. The contract was home.

If West had quickly and blandly played low on the first trump lead he probably would have defeated the contract. Declarer, with no knowledge of the position of several key cards, almost surely would have tried to reënter the dummy for a second trump lead toward the queen, and probably would have chosen a low club for that purpose. Any such maneuver on declarer's part would have saved West from the series of throw-in plays, and given victory to the defenders. It is true that declarer could have made the contract under his own steam, so to speak, but at least West should have given him the chance to go wrong!

Midwest Girl Scouts Urged to Organize for Work on Farms

A plea to organize senior Girl Scouts into farm aid groups early enough this year to let farmers know how many harvesters will be available was voiced by Miss Catherine T. Hammett of New York, a member of the Girl Scout program division, at a luncheon meeting of Scout executives from the Great Lakes district yesterday at the La Salle hotel.

"The middle west last year provided fewer farm aid girls than the east and west coast," she revealed. "Girl Scouts piled up a recorded total of 469,404 hours, thus releasing 815 hired men for the armed forces. We expect to exceed the work of 1,000 hired men this year."

SOX WHIP CUBS IN 9TH, 3 TO 2; 2D STRAIGHT

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

EFFORTS will be made this year, it is said, to prevent the vicinity of the Cub bullpen at Wrigley field from being a co-educational social center during the progress of National league games. . . . The National A. A. U. boxing tournament in Boston the early part of this week had neither the numerical strength nor the competitive class of Chicago Golden Gloves. . . . Tom Taggart, overlord of French Lick, didn't know his horse, Big Flash, had won the $25,000 Hollywood handicap in 1940 until he read about it in a great newspaper [guess which]. . . . Among the myriad resolutions that will be presented at the National Football league meeting in Philadelphia next week is one requiring the league office to be located in either the western or eastern division only five years at a time. . . . Can you imagine Mr. Landis or Mr. Harridge closing their Michigan avenue offices after five years and trying to prevail upon trained personnel to move to New York, Boston, Washington, or Delaware Gap. . . . Pro football, of course, is still afflicted with ailments common to infancy. . . . Hawaii-born Dick Miyagawa, who recently was elected honorary captain of the University of Wisconsin boxing team, was N. C. A. A. champion two years ago while attending San Jose State college in California. . . . Miyagawa also earned a "W" last winter as a member of the Badger wrestling team. . . . The national senior weight lifting championships will be held in Chattanooga May 27.

John D. Hertz.

Lon Warneke.

Unlike Bill Nicholson, Lon Warneke and other Chicago baseball favorites who chew tobacco lavishly on the field but never off, Hal Trosky of the White Sox chews wherever there's an outlet handy. . . . Tom Ford, Tulsa back who ran 75 yards for a touchdown in the Sugar Bowl against Georgia Tech New Year's day, is in the army air corps. . . . Reigh Count first attracted the attention of Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz by attempting to bite a horse which was outrunning him. . . . Subsequently they purchased him from Willis Sharpe Kilmer for $12,000. . . . He went on to become one of the great horses of his time, and since being retired from the races he has produced a brilliant son to carry on—Count Fleet. . . . Reigh Count is now king of the stallions at the Hertzs' Kentucky establishment, Stoner Creek stud. . . . At the Cubs-White Sox hotel this spring boarders could have all the fresh pineapple they could eat, but nary a drop of catsup or chili sauce during the whole stay.

This Is My Wish.

This is my wish—thru all my life
That I be always like the sky
Which never tires of serving God
Tho days and nights may bloom and die.

This is my hope—that every day
I may be cheery as the spring
Whose waters dance and to the tongues
Of fawn and flow'r their fulgence fling.

This is my dream—to live as land
Wherein the seeds grow tall and gold—
Like fields of wheat and heathered hills
Which bear His fruit a-hundredfold.

This is my prayer—to know my chore
And do what God expects of me
Just half so well as these small things
Which fill the earth with pleas'antry!

—Frank H. Keith.

CARDS DEFEAT BROWNS, 3 TO 2, IN FIVE INNINGS

McQuinn, Stephens Hit Homers.

St. Louis, Mo., April 14 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Browns today, 3 to 2, in a game called after five innings because of rain.

George McQuinn and Vernon Stephens hit home runs on successive pitches served up by Mort Cooper of the Cards in the first inning. Gene Moore then smashed a single off the pitcher's foot and he left the game after completing the inning. Harry Brecheen finished and stopped the Browns with one hit.

Harry Gumbert, Cardinal veteran, disclosed he had received orders from his Houston, Tex., draft board to report for a pre-induction examination and had asked to have his papers transferred to St. Louis.

INDIANS LOSE AGAIN.

Dayton, O., April 14 (AP).—With President Alva Bradley and Roger Peckinpaugh looking on, the Cleveland Indians were shut out, 4 to 0, by the Cincinnati Reds here today in the third of five pre-season meetings. It was the fifth straight defeat for the Indians and the seventh in eight exhibition games this spring.

Elmer Riddle, who is expecting an early service call, and Bob Katz, a rookie, held the tribe to three hits.

BARNEY ROSS TO REFEREE BOUTS AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., April 14 [Special].—Sgt. Barney Ross, who received an honorable discharge from the marine corps in New York today, will make a special trip to Notre Dame next Friday to act as referee in the finals of the intramural boxing tournament. Plans for his appearance were completed today by the Rev. Charles M. Carey, C. S. C., chairman of the university board of publications, which also supervises the tournament.

Most of the entries in the tournament are members of the navy and marine units on the campus.

Results of tonight's semi-final round of the university's boxing tournament follow:

135 pounds—Jack McGrath beat Bob Dunn [3]; 145 pounds—Ray Engberson beat John Murphy [3]; 145 pounds—Tom Burns beat Jim Leahy [3]; 155 pounds—Frank Amato beat Jim Dougherty [3]; 155 pounds—Bob Blair beat John Petane [3]; 165 pounds—Bill Roemer beat Charlie Arnold [3]; 175 pounds—Jesse Ashley beat Tom Kelly [3]; Heavyweight—Dale Venning beat Frank Cotton [3]; heavyweight—Gerry Ford beat Jim Medows [3].

SIX NEW SOX—AND A CUB VETERAN

Six new members of the White Sox line up for cameraman before yesterday's game with the Cubs in Comiskey park. The White Sox won their second straight in the spring city series, 3 to 2. Left to right: Johnny Dickshot, outfielder; Hal Trosky, former Cleveland Indian, first baseman; Grey Clarke, third baseman; Pete Sharp, second baseman; Leroy Schalk, infielder, and Eddie Carnett, outfielder.

SWIM TITLE TO PORTLAND GIRL

Brenda Helser Wins in 100 Yard Freestyle.

Oakland, Cal., April 14 (AP).—Staving off a last lap sprint by her nearest rival, Brenda Helser, 19 year old star of the Multnomah club of Portland, Ore., tonight won the 100 yard freestyle title in the first finals event of the 1944 national senior women's swimming and diving meet.

Miss Helser's time was 1:00.9, three seconds slower than her time in the semi-finals this afternoon. She won the semi-final in 1:00.6, just six-tenths of a second slower than her world mark.

New Yorker Fails.

Marie Corridon of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, took an early lead in the feature event and held it thru the first lap. Shortly after the turn she relinquished it to Miss Helser. The Portland girl held the lead the rest of the way, altho Ann Curtis of the Crystal Plunge of San Francisco staged a final lap sprint that failed by a hand.

Twenty year old Anne Ross, St. George Dragon club of Brooklyn, N. Y., defending champion, again won the one meter diving championship with a score of 124.9 points, compared with 126.93 points last year.

A new champion was crowned in the 300 yard individual medley, comprising four laps each of the breast stroke, back stroke, and free style, when Nancy Merki, Multnomah club, won by a length from Joan Fogle, Riviera club, Indianapolis, Ind., defending champion. The winner's time was 4:02.1.

Chicagoans Eliminated.

Point scores at the end of today's events: Multnomah club, 14; St. George Dragon club, 5; Women's Swimming association, 4, and Crystal Palace Plunge, Pasadena club, and the Riviera club, 3 points each.

Those eliminated in the semi-finals, with their times in qualifying heats, are:

Betty Shields, New York, 1:04; Edith Miller, Medinah club, Chicago, 1:04.6; Bobbie Bankratz, Lake Shore club, Chicago, 1:04.7; Joyce McRae Duke, San Francisco, 1:04.7; Betty Joe Goode, San Francisco, 1:05.5, and Mary Anne Hanson, Portland, Ore., 1:05.7.

MATT MATTESON TAKES PRO'S JOB AT DETROIT CLUB

Matt Matteson, secretary and treasurer of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America for the last nine years, will resign from those positions Monday night, when the annual spring meeting of the organization is held in the Morrison hotel. Matt, who spent 20 summers at the Ridge Country club here, 20 winters at Gulf Hills in Ocean Springs, Miss., and two winters at the Sarasota Bay, Fla., club, has signed a contract as professional at the Franklin Hills Country club in Detroit. He will report for duty next Saturday. Matteson has been a regular instructor in THE TRIBUNE golf school since its inception.

Cubs, White Sox to Continue Series on North Side Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The third game of the Chicago phase of the Sox-Cubs series is scheduled for Wrigley field this afternoon. The weather man hasn't been too optimistic about the encounter, but if it transpires, Buck Ross will be the starting pitcher for the White Sox and Paul Erickson for the Cubs.

It was 11 degrees colder in Comiskey park at game time yesterday than it was when the opener began in Wrigley field on Thursday. And there wasn't much sun in evidence yesterday, whereas, the rays gave down constantly during the opener.

Ed Lopat, Sox lefty pitcher who is suffering from ear misery, viewed yesterday's Cub-Sox engagement from the warmth of the glass inclosed press box. He expects to be back in action in a few days.

Eddie Carnett, who took over the first basing job at the start of the fifth inning yesterday, indicated he is capable of handling the position such days as Hal Trosky may be suffering from headaches.

John Cole, for 22 years chef and major domo of the Woodland Bards—fourth estate room in Comiskey Park — was spectacularly missing when guests showed up in the recreation center before yesterday's city series game. He has resigned to take a job in an undertaking establishment.

When Andy Pafko, Cub center fielder, showed up late at French Lick he was quoted as scoffing at the need of spring training. Nevertheless he is the strikeout king of the current city series, and by a wide margin.

Manager Jim Dykes, who has been mysterious about his pitcher for the American league opener against the Cleveland Indians in Comiskey park next Tuesday, yesterday said his choice rested between Thornton Lee and Orval Grove. The former would be a good bet to start. Manager Wilson is also undecided regarding his pitching choice for the Cubs' opener. Eddie Hanyzewski and Henry Wyse both are ready to pitch against the Reds. Wyse may be a better bet—he's not so temperamental as Eddie.

Uncle Joe Barry, White Sox traveling secretary who was too ill to go to the training camp in French Lick, attended yesterday's game and looked mighty healthy.

NAME WIDDOES COACH AT OHIO

Assistant to Paul Brown Is Promoted.

Hinkle Still Coach

LT. TONY HINKLE will coach the 1944 Great Lakes Naval Training station football team in addition to serving as station athletic officer, Capt. Robert R. M. Emmet, station commander, announced yesterday.

Hinkle, who coached the Bluejacket eleven the last two seasons, recently was made athletic officer when his predecessor was detached from service at the station. Assisting him as football coach will be Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown, former Ohio State head coach.

Columbus, O., April 14 (AP).—Carroll Widdoes today completed a three year climb from an assistant high school football coach to chief at Ohio State university, one of the nation's largest colleges.

Carroll Widdoes.

Widdoes, 41 year old son of missionary parents who still are in the Japanese occupied Philippine Islands, was named to guide the Buckeyes while Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown is in the navy.

Brown, who brought Widdoes with him to Ohio State from Massillon [O.] High school, received his naval commission Wednesday and will leave for Great Lakes Sunday.

Come from Massillon.

The new coach is the last of those who came to Ohio State from Massillon in 1941 at a time the Buckeye gridiron fortunes were at a low ebb and skyrocketed the Ohioans into the nation's top ranking team in just two seasons. War time calls to service, however, wiped out what had been described as the most promising squad in history and last year's team, consisting of 17 year olds and 4-Fs, won only three of nine games.

The others who came here from Massillon are Fritz Heisler, now in the navy, and Hugh S. McGranahan, who since has resigned.

Widdoes was born in the Philippine Islands and came to this country when he was 13 years old. He attended Otterbein college at Westerville, O., where he won letters in basketball, football, track, and baseball. He became a junior high school coach at Massillon in 1926 and in the fall of 1934 was made assistant football and basketball coach at the senior high school.

Others to Stay.

The new coach said he had not heard directly from his parents since November, 1941. From indirect sources, however, he said he had learned they were interned by the Japs for eight months, but then were released to live at the United Brethren mission.

Widdoes said the three other members of the Ohio State staff would continue on their present assignments—Paul Bixler coaching the ends; Fritz Mackey, the tackles; and Ernie Godfrey, the guards and centers. Widdoes will handle the backs in addition to his supervisory duties.

WEBB HITS WITH BASES FULL TO BEAT FLEMING

North Siders Held to Five Safeties.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who make a specialty of completing their spring training by dusting off the Cubs, did just that yesterday in Comiskey park in the second game of the formal portion of their pre-season city series. The Cubs, altho a bit more stubborn than usual, succumbed, 3 to 2, the American leaguers harvesting the decisive run in a ninth inning flurry for a 2 to 0 edge in the Chicago exhibitions and a 3 to 1 margin if camp games are included.

As was the case in the opener in Wrigley field on Thursday, the Cubs discovered more deception in the Sox pitching than they could handle. For five innings they piled up only four hits against the right elbowing of Orval Grove, and in the last four their feebleness was even more pronounced. They frisked that talented rescuer, Gordon Maltzberger, for only one hit, but it was enough to produce the tying run in the seventh.

Get Six Hits Off Wyse.

The Sox were not especially noteworthy in their attack despite the Cubs' shortage of man power on the mound. They collected six safeties and two runs in seven innings against Hank Wyse, one of two of Jim Wilson's staff members thought to be in working trim. They get their only other hit during a two inning term handled by Bill Fleming, a recent camp invalid, but this hit promoted the winning run. Fleming, however, had made arrangements for trouble by walking two men before an out had been registered.

The only time the Cubs provided a sustained attack was in the fourth, when they scored the first run of the day on three hits. The Sox adopted the same pattern in the fourth except that they scored twice, getting undue aid from an error by Catcher Roy Easterwood. The run with which the Cubs slipped into a 2 to 2 tie in the seventh was similarly tainted. Ival Goodman ripped off his second hit of the day and Skeeter Webb contributed a wild throw.

Webb Redeems His Error.

Fleming invited action in the ninth by walking Tony Cuccinello and Pete Sharp. Tom Turner furnished the customary sacrifice to put the men in scoring position and with the infield drawn in, Maltzberger tapped to Bill Schuster who made the throw to first after noting that Cuccinello had no intentions of trying to score. Ed Carnett was purposely passed filling the bases, whereupon Webb, Luke Appling's successor, redeemed his error. He hoisted a half fly to short left, and Goodman while racing in, managed to get his glove around the ball. But it dropped for a single, Cuccinello registered and the 1,260 paying guests went home.

Grove's choicest bit of pitching came just before he was assessed for a run. He fanned Don Johnson and Phil Cavarretta to start the fourth, whereupon Bill Nicholson exploded a single too hot for Leroy Schalk to handle. Goodman slapped a single past Hal Trosky and the next happening was a passed ball by Turner, the miscue enabling the runners to move to third and second. Nicholson scampered home while Andy Pafko was beating out a hit

KEENELAND RACE MEET OPENS AT DOWNS TODAY

$5,000 Phoenix to Head Inaugural Card.

Louisville, Ky., April 14 (AP).—Kentucky, home of the thorobreds, will open 31 days of horse racing tomorrow at Churchill Downs with the spring meeting of the Keeneland race course, transplanted from Lexington for the second year because of the war.

The seven day Keeneland meeting will be followed by six days of a joint Keeneland-Churchill Downs charity program. The regular Churchill Downs spring meeting will run from May 1 to 20 inclusive, with the 70th annual Kentucky Derby on May 6.

Keeneland's eight race opening program will be featured by the Phoenix handicap, a $5,000 added 6 furlong contest for 3 year olds and upward.

Alfred P. Parker's By Jimminy, the Bradley-bred colt which many experts say is the leading western contender among the probable Kentucky Derby starters, has been entered in the Phoenix against such veterans as Hal Price Headley's Anticlimax.

Anticlimax will carry top weight of 116 pounds tomorrow; Amber Light, 114; Dearborn stable's Samborombon, 113; By Jimminy, 111; Brolite farm's Roman Sox, 108; C. U. Yaeger's Corona Corona, 106; Mrs. J. E. Miller's Traffic Court, 102, and J. E. Meier's Bold Style, 101.

Montgomery Signs to Box in Coliseum

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Bob Montgomery, recognized as lightweight champion by the New York Athletic commission, yesterday was signed to appear in a 10 round bout featuring the first 1944 boxing show in the Chicago Coliseum April 28. Joe Peralta of Tamaqua, Pa., may be his opponent.

Jack Kearns, matchmaker of the Coliseum Boxing club, also has obtained the services of Georgie Parks, Washington, D. C., heavyweight, for an additional 10 round contest on the same card.

Izzy Jannazzo, New York welterweight, had been sought to oppose Tippy Larkin in a supporting bout, but Manager Chris Dundee said in New York last night that the lowest poundage Jannazzo can make is 152. This caused removal from the program of the proposed match.

An opponent for Parks has not yet been signed. Georgie made his debut in this city when he floored Nate Bolden for the count in the Stadium last month.

Montgomery, who retrieved his 135 pound championship claim from Beau Jack on March 3, knocked out Davey Day in a previous Chicago start three years ago. His impending bout here may be his last until after the war for he will enter the army May 3. He was accepted for service after passing his pre-induction test on Wednesday.

DIRECTORS ASK A. B. C. SANCTION FOR ALL MEETS

The executive directors of the American Bowling congress, in their annual meeting in the Sherman hotel yesterday, adopted two resolutions which may have far reaching effect upon post-war tenpin bowling.

The first would require the sanctioning of all singles and doubles tournaments and events whether they are conducted in connection with a team event or not. At present, singles and doubles competition do not require sanctioning unless they are a part of a tournament which includes team participation.

The second would place in the lap of the A. B. C. the entire conduct of its annual tournament. Heretofore the association of the host city has assumed the operation of all phases of the tournament with the exception of the actual bowling and scoring.

GARY WILL PLAY DURSOS TONIGHT FOR OPEN TITLE

Valparaiso university's basketball giants, playing as the Gary Sportsmen, will meet Durso Produce tonight at 9:30 o'clock in the final game of the North Av.-Larrabee Y. M. C. A. open tournament. The Pecks and Thordarson Electrics will play for third place an hour earlier.

In last night's semi-finals, the Gary quintet beat the Pecks, 46 to 40, and the Dursos won from the Thordarsons, 48 to 38. Don Rehfeldt of the Dursos was the top scorer with 27 points, while Bob Dille, one of the nation's top scorers for Valparaiso, scored 14 for the Sportsmen.

STUDENTS' SALES FOR BOND GAME PASS $1,000,000

Chicago high school students' bond sales for the treasury sponsored pre-season baseball game in Wrigley Field Monday between the Cubs and White Sox have already passed the million dollar mark, Don McKiernan, special events manager for the war finance committee, announced yesterday.

To expedite the distribution of the tickets, for which there has been a heavy rush, B. Harrison Neuman of the special events committee has announced that he will keep the treasury office open tomorrow from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. in Room 300 at 105 W. Adams st.

TWO NO-HITTERS MARK CITY PREP LEAGUE'S GAMES

Two no-hit games and Lane's 101st consecutive victory in the north section highlighted yesterday's City league baseball activities.

Dick Beck of Von Steuben and Gene Revell of Crane were the pitchers who turned in the second and third no-hitters of the year. Last Wednesday Ralph Johnson held Hirsch hitless as Fenger triumphed, 13 to 1.

Beck's victim was Sullivan, by a 3 to 0 score. Dick struck out 13 batters and made four hits in as many times at bat. The game was Von Steuben's second victory and Sullivan's third loss in league play.

Strikes Out 15.

Revell struck out 15 while blanking Tuley, 20 to 0. The game went six innings with Joe Lampo hitting a home run in the third with a mate on base. It was the opening league game for both teams.

Lane's victory, which was also its third straight this season, was a 5 to 0 decision over Roosevelt. Gene Giovanetti limited the losers to three hits in addition to striking out 13.

Cubs Held to Five Hits; Sox Triumph, 3-2

to Grey Clarke, who a moment later ended the fling by a neat pickup and throw of a dribble off Tony York's bat.

The Sox's two run fourth would have been far happier for the National leaguers if Easterwood hadn't let John Dickshot's pop foul drop. It should have been the second out. Dickshot made use of the reprieve by singling to left and Wyse plied on distress for himself by walking Trosky who was forced by Ralph Hodgin. Singles by Clarke and Schalk drove Dickshot and Hodgin across the plate for the 2 to 1 Sox lead.

After Maltzberger had dispatched the Cubs hurriedly in the sixth, Goodman blew open the seventh with his double which sailed into right center. Rookie Pafko fanned for the second time. York then tapped to Webb who generously threw wild to Carnett, who had replaced Trosky at first base. Goodman scored the tying run on the error and York took second where he was included in a double play on Schuster's line drive to Sharp. The Sox also did a bit of base running in their half of the same inning. Wyse walked two of them, but in between the gifts Turner flied to Pafko, and Sharp was nipped before he could return to first base.

Wisconsin's Nine Beats Iowa, 7 to 1

Madison, Wis., April 14 [Special].—Bob Eisenach hurled the University of Wisconsin baseball team to a 7 to 1 victory over the University of Iowa in Camp Randall field today as the Badgers opened their Big Ten season.

The veteran Badger right hander allowed the Hawks only four hits in the game which was called at the end of the seventh inning due to cold and rain. The two teams will meet again tomorrow.

IRISH PLAY AT INDIANA.

Bloomington, Ind., April 14 [Special].—Indiana university's baseball team will get its first real test in pre-conference competition tomorrow when it meets Notre Dame in a double header on Jordan field.

It will be the first contest for the Irish, but with 100 men out for baseball this spring and three regulars to build around, they are expected to have one of the best collegiate baseball teams in the country.

CHICAGO VS. FT. SHERIDAN.

The University of Chicago and Fort Sheridan baseball teams each will be after its first victory of the season in their game this afternoon on Greenwood field, 60th st. and Greenwood av.

JUNIOR BOWLING CLASSIC TO GET STARTED TODAY

The fourth annual Junior Bowling Classic conducted by Barney Hochstadter at his Archer-35th Recreation will open at noon today, with the first of 83 entered squads going to the line at noon. They will be shooting at a total purse of $26,560, headed by first prize of $1,500 and a diamond medal. The field in the tournament is a record one, causing Hochstadter to raise the originally announced top prize of $1,000 to its present figure.

The tournament, which is open to bowlers with an average of 185 or less in league play for the last three years, will continue thru tomorrow, after which a recess will be declared until next Saturday. It will continue without interruption from then until the closing session on May 22.

3 WAR PLANTS SEIZED; ASSETS SALE IS HINTED

Defied WLB Wage Raise Orders.

Washington, D. C., April 14 (AP).—Three plants of two war contractors who defied war labor board orders were taken over by the army and navy today on instructions from President Roosevelt who hinted that some of their assets may be sold if necessary to pay retroactive wage increases approved by WLB.

One of the plants involved is that of Jenkins Brothers, Inc., at Bridgeport, Conn. The two others are both at Owensboro, Ky., and are operated by Ken-Rad Tube and Lamp corporation and Ken-Rad Transmitting Tube corporation, which are considered one contractor. The Jenkins plant was taken over by the navy and those of Ken-Rad by the army.

Executive Orders Released.

The White House released executive orders from the President authorizing the seizures and accompanying letters to Secretaries Stimson and Knox of the war and navy departments.

Identical paragraphs in each of the letters said: "I understand that it will take some time to compute the total amount of the retroactive wages due the employes. By the time that is done, however, you should be able to anticipate whether estimated current income will be adequate for that purpose. In the event you should determine that such income will not be adequate, I would appreciate your transmitting to me a report on the other assets of the corporations so far as they are known to you."

General Increase Ordered.

In the case of Ken-Rad, WLB ordered a general increase of 3 cents an hour in rates above 50 cents to approximately 4,000 workers. The order was originally issued July 22, 1943, on petition of the United Automobile Workers [AFL] and made the pay increase retroactive to Sept. 4, 1942. WLB said average pay was 45½ cents an hour with rates ranging from 30 to 70 cents. The company has insisted it cannot afford to pay the increases.

Jenkins Brothers has declined to pay a wage increase of 5 cents an hour granted by WLB on March 1 to 1,750 workers represented by the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers union [CIO].

HOG PRICES DIP ON BIG SUPPLY; MANY HELD OVER

The $13.75 support price, maintained by the war food administration for good to choice 200 to 330 pound hogs, came under heavy pressure at the Chicago stock yards yesterday when packers were unable to buy all the stock shipped in by farmers. Only selected loads of 200 to 260 pound hogs were bought at the price, with 7,000 unsold at the close.

Steady prices were paid for what floor hogs were sold, but other kinds were weak to 25 cents lower.

Cattle prices were weak to slightly lower. Only a few were traded and no top grades were available. Most steers ranged from $13.50 to $15.50. Lambs dipped mostly 25 cents after setting a 15 year April high on Thursday. Best sold at $16.50.

The WFA yesterday reduced from 50 to 40 per cent the quantities of better grade steer and heifer beef which packers operating under federal inspection are required to set aside for government purchase.

RELIEF IN BEEF PRICE SQUEEZE PLEDGED BY OPA

Action to relieve the beef price squeeze will be announced by OPA within a week, John J. Madigan, assistant director of OPA's food price division, said yesterday. OPA has been working on this problem for several weeks, he asserted.

Madigan's announcement was made during a government-industry panel discussion at the conclusion of the National Independent Meat Packers association's annual meeting in the Morrison hotel.

Despite Madigan's assertions, Fred M. Tobin of Rochester, N. Y., the association's new president, sent a telegram addressed to the chairman of the house and senate small business committees, asking a joint hearing of the committees to investigate the price squeeze.

INCREASE IN POSTAL ORDER FEE EXPECTED TO BOOST CHECK USE

Banks expect increased demand for cashier's checks and possibly for checking accounts as a result of the boost in postal money order rates, Harry C. Hausman, secretary of the Illinois Bankers' association, said yesterday. Altho some Chicago banks have advanced the minimum charge for a cashier's check from 10 cents to 15 cents, Hausman said the increase has not been general.

Banks operating pay-as-you-go checking accounts said demand for this service had increased little, altho some increase seemed logical. For this type of service most banks charge 5 cents for each check or each item of deposit entry and require only a nominal, or no minimum balance.

C. & E. I. Post Boatner Goal, Says O'Neal

Charles T. O'Neal, president of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, in a letter to stockholders yesterday charged that the purpose of V. V. Boatner's proxy fight for control of the railroad is Boatner's wish to get on the railroad's pay roll.

Boatner, a director of the road, in soliciting proxies for the election of his own slate of directors, said the management has failed to reduce fixed charges sufficiently, has not paid adequate dividends, and has not operated the road as efficiently as it could have done. He also has charged that the Reconstruction Finance corporation has exerted an improper influence on the road's affairs.

Terms Boatner Charge False.

"Boatner's allegation that the RFC, which owns $10,161,000 of our first mortgage 4 per cent bonds, due in 1967, has interfered with the reduction of the debt of the company is wholly false," O'Neal said.

He asserted that Boatner's proposal last January to refund the bonds was rejected by the directors because it would have meant immediate expenditure of $1,661,000 of treasury cash, which would have weakened the road's financial position and would have made necessary a modification of its dividend policy. It would have substituted serial maturities of $250,000 annually to 1955 when the remaining 5½ millions would become due—12 years before the maturity of the present bonds, he said.

O'Neal Explains Effects.

"The proposal would have replaced the present contingent sinking fund with a larger mandatory amortization which might have become burdensome," O'Neal asserted. "The same debt retirement as proposed in his plan over the next 12 years can be carried out under the optional provisions of the present first mortgage at a lower overall cost to the company."

O'Neal said that altho the terms of the first mortgage bonds are favorable to the company, they will be refunded if a more advantageous plan arises.

"It is the opinion of the management that Mr. Boatner's activities in recent weeks have not reflected favorably on the company and that his real interest in making this contest is his personal desire to obtain a salaried position with the company," O'Neal said.

The proxy battle for the control of the company is expected to take place at the annual meeting to be held in Chicago May 12.

STOCK MARKET PRICES UNEVEN IN SLOW TRADE

New York, April 14 (AP).—A few specialties were prominent in today's stock market, but prices in general were mixed. The volume was the smallest since Oct. 14.

Mild investment demand aided scattered favorites, altho many potential buyers again held aloof or lightened commitments to await more important European events.

BONDS CLOSE MIXED.

New York, April 14 (AP).—Fairly steep gains by selected rail issues marked an otherwise uneven bond market today. Peruvians lost fractionally in a mixed foreign list in Curb bond dealings. United States government issues were steady. Sales at $8,237,200 compared with $9,616,400 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST IRREGULAR.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday were mixed. Of the volume leaders, Libby, McNeill & Libby was down ⅛, and Chicago corporation unchanged. Illinois Brick and Miller & Hart made fraction gains. Masonite rose 1⅛ to 47½, a new 1944 high.

ICKES TOLD U.S. COULD USE HIS ARAB PIPE LINE

Refineries Idle, Oil Inquiry Hears.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—A suggestion that the 1,250 mile pipe line which Petroleum Administrator Ickes proposes to build in Saudi Arabia at a cost of 150 million dollars be laid in this country to supply crude oil to idle plants was made today at a hearing of the Illinois joint legislative petroleum commission.

The proposal came from Rep. Lyle Prescott [R., Dixon], chairman of the commission, after Samuel F. Peterson, state petroleum engineer, testified to idle refining capacity, which he said represents 40,000 barrels a day in Illinois and 218,000 barrels a day in the middle west.

Plenty of Crude Oil Available.

Peterson said that plenty of crude oil is available in Texas and Oklahoma if additional pipe lines or other transportation facilities were available to get it to the refineries with idle facilities. He read into the record a letter in which J. K. Baumel, state director of oil production for Texas, told him that Texas alone could produce an additional 150,000 to 200,000 barrels a day.

The hearing was adjourned this afternoon until next Thursday.

Peterson told the commission that he has been reliably informed that the Roosevelt administration did not marshal the country's oil resources until after Pearl Harbor, altho New Deal leaders anticipated war, at least with Japan, as early as 1935.

Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill [R., Downers Grove], secretary of the commission, asked about the plight of automobile drivers and burners of fuel oil.

Interested in Consumer.

"I'm interested in the consumer and his troubles," Mrs. O'Neill said. "We have had testimony that the government—the office of price administration, I believe it was—refused to raise the price of crude oil. It was said that this refusal might have brought about the conditions that caused the cut to two gallons a week for A card drivers."

Peterson said that a 35 cent a barrel crude oil price raise has been urged by the industry for more than two years. Instead of a raise, however, the administration is talking about a 50 million dollar a year subsidy for operators of stripper wells producing only three to seven barrels a day.

At this point Sen. Nicholas Hubbard [R., Mount Pulaski] remarked: "A 35 cent a barrel boost would have cost the motoring public less than 1 cent a gallon additional for gasoline. There are 20,000 oil producers in the country, but Stabilization Director Vinson refused the raise because 19 producers — the 19 major companies — would make more money if the price went up."

"That's right," agreed Peterson, "and I asked Vinson about the 19,981 other producers, many of whom are being driven to the wall."

All Taxpayers Pay Bill.

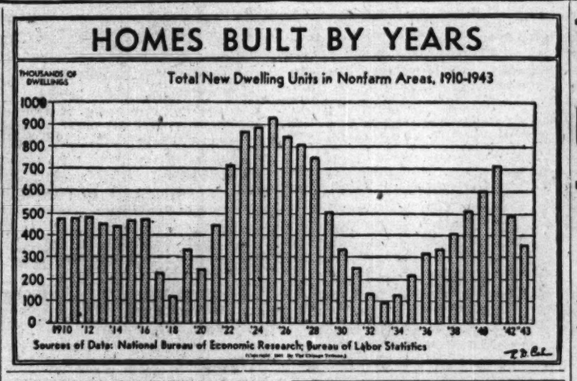
"The point I wish to make," continued Hubbard, "is this: If the price raise had been granted, those who drive automobiles would pay for it. But the New Dealers now want to appease the little producers with a subsidy on seven barrels or less and all the taxpayers will pay the bill. It isn't right, but what do the burocrats and planners care?"

"Wouldn't it help matters for the consumers if the 218,000 barrels a day idle refining capacity in the midwest were put to work?" Atty. George Arthur of Chicago, counsel for the commission, asked Peterson.

"It certainly would," Peterson replied. "Consumption of gasoline in the 15 midwest states comprising district 2 is 19 million gallons a day, and the idle refining capacity is 9,156,000 gallons. The consumption in Illinois, where there is 1,680,000 gallons a day refining potential idle, is 3,250,000 gallons a day."

Rock Island Gets Right to Buy Up Certificates

Authority for trustees of the Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific railroad to buy $5,444,000 of the road's outstanding equipment trust certificates with surplus funds of the line was granted yesterday by Federal Judge Igoe.



SEC Approves Reorganizing of Big Utility

Philadelphia, Pa., April 14 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission today approved reorganization of the Associated Gas and Electric system, subject of bankruptcy proceedings in federal District court of New York since 1940.

Under the compromise plan, submitted last June by trustees for Associated Gas and Electric corporation and Associated Gas and Electric company, the companies will be merged into a surviving corporation to receive the bankruptcy assets and serve as top holding company for operating utilities.

Depends on Creditor Approval.

The plan is a "proposed solution of a maze of litigation in which the apparent priorities and their purported bases in the system history have been attacked," the SEC said. It must be approved by the District court before it is submitted to creditors for acceptance or rejection. Final court confirmation is dependent on creditors' approval.

The only securities receiving priority under the plan are 8 million dollars of Agecorp 8 per cent bonds, due 1940. The surviving company will issue new 4½ per cent debentures and $5 par value common stock to participating security holders of the old companies, borrowing 7½ millions from banks to provide cash.

Others Will Get Common.

Holders of the 8s of '40 will be paid $102.56 plus 4 per cent interest for each $100 principal amount. Other participating security holders will receive common stock. General creditors will receive 2.14 shares for each $100 claim allowed by District court.

Ageco convertible debenture certificates will be given slightly more than one share for each $100 of principal, and one-half for $100 of Ageco's convertible obligations, due 2002, preferred stock and preference stock in the hands of "original holders"—those who converted debenture certificates into their present holdings.

CONGRESS HOTEL TO BE SOLD, RFC AID ANNOUNCES

The Congress hotel, which has been shuttered and empty since the army moved out last June, is again on the market for the highest bidder.

Benjamin A. Mattingly, manager of the Chicago loan agency of RFC, announced that the hotel, operated under a lease by the Michigan-Congress corporation, of which John J. Mack is president, before it was taken over by army air forces has been turned back to the Congress Hotel Annex, Inc., a subsidiary of RFC, and is on the market.

Altho several hotel chains have indicated interest in the property during the last year, only one, the Mack group, has remained active. Mort D. Goldberg, who was vice president of the Michigan-Congress corporation, said he will make an offer to RFC today. He added that RFC is asking $1,500,000 and that his group's offer will be close to that figure.

GRAINS FINISH HIGHER AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Aggressive short covering developed yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade and the market turned higher after an early decline of about ½ cent a bushel. Reports Canada had refused to sell barley for shipment to the United States had some effect on late trading. Active deliveries of wheat gained ⅜ to ½ cent. Oats were up ⅛ to ¼ cent. Rye gained ⅜ to ⅞ cent. Barley finished ¾ to ⅞ cent higher. Trading in May wheat and oats was larger, but both held at ceiling prices.

Questions Reserve Board's Power

San Francisco, Cal., April 14 [Special].—A declaratory judgment against the Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco has been asked by the People's bank of Lakewood Village, Cal., in a suit filed in San Francisco's federal District court. The complaint questions the right of the federal reserve system to withdraw the membership privilege of a state bank because of the ownership of part of the bank's capital stock. In this case the shareholder is the Transamerica corporation, headed by A. P. Giannini.

Condition for Membership Set.

The People's bank alleges that when it was organized two years ago under state laws and sought admission to the reserve system, the system's board of governors in Washington, D. C., stipulated that if Transamerica should subsequently acquire an interest in the bank without the reserve board's prior written approval, then the board could instruct the bank to retire from the reserve system.

Transamerica later acquired a minority interest in the People's bank without seeking or obtaining such permission, the bank said. The bank now asks the court to interpret its membership rights in these circumstances.

Bank Reported Profitable.

At the headquarters of Transamerica corporation, W. L. Andrews, vice president, said it has not been company practice to ask any government official's consent before making an investment. The People's bank has deposits approaching 2 million dollars and is profitably serving Lakewood Village, a new community near Long Beach, a suburb of San Francisco, he said.

The federal reserve board's regulation H on membership of state banks provides that each state member bank affiliated with a holding company shall obtain from that company an agreement that the holding company shall be subject to certain conditions and limitations which apply to holding company affiliates of national banks.

RECORD 154 BILLIONS IN INDIVIDUAL INCOME PREDICTED FOR 1944

Washington, D. C., April 14 (AP).—Americans will receive a record 154 billion dollars this year if present income rates continue and will add nearly 42 billions to the 70 billions they have accumulated in savings in the last three years.

The federal reserve board made this estimate tonight in its monthly bulletin, and said that payment of taxes and expenditures for the available supply of goods and services would take only 73 cents of every dollar.

The board said there was no indication the surplus dollars were being used to bid actively for goods and ascribed it primarily to controls over prices and purchases "combined with a public realization of the importance of saving rather than spending."

This year's record income payments would compare with a 1943 total of slightly below 142 billion dollars.

Help Industry at Home First, U. S. Is Urged

Uncle Sam never has played the role of Shylock and should not begin to play Santa Claus for the whole world because of serious risk to American production and employment, Fredric E. Schluter, president of the Thermoid company, Trenton, N. J., told stockholders in his annual report yesterday. He is a candidate for delegate to the Republican national convention.

"We all favor a certain amount of international coöperation on a basis of equitable consideration for American products, but business management in America is asking about the limits to be expected in the advocacy of 'economic' internationalism and 'free trade,'" he said. "We have American standards of living and wage standards to protect in competition with foreign markets after the war."

Expects Larger Ratio.

Schluter said that before the war American genius and mechanization processes enabled management to compete in foreign markets against foreign labor which received only 25 to 50 per cent of American wages, but asserted it was probable that the wage differential between the United States and foreign nations may be even larger after the war.

Schluter also said the heavy tax load thrown largely on business and production by pre-war spending and by the war must be considered. This big burden will raise the cost of producing goods for the world market as well as for home consumption, he asserted.

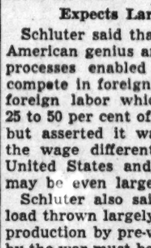
Asks Less Regulation.

"The necessity for the further expansion of our free American enterprise system is the obligation of business management," he said. "Our government should do everything to aid production and employment by creating a favorable business atmosphere and to assure lower taxes and less regulation after the war."

Schluter said the company's sales were at a record $21,685,676 in 1943.

FLEMING HEADS RESERVE CITY BANKERS' GROUP

Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National bank, Washington, D. C., was elected president of the Reserve City Bankers' association yesterday in the Edgewater Beach hotel. He succeeds Mark A. Brown, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank.



Robert V. Fleming.

Walter Kasten, president of the First Wisconsin National bank, Milwaukee, Wis., was elected vice president.

12 GROUPS FILE OBJECTIONS TO TRACTION PLAN

Bondholders Assail Latest Proposals.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Numerous objections to latest proposals for reorganization and consolidation of Chicago's surface and elevated lines were outlined yesterday in the federal District court of Judge Michael L. Igoe, who exercises control of the two companies in receivership.

William P. Sidley, attorney, who headed the committee that formulated the plan under court order, said 12 sets of objectors had filed exceptions. Some of them were:

1. First mortgage bondholders of the surface lines should not be required to accept guaranteed interest of only 2 per cent, plus 2 per cent more if earned, inasmuch as they are getting 5 per cent now.

Junior Bondholders Dissatisfied.

2. Junior surface lines bondholders believe they were given too little under the plan, in comparison with what was granted elevated investors and surface line seniors.

3. The "L" investors do not believe they were given a fair deal in comparison with surface lines bondholders.

4. Nothing should be done toward reorganization by the court until the city's plan to merge the properties under municipal ownership has been completed.

Last June the Illinois commerce commission rejected a plan for consolidating the two companies with a paper capital of 179 million dollars on grounds it was unsound financially and gave no reasonable promise of better service.

Mayor Advocates Merger Plan.

Last October Mayor Kelly advocated a merger under municipal ownership. Under this scheme the city has offered the investors a total of 94 millions, 11 to "L" and 83 millions to surface line bondholders, if and when the city can sell securities for the necessary amount.

Judge Igoe has said he favors the municipal ownership plan if it can be worked out, but ordered the private ownership plan revised in the hope some scheme may be developed to satisfy the ICC, which has announced itself ready to consider any feasible plan.

Attorneys William J. Friedman and Henry F. Tenney, members of the Sidley committee, have said in court that, altho they followed the court order in making and amending the new plan, they consider it unfair to the surface lines' first mortgage holders and will argue for their clients.

List Division Under New Plan.

Under the new plan the surface lines' first mortgage investors would receive nearly 73 millions of the "2 plus 2" per cent bonds and surface line juniors would split 636,000 shares of common stock. Elevated first mortgage owners would receive 7 millions of 4 per cent income bonds and "L" juniors would split 360,165 common shares.

Judge Igoe continued the hearing to May 4, when testimony by witnesses and oral arguments on the amended plan will be heard. Meanwhile the city attorneys are drawing a municipal ownership ordinance.

LEWIS DEMANDS MINERS RECEIVE BACK WAGE NOW

Washington, D. C., April 14 (AP).—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, tonight demanded prompt payment of 18 million dollars in retroactive portal-to-portal pay to the soft coal miners. He charged a conspiracy to defraud the miners exists and warned that they are becoming "increasingly angry at the failure of their government to redeem its promise."

Lewis made his demand in a letter to Secretary of the Interior Ickes and implied the government is obligated to require immediate payment of the money. He calculated the sum on the basis of $40 a miner, the terms on which he agreed to write off the underground travel time claim for April, May and June. These terms are part of a UMW contract with 75 per cent of the operators which is now awaiting war labor board action.

Rothbart Bid on Shoreland Hotel Refused by Court

Judge Graber of Superior court yesterday rejected a bid of $1,325,000 by Edward Rothbart, attorney for undisclosed clients, for the 14 story Shoreland hotel, 5454 South Shore dr. He ordered the next highest bid of $1,300,000, made by Harry M. Kroon and Hyman J. Rosenberg, said to represent a New York syndicate, be submitted to the security holders. The Rothbart bid was turned down because it contained conditions not approved by the court.

Farm Machine Output Rises, Deere Reports

With the gradual increase in manufacture of farm equipment authorized by the war production board, Deere & Co.'s implement output in 1944 "will approximate average annual production," Burton F. Peek, president, told stockholders in his annual report yesterday. The statement also disclosed all sales during the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 set a new high record, 41 per cent larger than in the preceding year, but a decrease in profit was shown as a result principally of larger provision for federal taxes.

"Even tho the company experienced cutbacks, schedule revisions, and terminations, the production of war material amounted to approximately 125 million dollars, or 66⅔ per cent of the company's total business," Peek wrote.

Will Cut War Output.

"Present indications are that for the 1944 fiscal year production of war material will be materially reduced, while production of farm implements will increase."

Claims resulting from termination of war contracts on Oct. 31, 1943, totaled $1,238,787, Peek said, and prior to April 1, 1944, agreement had been reached for the settlement of $837,657 of these claims.

"New implements, now appearing, which will be on the market after the war, include field hay choppers, pickup presses, mechanical sugar beet harvesting equipment, self-propelled combines, cotton pickers, cotton strippers, and new specialized equipment for smaller farms," Peek said.

Earns $3.14 a Share.

Net sales in the 1943 fiscal year totaled $188,145,917, compared with $133,513,651 the year before. Net income, after providing a reserve for renegotiation of war contracts, and a contingency reserve of $1,225,270, amounted to $11,637,964, equal to $3.14 a common share. In the 1942 period, net income, after reserving $1,746,245 for contingencies, was $12,709,426, or $3.51 a share.

Provision last year for income taxes and renegotiation of contracts, which were combined in one item, totaled $33,492,559 net. In 1942, income taxes took $13,895,807.

QUIT CASUALTY BOARD OVER RFC, SAYS WITNESS

Vernon F. Taylor, president of Peerless Gas and Oil company, San Antonio, Tex., testified in federal District court yesterday that he resigned as a director of Maryland Casualty company in protest against approval of a plan whereby the casualty company sold the Reconstruction Finance corporation 12½ million dollars of preferred stock. He said he considered the plan unfair to common stockholders, because the company was in good financial position and did not need the money.

Illinois Power Declares $1 Dividend on Preferred

The Illinois Power company yesterday declared a dividend of $1 a share on the 5 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock payable June 1. Of the amount, 62½ cents was the current quarterly dividend and 37½ cents was on arrearages.

NELSON NAMES PEACE OUTPUT ADVISORY UNIT

Bid Is Turned Down by N. A. M. Head.

Washington, D. C., April 14 (AP).—Chairman Nelson of the war production board today disclosed his program for planning post-war reconversion "in the gold fish bowl of public opinion" by naming a civilian cross-section committee which will review all industry proposals for returning to production of civilian goods.

William J. Kelly of Chicago named on committee.

The committee was born in dissent, however, for Robert M. Gaylord, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, who was invited as a management representative, declined in a letter asserting that "repeated experience in recent years has shown that committees of this nature are ineffective."

"At the risk of appearing rude to you, I feel compelled to decline membership," Gaylord said.

Will Represent Various Groups.

The permanent committee will have representation from labor, management, public opinion, agriculture, consumers, banking and finance, and the distribution trades.

Nelson said representatives of each industry will consult with WPB and prepare recommendations for the resumption of civilian production when it becomes feasible.

"These reports will be handed to the new committee for its advice, and will be made available to the press at the same time," Nelson explained. "I want these things to be done in the goldfish bowl of public opinion. I want them done in a way that will be fair to labor, to the consumer, and to the managements of the companies affected."

The new group, named the WPB advisory committee on civilian policy, will provide machinery for obtaining the view of each segment of the nation's economy on every major reconversion plan, Nelson said.

"I disagree with Gaylord," he asserted. "I think this committee will be extremely effective. I am sorry he didn't accept because I have confidence in his opinions."

Offers N. A. M. Aid.

Gaylord offered to help WPB at any time by bringing to Washington industry's viewpoint insofar as the N. A. M. represents it.

"I am not taking the committee membership because repeated experience in recent years has shown that committees of this nature are ineffective," he wrote Nelson. "They cannot adequately represent the different sections of the economy, and the problems they have to consider are so complex that it is impossible for them to reach an agreement on anything but very general or relatively unimportant subjects."

The announced members of the committee are Eugene Meyer, editor and publisher of the Washington Post; Gordon Rentschler, board chairman, National City bank, New York; Eric Johnston, president, Chamber of Commerce of the United States; Philip Murray, president, CIO; William J. Kelly, president, Kelly O'Leary Steel Works, Chicago, and president of the Machinery and Allied Products institute; William Green, president, AFL; Miss Ruth O'Brien of the bureau of human nutrition and home economics, department of agriculture.
